New Club Organized to Further Forensic Arts

Forward Step Seen As Several Clubs Are Consolidated

Alva Harsh Chosen Temporary Chairman; Miss Rebekah
Shaeffer Adviser

ALPHA HALL, Sept. 27.—At a meeting of students here today, a club was organized for the purpose of furthering Forensic Arts.

There has long been a movement on foot to group all activities allied with the Forensic Arts under one main head. The two debating societies and the extempore speakers together with the students who compete in oratorical contests will form the new club. By operating as a unit it was pointed out that overhead expenses could be cut down and a more efficient organization could be effected. In addition to these things the matter of schedules would be greatly simplified because of the fact that the men's and women's debating associations will now be able to act as a unit. Eventually it is hoped that the Forensic Arts Club will ally itself with a national forensic organization.

Mr. Harsh, a senior who is much interested in the work, was named the temporary chairman by the group plans have already been laid for the writing of the constitution.

Sock and Buskin Admits Nine New Members

INITIATION OCTOBER 18

CHAPEL, Oct. 4.—At an open tryout here today nine new members were chosen by the members of the Sock and Buskin to fill positions in that organization. Only upper classmen were permitted to enter the trials. Alva Harsh, Margaret Sechrist, Nevin Zuck, Ruth Eskelman, Jacob Brubaker, Ruth Groff, Mabel Longenecker, Paul Herr and Helen Ott were the ones selected. Initiation of the new members will take place at the home of the club advisor, Miss Shaeffer, on Wednesday evening, October 18. All the former members of the club, especially those that are not now attending college, are invited to be present at the initiations.

The constitution of the Sock and Buskin provides for twenty-three regular members. Because a number of these students graduate or leave school each year it is necessary to take in new material to bring the membership quota to the desired number. During the first semester certain upperclassmen are chosen while during the second the new members are recruited from the Freshman Class.

Program; Faculty Reception

STUDENT BODY PRESENT

CHAPEL, Sept. 14.—Elizabethtown College officially opened its school year here tonight with the annual convocation exercises. Dr. Kiracofe, Head of the Department of Education, gave the principle address of the evening immediately after the invocation by the Rev. Samuel Hertzler, president of the Board of Trustees, and a few remarks by Dr. Schlosser, the president of the college. Included in the program, which was followed by the faculty reception of the students, was a vocal solo, The Lotus Blossom, by Leroy Metzler, a student of the college, and a piano selection by Mrs. E. G. Meyer. Dr. H. K. Ober, pastor of the local Church of the Brethren, pronounced the benediction.

Dr. Kiracofe's address, Academic Rights and Privileges, included six salient points: the privilege of coming more fully into the heritage of the race, the privilege of labor, the privilege to be free and serve, the

LOCAL BOY MAKES GOOD

The directors of the Elizabethtown schools have chosen Mr. Vere Bishop, an Elizabethtown resident and graduate of Elizabethtown College '33, to fill a vacancy in the Science Department of the local high school.

While in college Mr. Bishop gained notoriety as a lexicographer, having on more than one occasion assigned meanings to words that would have made Dr. Johnson look like a piker.

Fall Outing Held At Mount Gretna; Program Thwarted

Student Associations

SKATING RINK CLOSED

MOUNT GRETTA, Oct. 7.—The annual fall outing of the Elizabethtown College student body was held here today. A general feeling prevails that the affair was not as successful as expected and a keen analysis of the events that transpired seems to indicate that the Student Associations were merely figureheads and that plans were made and altered without consulting the president of the Men's Student Association thereby placing him in a very embarrassing position and consequently calling forth much undeserved criticism of his actions.

Due to some hitch in the planning of the event, roller skating facilities were not available. The Student Associations were not ignorant of this fact and had already planned other activities for the day. A baseball game was the main feature of the morning program. Dr. Schlosser, president of the college, and

Social Events Mark Opening Week on Hill

The first week of school at Elizabethtown College was marked by a series of social events sponsored by the Student Associations and the Y's. Monday evening a get-acquainted gathering in the gymnasium started the parade. Games and refreshments afforded the new students an opportunity to become acquainted with one another. Tuesday afternoon found the students in the reception room drinking their first tea of the season. The room was attractively decorated for the occasion with fall flowers and pretty tea sets. Some rounds were then started and a pleasant hour ensued during which the rooms of Alpha Hall echoed with everything from hymns to popular music. In the evening a hike to Keener's Park, two miles east of Elizabethtown, together with games and refreshments in the woods, culminated the activities for the day.

Campus night, an annual celebration, was held on Wednesday evening by Lake Flacida. Miss Lydia Wagner, president of the Women's Student Association, presided. Talks were given by Mr. Kenneth Senior, head of the Men's Student Association, Professor Musick, and Prof. Saylor. After some singing by the

Sixty - Eight Freshmen From Thirty-Seven High Schools Begin Fall Term

Thirty-two Men, Thirty-six Women Comprise Second Largest Class in College History;
Scholastic Rating High

ELIZABETHTOWN, Sept. 18.—Reports from Dean A. C. Baugher show that a class of sixty-eight Freshmen, representing thirty-seven High Schools, has enrolled for the 1933-34 term at Elizabethtown College. The class, which includes five members who won scholarships in the competitive examinations held here last fall, is one of the largest ever to enter the institution. It was exceeded only in 1928 when the Freshman Class had seventy-one members. It was, however, equalled in 1929 when the new entrants totaled sixty-eight.

In addition to a high numerical standing the class also has a good scholastic rating. Many of its members coming from the upper quarter of their high school classes; quite a few of these were honor students.

In view of the fact that many colleges are reporting a decrease in enrollment, this year's large class would seem to indicate that Elizabethtown College is offering a type of curriculum that appeals to a great many persons aspiring to a liberal arts or science degree. It is hoped that the practice begun last year of awarding several scholarships on a competitive basis can be continued. The originators of the plan believe that it will serve a twofold purpose: it will aid deserving students get through college who might otherwise be denied the privilege and it will be of benefit to the scholastic rating of the student body by tending to generally raise the standards of the college.

BOARD OF CONTROL ABROGATES COLLEGE TIMES CONSTITUTION

New Policies Have Been Outlined; Election of Editor

PROF. L. D. ROSE FIGURES

ELIZABETHTOWN, Oct. 2.—At the first meeting of the Board of Control of Our College Times a motion to abrogate the former constitution and to effect an entirely new organization was unanimously carried. Led by Prof. L. D. Rose, chairman, the Board made a thorough investigation of the deficiencies of the former system. Steps were immediately taken to write another constitution and to reorganize on an entirely new basis.

The new constitution was written and approved by the board September 20. On the following day it was recommended to the faculty of Elizabethtown College, which body also moved its acceptance.

Important features of the new constitution include a system of promotion by merit and the abolition of the popular election of the Editor and the Business Manager. There has long been a feeling that there is something lacking in the way of selecting the various members of ELIZABETHTOWN, Oct. 10.—All the classes and two clubs at Elizabethtown College have organized for the coming year. Eight clubs had effected their organization last June; the Glee Clubs have not yet named their new officers.

Kenneth Senior, a science student and prominent Sigma Zeta man, was chosen as president of the Senior Class by a wide margin. Lester Bucher was made vice-president, while Anna Reese and Harry Saylor will fill the positions of secretary and treasurer.

A. Stauffer Curry, a Junior day student from Palmyra, was selected to lead that class as president. Eby Espenshade was named vice-president; Mary Brumbaugh, secretary, and Harry Smith, treasurer.

The Sophomores proffered the presidency to Nevin Zuck. Paul Herr as vice-president, Harriet Curry as secretary and Dorothy Bucher as treasurer, constituted the remaining officers.

Donald Royer, a Denver High graduate, was named by the Frosh as president, while Mary Hess was made vice-president; Leah Musser, secretary, and Elwood Lentz, treasurer.

LET'S PLANT SOME IVY.

The fact that many of the traditions so cherished at other schools do not exist at Elizabethtown College has frequently been pointed out as a decided detriment to our institution. Some Freshmen have been known to openly lament that they have not been subjected to various well known penalties: "No dinks, no matches to carry for upperclassmen; what a college!" Sophomores deplore the fact that they are not given the authority to enforce these highly important regulations.

Along with some parallel examples, this attitude reveals the powerful human tendency to copy established customs, however ridiculous they may be. An air of glory attends that which we have not. Strawberry Hill intrigued Walpole; the millionaire has been known to build a log cabin within his limestone mansion; the French go to London and the English to Paris. What is the reason for all this?

Does the black ribbon-like cravat make the artist, the long hair the musician? If they do, our lack of traditions can easily be remedied: Let's plant some ivy. Let's appoint a committee to carefully study the most ancient and time honored traditions of Old World Universities. And by simply incorporating their findings into our legends, in a few short years we can boast of centuries of cherished rites; our ivy mantled buildings will bear mute evidence of our genuineness. Elizabethtown will soon become a Mecca for young colleges wishing to capture a school's most elusive worth.

This plan we respectfully submit to those individuals who are blind to the traditions that we have surrounding us at present. We are different, of course; if we are dissatisfied—Let's plant some ivy.

ON PROBATION.

In order to forestall any questions that may arise concerning the unusually small editorial staff at work for OUR COLLEGE TIMES, be it known that there are several members of the student body who are working in the capacity of reporters, and that some of this number will eventually be assigned regular positions on the staff. By this system, a fair competitive trial is given each applicant and only interested, capable persons become staff members.

The work of these probationary reporters is sincerely appreciated. Their interest contributes in no small measure, to the general welfare of the paper. The altruistic attitude shown by their willingness to labor without promise of reward is a thing that we all might do well to note—and if the opportunity presents itself—to copy.

A PLEASURE.

The staff of OUR COLLEGE TIMES has met with so many pleasant surprises during the course of the opening work that we cannot refrain from expressing our gratitude to those persons who have cooperated in effecting measures through which our work could be expedited.

In particular do we want to thank Prof. L. D. Rose, chairman of the Board of Control, who has so thoroughly and efficiently investigated our needs and who has spared no effort to satisfy them.

To work, with everyone cooperating in this manner, is nothing short of a pleasure.

WAGNER ELECTED TO SIGMA ZETA VACANCY

Saylor Appoints Committees

ELIZABETHTOWN, Sept. 26.—Mr. Melvin Wagner, laboratory assistant in Biology, was elected secretary-treasurer of the Theta chapter of the Sigma Zeta at a meeting held in the Science building at noon here today. The election of Mr. Wagner fills the vacancy caused by John Good, former secretary-treasurer, who failed to return to school this fall.

Harry Saylor, president of the local chapter, named the following committees: Program, Prof. Shortess, Eby Espenshade, Cyrus Krall; Membership, Lester Bucher, Kathryn Cassel, Leroy Eshelman; special committee to prepare constitutional booklet, Kenneth Senior, James Nedrow, Martha Groff, Ruth Eshelman, and Prof. Shortess.

STUDENT ASSOCIATIONS SUPERSEDE Y'S AS SOCIAL DIRECTORS

Week-end Party Banned

The Men's and Women's Student Associations will take charge of the social activities at Elizabethtown College which will include an extensive program of parties and social gatherings. This work has hitherto been carried on by the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. The reason for the change in the policy has not been given.

In addition to the events that have already transpired the Associations are planning further functions which will in all probability include a Hallowe'en Social, a Christmas Banquet as well as several novel events to be later worked out in detail. For reasons that the press was not able to discover the Week-end party held by the Boarding Students for the pleasure of the Day Students, will not be scheduled this year. It is supposed by some that undesirable elements which attended this function last year have something to do with the discontinuance of the event.

Mr. Kenneth Senior, fraternity man and popular leader of the day-students, is the chairman of the Men's Student Association; Harry Smith is treasurer and the position of secretary is vacant due to the absence from school of Mr. John Good, who was elected to this post last year. Miss Lydia Wagner heads the Women's Association; Miss Ruth Dittenbaugh is its treasurer and Ruth Longenecker the secretary.

FORMER STUDENT WINS VALUABLE SCHOLARSHIP

Mr. Dallas Beachley, 1304 State Street, Harrisburg, a former student of Elizabethtown College was recently awarded a valuable scholarship to the Cincinnati College of Music. To receive the award Mr. Beachley had to compete with thirty other musicians from twenty-four different states.

Beachley was a student of Elizabethtown in the 1929-30 term. While here he studied harmony and frequently appeared on Chapel programs. He was also named by the

= From Here and There =

There is no doubt that this year's Freshman Class will accomplish things. Edward Lander, one of its free-thinkers, is already delving into the problem of how old one is when he is born.

Aim high and hit the mark must be the motto of the Freshman boy who dropped a knife upon someone's head while removing dishes between courses.

We believe that the girls who wear the red ribbons around their legs would create a better impression by telling us what they are for rather than have us guess.

Several of the men students are interested in knowing how to become members of those notorious sororities, the P. W. and the O. H. S.

"Curiosity is one form of feminine bravery," writes Victor Hugo. This will excuse the girls who recently peeped through the transom while the health committee was inspecting the halls.

The Freshmen boys complain that someone tried to paint them with iodine during a certain night last week. We merely say that sound sleepers are not troubled with nightmares.

Several ardent objectionists to capital punishment have been known to reverse their decision upon hearing the new trombonist that the Freshman Class brought with it.

"FIRST CAST THE BEAM OUT OF THINE OWN EYE"

Dear Editor:

Some of the events that have recently transpired make me very eager to hear some comment upon the expediency of student conduction of chapel programs. Judging by the general attitude of the participants in these programs, a note of sincerity seems to be lacking.

Recently it came to my attention that a girl who had given a talk on the program for the Y. W. C. A., was observed in chapel, reading during another program conducted by another group. The fact that prayers were being offered and hymns were being sung seemed not to deter her from her obviously more interesting task.

Personally I more admire the individual who cuts chapel when he has to study more than the one who goes to chapel and turns it into a study hall.

When incidents of this kind are observed it occurs to us that we are being imposed upon when we are asked to listen to speakers who neither heed nor practice what they recommend.

REV. L. C. T. MILLER IS CHAPEL SPEAKER

CHAPEL, Sept. 29.—A very appropriate talk was given in Chapel here today by Rev. L. C. T. Miller, pastor of the Reformed Church of Elizabethtown. His subject: What It Means to Go to School, apparently interested all the students.

Along with his talk, Rev. Miller quoted Dr. Edwards, the Headmaster of Mercersburg Academy, and gave his outline of the purpose of school: To mark trails that lead to the heights and to leave behind the mists of ignorance; to feel the thrill of the far horizon and the wide sky; to rest in the mutual trust of guide and comrade; to realize that these rough, grey, old peaks of truth have weathered all the storms; to understand the sky and the forest, blue hills and shining water, hum of bees and song of brooks, light of stars and that of man, make one noble, solemn, and wonderful whole . . . that is what it means to go to school.

With the hope that many of the students will be encouraged to purchase their 1933-34 copy of the Etonian within the next few days, the publishers are announcing a graduated price scale. The cash price payable immediately is $2.50. For $1.50 now and the balance upon delivery the price is $2.75. The price is $3.00 for those who order now and wish to pay upon delivery. Students are urged to purchase and order immediately if they desire books because of the fact that only enough will be printed to fill the orders that have been taken.

COACH HERR OPTIMISTIC DESPITE DEARTH OF MATERIAL

PROSPECTS FOR A GOOD GIRLS' TEAM VERY BRIGHT WHILE PROSPECTS FOR BOYS' TEAM ONLY FAIR

BUCHER, ONLY VARSITY MAN, INCAPACITATED

ELIZABETHTOWN, Oct. 10.—"Prospects for a good girls basketball team are very bright, while prospects for the boys team are only fair. Hopes for a good boy's team lie in the type of players that can be produced from the new students. After all, the success of the team will depend upon the spirit and enthusiasm of the girls and fellows who play."

These statements, in a few words, express Coach Herr's opinion regarding our athletes and athletic teams.

The genial coach is enthusiastic over the prospective girl's team. Six letter girls are back: Ruth Dffenbaugh, Martha Groff, Mary Brumbaugh, Harriet Curry, Ruth Eshelman, and Mabel Longenecker. This means that the coach has only to locate several reserve players to fit in with his crack team of last year. "There is every reason to believe that the girls will play some fine basketball during the coming season."

Regarding the outlook for the boys team, the coach is neither downhearted nor pessimistic, nor is he predicting a championship team. Those who saw the boy's team of last year in action realize that Elizabethtown was represented by a fine aggregation. Lester Bucher, the only letterman who has returned to school, will not play because of his weakened physical condition as a result of an operation he was obliged to undergo this summer. His absence necessitates the building up of an entirely new combination of players. If promising men can be located among the new students there are yet hopes that we will have a good season.

The Coach has not yet decided when he will start basketball practice but it is expected that he will start a little earlier than usual because of the lack of veteran material and the expected difficulty in seeding out the green candidates who are trying to gain a berth on the new aggregation.

privilege for training for the right use of leisure time, the privilege of enlarging one's horizon, and finally, the privilege of establishing a truer sense of values. Along with these points Dr. Kiracofé expounded the fact that an excuse is a confession of failure and that the great men of history had in their possession perfect alibis for failure that they never used. This clear cut analysis of college life was concluded with the challenge that we put first things first and trust in the eternal God to guide our footsteps in the right use of these privileges.

The faculty reception which followed the exercises was an informal affair designed to increase the acquaintance between the students and the faculty. The social hour, with refreshments and lively conversation, awakened the dormant enthusiasm of the old students and made the new ones eager for their first year of campus life.

FALL TENNIS TOURNAMENT IN FULL SWING; FIRST ROUND MATCHES REVEAL MUCH NEW MATERIAL

SHERRICK, MAC DONALD REACH SEMI-FINALS

ELIZABETHTOWN, Oct. 9.—The annual fall tennis tournament at Elizabethtown College was entered by sixteen players representing all four classes. The initial matches were played on September 27, beginning the fight to determine the champion of the college. It is expected that all the matches will be completed before the cold weather begins.

Ray Sherrick, number one man on last years team, came through with an easy victory over Hoffman by the scores 6—0, 6—1. Another veteran of last year's crop, Johnny Weaver, was not so successful. He was decisively beaten by Lander, a Freshman, by the scores 6—3, 6—0. Curry and J. Miller played a close set in which the former was the victor 2—6, 7—5, 6—4. Smith defeated Hershman 6—2, 8—6, while MacDonald laced Trimble 6—0, 6—0.

Later results show that Sherrick and MacDonald have successfully withstood the onslaught and both are qualified to enter the semi-finals.

PAMAHASIKA'S EDUCATED PETS TO PERFORM HERE OCTOBER 14

Unique Lyceum Number Will Be First of Series Sponsored By Y's;
Four More Numbers to be Included in Course

Forty performing birds and animals, in an all star production valued at $20,000 will open the lyceum course sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. of Elizabethtown College. The entertainment will begin at eight o'clock, Saturday evening, October 14.

Prof. Pamahasika, who has recently completed his third tour of the United States and Canada, has arranged an attractive entertainment which does not lack definite educational value. He claims to have trained his pets, not with the whip, but through kindness. The result is a feast of fun that cannot help leaving a clear conscience, a smiling face, and a happy heart.

The pets include Ruffy, the famous somersaulting monkey, Commodore, the pony with the human mind, Bicycling Birds, Arabian Doves, Aerial Parrots, Japanese Pigeons, Australian Sulphur-Crested Cockatoos, highly colored Giant Brazilian Macaw birds, Rosa Cockatoos, and performing dogs.

The remaining numbers on the lyceum course include: Judge George Alden, lecturer, November 9; the Petrie Novelty Quintet, January 18; the Davies Light Opera Singers, February 2; and Anna Varner Baker, March 9.

NEW FURNISHINGS PRESENTED FOR COLLEGE CHAPEL

Rev. Samuel Hertzler Receives
Gifts for Trustees

CHAPEL, Oct. 10.—During the regular chapel service of the Elizabethtown College here today several gifts of chapel furnishings were presented to Reverend Samuel Hertzler as president of the Board of Trustees, by the representatives of the several organizations which had donated the pews, the pulpit and chancel. This equipment had been installed during the summer months.

Miss Effie Shank, spokesman for the Elizabethtown Business and Professional Women's Club, which had presented the pulpit, reviewed the desire of the club to aid the college. She also expressed her gratitude for the services that the college had rendered the club.

The Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A., the donors of the pews, were represented by Miss Winifred Shallenberger, the president of the Y. W. C. A. Miss Shallenberger emphasized the fact that the giving of the gifts was made possible only through the efforts of the students of former years that had laid the foundation for the fund.

The chancel which was presented by several members of the faculty was not presented formally. notwithstanding this fact, however, Reverend Hertzler accepted it along with the rest of the gifts.

Prior to the presentations, President Schlosser spoke on the subject of the significance of the chapel programs.

FALL OUTING HELD AT MOUNT GRETTA PROGRAM THWARTED

Dr. Kiracofe, head of the Department of Education, played leading roles in the contest.

In the meantime, Mr. Kenneth Senior, the head of the Men's Student Association, had been prevailed upon by several students who had been keenly disappointed with their having been deprived of the opportunity to go roller skating, to ask Dr. Schlosser's permission to go to Lebanon where facilities were available for the sport on one of the rinks at that place. It was understood at the time, however, that the permission could not be obtained. The matter was then dropped and plans were taken up to go on a hike immediately after lunch which was scheduled to be served at noon. Most of the students, under the stimulus of food, forgot their initial disappointment and the coming hike was viewed with a somewhat rejuvenated enthusiasm.

The lunch having been completed, the head of the Men's Student Association headed the procession and the hike was begun. Just as it got underway, however, it was announced from somewhere that permission had been obtained to go roller skating at Lebanon.

Unfortunately this bit of news had a very disastrous effect on the hike. Many of the participants reversing their decision to climb Mount Governor Dick, left the party to go to Lebanon. Somewhat dejected at the loss of many of their companions, a few persons continued the hike while several of them, disappointed with the happenings, went home. Mr. Senior was obviously much distressed with the new turn that the events had taken. It is generally understood that no one had consulted him before changing the plans, despite the fact that he is the elected head of one of the organizations sponsoring the affair.

The group that went to Lebanon is alleged to have had a good time while opinions vary as to the success of the hike. Many students, when questioned by the press, openly revealed the fact that they were rather disappointed with the affair and that there seemed to be a general lack of management and organization of the activities that were supposed to compose the program.

Elizabethtown College Joins Lancaster County N. R. A. Demonstration

Faculty and Student Body Meet Elizabethtown Contingency at Lancaster for Big Parade

LANCASTER, Oct. 16.—Elizabethtown College was represented by approximately 100 students and 12 faculty members at the N. R. A. demonstration here today. This representation was made possible by a decision that the Board of Trustees passed last August. In this decision the Board decided, after due consideration, that the management of the college would conform with the N. R. A. code governing the work of the institution. In order to further carry out the plan it was recommended that the college participate in the demonstration along with the rest of the schools of Elizabethtown.

The Elizabethtown contingency met at the East Junior High School in Lancaster. The group was skillfully whipped into formation by the presidents of the student associations. The parade wended its way through the heart of Lancaster among cheering spectators. It appeared from the preparations being made that everyone would be parading, but although 30,000 did actively participate, many thousands remained to crowd sidewalks and hang out of third story windows.

The parade moved up East King

Hallowe'en Social for Oct. 31 Planned by Student Organizations

A joint meeting of the Student Councils and Student Associations was held to prepare for a Hallowe'en Party. This social is scheduled to take place on Tuesday night, October 31, in the gymnasium.

Mr. Kenneth Senior, President of the Men's Student Association presided over the meeting. Plans were discussed and committees were appointed by the Presidents of the Men's and Women's Student Associations. (Continued on page four)

WEEKLY CLASS FOR STAFF INSTRUCTION CONDUCTED BY TIMES

COBAUGH HEADS GROUP

Under the leadership of the new editor, Ray Cobaugh, the staff of Our College Times has instituted the custom of holding meetings for the instruction of staff members. The main phases of journalism, including theory, methods, arrangements, and objectives together with printing, type, and head-writing are dealt with at some length.

Two meetings of this nature have already been held. At the first, Mr. Cobaugh stressed the high points of writing and pointed out the Bible, Shakespeare, and Dickens, as models of conciseness, lexicon, and narration. At the second meeting, the fabrication of the newspaper itself was considered along with the various kinds of type and the structure of the head lines. The purpose of the lectures is to make the staff members more proficient and to generally raise the standards of the paper.

It was further pointed out that "the full cooperation of the staff members is necessary to put the idea across and that any criticism of the paper that is made to the various reporters can be dealt with in the meetings."

"Servant in the House" Chosen by Seniors for Annual Dramatic Project

The Senior Class has chosen "The Servant in the House," by Charles Rann Kennedy, for its annual play to be given on Friday evening, November 24. A committee appointed by the president of the Seniors selected the play and elected the cast: The Bishop, Leroy Metzler; the Vicar, Kenneth Senior; Auntie, Naomi Weaver; the Vicar's Niece, Mary, Anna Reese; Robert, a gentleman, Lester Bucher; Roger, a

The Hunger for brotherhood is the theme of the play. "He that saith he is in the light, and hateth his brother, is in darkness. He that loveth his brother, abideth in the light."

The proceeds of the play will be used to defray the expenses of the Etonian.

Mr. Jamison Secures Cabins For Class; 11 Seniors Are Present; Wengers Chaperones

RETURN SUNDAY NIGHT

MCALISTERVILLE, Oct. 29.—This week-end the Senior Class of Elizabethtown College enjoyed a house-party in a hunting cabin three miles distant from here. The cabin which is situated in Lost Mountain and is owned by the Lost Creek Rod and Gun Club, of McAlisterville, was secured by the Senior class by Mr. Jameson. Mr. and Mrs. Shallenberger, parents of Winifred Shallenberger, entertained the group at dinner at their home to-day.

The party began Friday evening when the Senior Class arrived at the hunting cabin to find dinner already prepared by Mrs. Jameson.

Mr. and Mrs. Shallenberger, the Senior Class, and Miss Isabel Van Ormer were all guests of the Jameson family for the evening.

The Seniors spent Saturday in hiking over the surrounding mountains which afforded excellent specimens of everything from bear caves to beaver dams; many deer tracks were visible. Most of Sunday was spent at the Shallenberger home at McAlisterville where Mr. and Mrs. (Continued on Page Three)

Freshman Social Thwarted by Mob of Sophomores

Army Mobilized To Storm Gym As Frosh Are Discovered Arranging Party

By Nevin Zuck

ELIZABETHTOWN, Oct. 23.—The annual first semester Freshman party, which was scheduled to be held in the gym here tonight, was cancelled shortly after seven o'clock.

The Sophomore Secret Service discovered that the Freshmen were having a party, and subsequently the Sophomore army had been mobilized and was ready to storm the gym. When the Freshmen discovered that it wasn't a secret anymore, they wisely decided to give up the ghost as far as a party was concerned until some future date.

The first semester Freshman party is a traditional event on the hill. During the semester the Freshmen have a social in the gym and the Sophomores try to break it up. Since the Freshmen have cancelled their first try, the Sophomores are awaiting with interest future attempts to have a social.

Appears As Second Number of

HAS SEVERAL THEMES

As the second number of the lyceum series the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. will present Judge Geo. D. Alden, a noted New England lecturer and lawyer. He will talk on one of three themes: Needs of the Hour, The Powder and the Match, and Jack and the Beanstalk. All these lectures have been well received wherever presented by the Judge.

During a ten-year period Judge Alden was justice of the Fourth district court of Massachusetts, and for several years thereafter he followed the legal profession in New York. In his early days he was associated in the practice of law with Hon. George Fred Williams of Boston, as well as with Samuel M. Child and Boardman Hall. His achievements are listed in the catalogue of the great—"Who's Who in America."

Judge Alden became famous for his "Says I to Myself, Says I." That phrase flashes into mind whenever his name is mentioned among his admirers and friends.

History and Heritage of the College To Be Presented
By Prof. Wenger

The 31st annual Founder's Day program of the Elizabethtown College will be held in the College Chapel, Monday evening, November 13, at 8 o'clock. I. D. App, superintendent of the Dauphin County Schools, as a guest speaker, will deliver the principle address of the evening on The Worth of the Small College in American Life.

Ezra Wenger, Professor of Sociology at Elizabethtown College who has investigated the history and heritage of the school, will disclose his findings in a discussion of the subject. The Scripture will be read and a prayer offered by Henry Bucher, A. B., '28, a teacher in the West Lampeter Vocational High School. Roy S. Forney, A. B., '31, a teacher in the Manheim Township High School, will pronounce the benediction.

The musical part of the program will be supplied by the Male Quartette of the College, which will sing, On Great Lone Hills and David Schlosser will play Chopin's Nocturne on the piano.

Smoker Claims Editor of Our College Times Has a One-Track Mind

In an economics class conducted by Dr. Musick here last week, Rev. John Smoker brought a lengthy discussion on the N. R. A. problems to an abrupt climax by openly stating that his opponent on the question, M. R. Cobaugh, editor of Our College Times, had a one track mind, hence it would be futile to argue with him.

At the beginning of the period the discussion was carried on by the entire class but it later developed into a pitched battle between Messrs. Kuhn and Cobaugh who defended the N. R. A. and Mr. Smoker who also favored the N. R. A. but questioned the expediency of some of the methods pursued by the administrators. After some parrying of words, Mr. Smoker made his pointed analysis of his opponent's mind.

Cobaugh was non-committal.

THE IDEA OF CONSOLIDATION

Like most small colleges, Elizabethtown is troubled with the problem of over-organization and a super-abundance of extra-curricular activities. There are a dozen clubs and four classes at our school necessitating approximately thirty per cent of the student body to fill the various offices. The remaining seventy percent belong to one or more of the organizations, some persons being identified with as many as six.

In addition to these clubs, there are two major dramatic productions a year, the school paper, a band, three cheer leaders, two debating teams and four athletic teams participating in inter-collegiate contest, five or six socials, and two tennis tournaments—in short, everything for a one ring circus excepting pink lemonade and a trained seal.

But out of this apparent chaos comes a really practicable suggestion, that of the amalgamation of allied interests. For example, there is being organized on the hill a Forensic Arts Club which will eliminate at least two organizations and embrace several minor movements. Here the idea of consolidation is at work. Why can't we put more emphasis on this new trend rather than on the old one of a club for every separate whim, notion, or desire that any group, however small, may have.

Because of too much extra-curricular work many students have allowed scholastic endeavor to degenerate to the status of an avocation. Drastic changes must be made before the acquiring of knowledge can again become a dynamic, major undertaking. Consolidation of extra-curricular activities and concentration upon an important few rather than a too wide and thus ineffective diversification of effort seems to be one welcome remedial measure.

FRESHMAN, A WORD WITH YOU

A Freshman in college is the height of ambition,—an object of envy,—a fond mother's joy,—an elder brother's anchor,—a target for ridicule,—a symbol of contempt,—the scourge of a college,—the heart of the institution,—a victim of his past,—the hope for the future,—the goat in a joke,—the fly in the syrup,—the rent in the sail,—and something for which we all apologize yet take as a matter of course.

Any Freshman would gladly change places with an upper-classman and most upperclassmen would change places with a Freshman if he were accorded the privilege of performing some of the tasks that he left undone. All of us, all the time, are making mistakes in our procedure which we would gladly correct were we but given the opportunity to travel the same road twice.

A universal failing seems to be man's inability to heed advice that is honestly given; for this reason we offer to the Freshman no set of rules by which he can become famous. We will, however, tell him this: the experience of upper-classmen is that things done in the Freshman year have a wide and lasting effect and it pays to choose wisely before accepting. The Sturm und Drang of the scholastic career takes its annual toll of failures. A Freshman who really considers will not want to be included in this last. How to avoid it, we leave to his judgment.

MESSAGE OF STEWARDSHIP BROUGHT TO STUDENTS BY REV. SMOKER

CHAPED, Oct. 18.—The chapel audience this morning heard an address by Rev. John Smoker, a student here, on the theme: Our Stewardship.

"We owe all that we have to God and we will be held accountable for everything entrusted to our care. Our worthiness will be determined by one method alone: our faithfulness in putting to good use the gift entrusted to our care. The kind of stewards we are, depends upon ourselves alone."

Social Notes

By the "Scribe"

Last week College Hill was honored by the presence of a distinguished visitor, the Senor Phillipi Spanola, a musician of note. Senor Spanola was on his way south after having concluded a very successful tour of the side walks of New York. Passing through Elizabethtown he was impressed by the beauty of the campus and Halls of Elizabethtown College. Surely, he reasoned, with these surroundings will be found those with an aesthetic ear for music of an accordion. Unobtrusively he entered the College grounds. Around his neck he carried his battered instrument. Fish was being served for dinner in the college dining room. Uninvited, he entered and with a wane smile he announced he would play a Spanish number. He must have been impressed by his intelligent audience. The minute he began playing his countenance changed. He was animated all over; his face was wreathed in a smile; his eyes twinkled. Apparently he enjoyed his music as much as his audience did.

The learned day students forgot their heated arguments, even forgot their threatened examinations, so wrapped up were they in his melody. Espying an Irishman in his audience he favored him with Tipperary. All went well until the purpose of his visit was disclosed. It developed that he has eight children to support and he expected a donation for his musical efforts.

Any one so mercenary did not appeal to the day students. They lost interest and directed him to the more prosperous boarding students. He was last heard as he circled Rider Hall murmuring to himself: "Not a nickel, not a nickel."

When the birds fly north next spring we shall look for the return of our Accordion Player. Maybe the depression will be over by then.

NEW MEMBERS CONSECRATED AT VOLUNTEERS MEETING

LAKE PLACIDA, Oct. 23.—The Student Volunteers held a consecration service here tonight at which time Miss Sarah Shistler, returned missionary from Africa, challenged the group. The theme of the evening was the dedication of self to the work of Christ here on College Hill and in deputation work in churches throughout the vicinity.

The service was held around an open fire near the lake; a lighted cross at the gymnasium symbolized the dedication. At the close of the service a twig was placed in the fire by each member of the group, symbolizing his willingness to be consumed in the work of Christ.

From Here and There

Our Freshmen are showing a lively interest in church affairs, though we see no reason why they should prefer the River Brethren Church to all others.

The Student Council has finally unearthed the psychological motive for the numerous breaches of Freshmen Rules and Regulations. It is, in common parlance, the instinctive attraction of one sex towards another! Page Mr. Freud.

It is a pity that bunions and corns kept the faculty from marching with the student body in the N. R. A. parade.

The crowd at the Lancaster parade seemed to have no difficulty in detecting our Freshmen. Probably the green dinks had something to do with it, though we believe their actions were green enough to betray them.

A pun is the last refuge of a scoundrel.—Dr. Samuel Johnson.

And remember Sophomores: It is impossible to break up a party that is not yet in progress.

Correct this sentence: "We want the tug of war" say the Sophomores, "but we are afraid of pulling the Freshmen in the lake."

Editor's Note: Letters of the following type, dealing with problems and situations pertinent to a large number of students, are welcomed to this column. Any Alumnus or student is invited to comment.

HOW NOW, SOPHOMORES?

Dear Editor:

Although I am unfamiliar with previous customs and practices concerning Freshmen, I am confident that our request is in keeping with the traditions of the college.

Up to this time we, as Freshmen, have been carrying out prescribed Freshmen traditions to the best of our ability. We have been painted with iodine; we have received mysterious warnings; we have been soused with water; we have come back from week-end vacations to find our rooms stacked, and now we see no reason why we should not be given the chance to test our prowess.

We are not crying for quarter; we will take our medicine like good sports, but on the other hand, we will hold in contempt any denial of a privilege granted to previous Freshmen Classes. We want a TUG OF WAR WITH THE SOPHOMORES.

Ellwood Lentz

Dear Editor:

It is a question whether the exhibition in connection with the supposed Freshman party last Monday evening can be said to deserve a place on the college campus. It seems the erroneous notion has secured a foothold at the college that in order to be collegiate the Freshman Social must be broken up. This is a practice that was quite popular decades ago but is a back number now.

A few weeks ago the class of 1937 at a nearby college held a Fall social to which students above the Freshman year were admitted after the formal dinner. These students took part in the evening's enjoyment without in the least interfering with the Freshman plans.

Would it not be a step forward if the Sophomores and upper-classmen would in every way set a worthy example to the beginners? That which belongs to a college is always preferable. Be collegiate.

1934 ETONIAN TO EXCEL ALL OTHERS CLAIMS JAMISON

ELIZABETHTOWN, Oct. 23.—An Etonian staff meeting here this evening gave promise of the 1934 Etonian being the best year book ever published at Elizabethtown College. The Senior editor-in-chief, Miss Jameson, gave two reasons for the optimism: a comprehensive view of school life which a two year volume is able to present and the addition of new and virile features.

"The importance of ordering Etonians now," Miss Jameson states, "cannot be over emphasized." There will be a limited supply of copies available and those students failing to order prior to Christmas, run the risk of missing the 1934 edition.

FALL GOLF TOURNAMENT CROWN CAPTURED BY DR. KIRACOFÉ OF COLLEGE FACULTY; E. G. KUHN, PRINTER OF TIMES, SECOND

FIELD OF TWENTY-ONE PLAYERS PARTICIPATED

Elizabethtown, Oct. 14.—Dr. E. S. Kiracofé, head of the Department of Education, won the first golf tournament held on the college course, yesterday and today. Dr. Kiracofé, who had a score of 108, led the field by five strokes. E. G. Kuhn, Elizabethtown, printer of OUR COLLEGE TIMES, was the runner up in the event.

The winner was determined by the lowest score for twenty-seven holes. Each contestant played nine holes Friday and eighteen today.

Dr. Kiracofé covered the course in 35, 36, and 37 for a twenty-seven hole total score of 108. His average score was three above the par 33 for the course.

E. G. Kuhn turned in a score of 113, while Jim Zarfoss, another local man, followed with a score of 116. Professor D. E. Myers took fourth place with 118.

Aided by fine weather and the Freshmen boys who acted as caddies, the tournament was conducted without a hitch. The event will be held annually with the hope that interest can be created in the game both on the campus and in the local community.

FIRST CALL FOR BASKETBALL MEN MADE BY COACH

21 Players Try For 5 Open Berths; No Varsity Men From Last Year

GYM, Oct. 24.—Twenty-one ambitious athletes reported to Coach Ira Herr here tonight for the first basketball practice of the year.

After being weighed and measured the fellows took part in a limbering up drill through which the coach put them. The first few practices will be devoted to getting the fellows into a fit physical condition. The squad will not handle the ball until a little later.

The Coach announced that a Varsity and Junior Varsity squad of twelve men would be used this year. The varsity faces a strenuous schedule and with no men from last year, all positions will be open.

Club Notes

Professor of Music, E. G. Meyer, has arranged two vocal organizations for the year. The first semester a select A-Cappella Choir of thirty members will present a sacred song in those churches desiring its service.

The Commercial, under the guidance of Miss Bowman, adviser and Miss Ruth Dittenbaugh, president, is standardizing the club by first taking care of its personnel. A membership committee has been appointed to pass on the eligibility of commercial students desiring admittance. The initiation for the new group will take place within the next few weeks.

FORMER CHAMP OFF GAME; UPSET 6-4, 6-1

ELIZABETHTOWN, Oct. 12.—In a battle royal here this afternoon, the two remaining lettermen from last year's tennis team clashed to decide the championship of the college. After the smoke of the battle had been cleared a new championship had been crowned, last year's number one man, Ray Sherrick, having been defeated by Nevin Zuck by a score of 6-4 and 6-1.

The match was much closer than the scores indicate, especially the first set. Each man won his service for the first four games. Zuck then broke through Sherrick's serve to make the score 4-2. Rallying, Sherrick took the next two to square the set at four all.

The second set was not nearly so close though it was hard fought. This match was the final for the fall tennis tournament. Zuck had won his way to the finals by eliminating Royer and Cassel, while Sherrick had previously downed Hoffman and MacDonald; the latter placing third in the tournament.

Out of the sixteen players that entered the fray Coach D. E. Myers of the tennis teams, hopes that some new material will avail itself for the coming 1934 campaign.

NATIONAL CHAMP

It might be interesting, especially to the men day students including Ray Sherrick, that the National Ping-Pong champion is a Freshman in New York University. He is James M. Jacobson. It is said that he is a human dynamo of speed, power, accuracy, and agility. His fore-arm smash or drive has won for him the Parker Cup, emblematic of the National Amateur Ping-Pong Championship.

We would like to see one of the boys in the day room tune up a bit and bring this championship to Elizabethtown.

"Servant in the House" Hampden's First Start- ing Role at Age of 22

Great Actor Stage Frightened as He Played
Lead in Kennedy's Play. First Appearance in England

By The Editor

The inimitable Walter Hampden, who appeared in Harrisburg last Wednesday evening, recalls when he played his first major role in England at the age of 22; he said that he was stage frightened at the performance. The Servant in the House, the play recently chosen by the Seniors for presentation on the campus, was the vehicle for Hampden's debut on the stage.

While in the Capitol city the 20th century Garrick was questioned on his favorite theme of Shakespeare. Along with some other views, he stated that:

"Shakespeare would be much more popular if it weren't taught. Teachers of literature should concentrate on other authors and let William alone, as Shakespeare should be studied in the pure, unadulterated state, with no restrictions." He said that it is great fun for an actor to play Shakespeare because it gives such marvelous opportunities, just like a bath in the ocean or a grand jag. He loves most to do Hamlet because it is so personal.

Although Hampden hopes never to have to retire from the stage, he looks forward to long summers of complete relaxation to counteract the effects of his strenuous winter life so replete with rehearsals, study, and catching trains.

He had previously appeared in Harrisburg twice; first as Cyrano in Cyrano de Bergerac and later as Capponisacchi in a play by that name. He is now playing in Baltimore.

FIVE MEMBERS COM- POSE EXPERIMENTAL PRESS CLUB ON HILL

A press club composed of five members, organized for the purpose of sending to local newspapers, news of Elizabethtown College and students, has recently made its appearance on College Hill. The club has not yet been officially recognized and as yet exists only as an experiment.

The group has thus far averaged from fifteen to twenty news flashes per week which it sends to the local newspapers. The members of the group of which Nevin Zuck is president are: John Weaver, Eby Espenshade, Carl Reber, and Arthur Fair. The future of the club will depend upon its accomplishments.

Y. W. HAS NUTTING PARTY IN HONOR OF DAY STUDENT GIRLS

A nutting party was held at four o'clock Monday afternoon, October 9, at Bums Retreat, a wooded dell just east of the college campus; the party was sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. in honor of the Day Student Girls. The purpose of the party was to establish more friendliness between the boarding and the day students. Several lively games such as dodge ball were played. The real nutting began. In the absence of chestnuts and chicapins, peanuts were substituted.

When the nuts were all gathered, Miss Shallenberger, president of the Y. W. C. A., welcomed the girls. Miss Shallenberger presented Miss Esther Zug, chairman of the cheer-up committee. Miss Zug gave to the Freshman little sisters the gifts from their upper classmen big sisters.

Debating Topic Decided for '34

HARRISBURG, Oct. 7.—At a meeting of the Pennsylvania Debating Association here today the question for debate was decided for the 1934 season. The question: Resolved, that the essential features of the N. R. A. should be adopted as a permanent policy of the United States Government.

Miss Anna Reese and Mr. Alva Harsh were the representatives from Elizabethtown College. The meeting which was held in the Penn Harris Hotel was attended by 60 delegates.

SOCK AND BUSKIN SEE WALTER HAMPDEN

HARRISBURG, Oct. 28.—The Sock and Buskin Club of Elizabethtown College saw Walter Hampden play here this evening in Ruy Blas, one of Victor Hugo's well-known plays.

Walter Hampden, the leading actor of the American stage in addition to acting Ruy Blas, the title role, also played the fascinating rake and adventurer, Don Cesar de Bazan who is of almost equal importance with Ruy Blas. The plot of the story arose out of the close physical resemblance of the two.

COMMERCIANTES MEET

MEMORIAL HALL, Oct. 10.—The first regular meeting of the Comerciantes Club was held here tonight. The newly elected president, Miss Ruth Dittenbaugh, presided. A program which followed was in charge of Mr. Harry Smith. Miss Dittenbaugh spoke upon "The Purpose of the Commercial Club."

club. There is an abundance of trombones, saxophones, etc., but very few instruments to carry the melody.

Notwithstanding the questionable outcome, music has been ordered and the members, manifesting a real interest, are practicing every Monday evening in the Science Building from four to five thirty o'clock.

MINISTERS ASSEMBLE

ALPHA HALL, Oct. 11.—A general assembly of all ministers enrolled in Elizabethtown College was called here at 12:30 P. M. today. It was pointed out that an organization of the ministers would enable them to work as a unit. Agreeing, the group of fourteen ministers appointed Reverends Thomas, Miller, and Zuck to outline a plan of organization and present it at the next meeting. Last year no such organization existed on the hill.

Vox Populi

The Spoiled Broth

- 1—What's a Lochinvar?
- 2—Not so timid.
- 3—Is that our Nell?
- 4—What's your guess?

By all the Cooks

The Y. W. C. A. pulled a fast one on the student body when they had a discussion to determine their common opinion of the ideal man. The results are still a secret. Many guesses have been hazarded and names suggested. Several of the better behaved men have made vague claims. The boys are working hard but the grail is not within their grasp. They remain at sea, still wondering: "What is a Lochinvar?"

The Y. M. C. A. are not so timid about their results. Experiencing much anxiety about their own ignorance of the girls opinions, they are returning good for evil by announcing, and in some cases, even broadcasting the results of the consensus of their opinions. Undoubtedly they are working on the theory that an announcement of the specifications will motivate many of the damsels to endeavor to meet the standards.

Most of the fellows declare that they have not yet met the ideal girl, and if they would, they probably wouldn't live with her. She should aspire to be as good, if not better than your mother; she should be virtuous, not flirt, bear a certain degree of restraint and yet neck in moderation; she should not be an ignoramus if you are a genius. She must be able to attract without appealing to sex and she must cook. She'd be a perfect girl but what a woman!

A highly democratic feature of a project of this sort is that your guess is as good as that of anyone else. Then too, since the boys have not drawn a too definite line on physical attributes, one can construe the mental make-up to be present or lacking in his soul mate. The Bard of Avon, however, takes home the rubber skilnet and caps the event by saying: "Love is blind." That's his guess; what's yours?

Forensic Arts Club To Complete Organization Sometime During Week

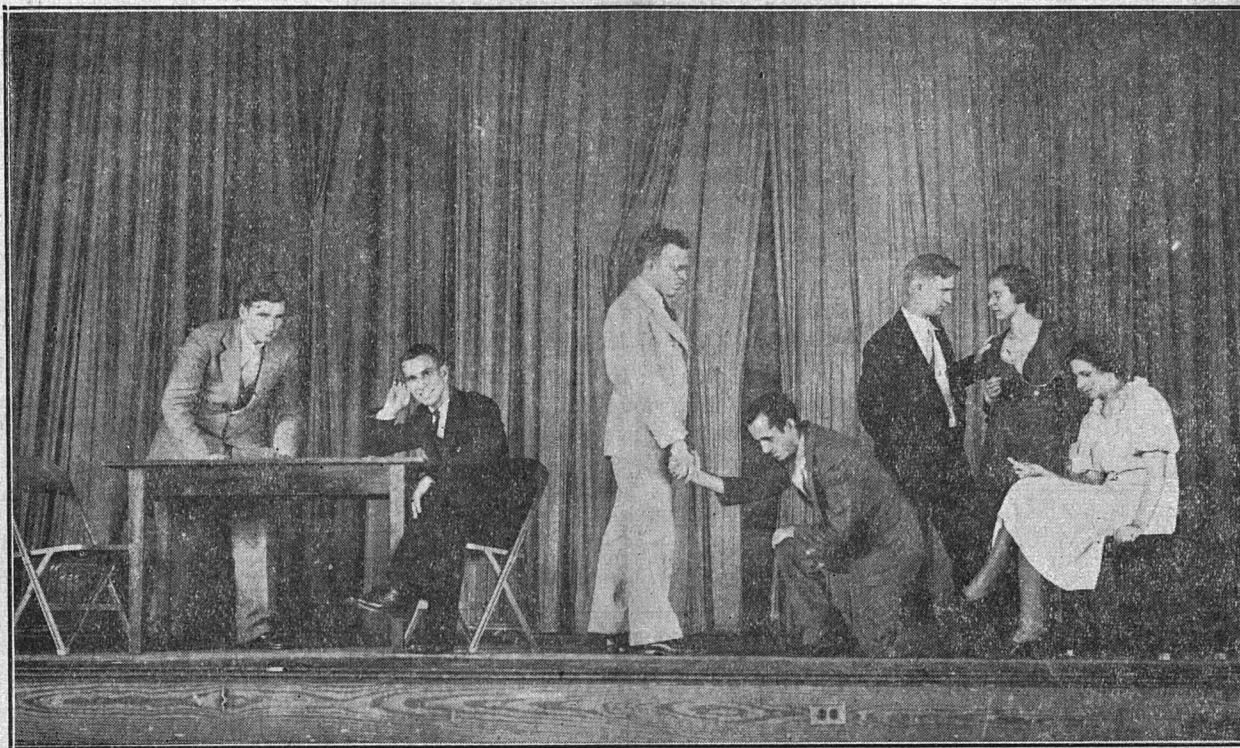

The Forensic Arts Club, recently organized for the purpose of consolidating interests in these activities, will complete its organization sometime during the coming week. Nominations have been made for the offices of president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer.

Debating tryouts were held Friday night but the results were not yet made available as we go to press. The debating prospects are good for the coming season because of the fact that there are five debaters remaining from last year and a goodly number of new men have signified their intentions of trying out for the team.

Mr. Alva Harsh, who has been acting as the temporary chairman of the club, is very anxious that the organization be completed so that steps can be taken to ally the club with some national forensic circuit. As soon as the new officers are elected they will begin an extensive program for the development of the club.

Busy Days on Stage for Seniors in Play

SENIORS WORK HARD ON ANNUAL PLAY TO BE PRESENTED SOON

Cast Practices Daily In Gym; Advertising Campaign In Nearby Towns

The Senior Class members, most of whom are vitally connected with the presentation of the "Servant in the House" on November 24, are working hard to insure the success of the production.

The cast, which includes Alva Harsh, Kenneth Senior, Naomi Weaver, Lester Bucher, Harry Saylor, Anna Reese, and Leroy Metzler, practice daily. Miss Sheaffer is directing the play although she had nothing to do with its selection for the occasion nor with the choosing of the actors for the parts.

Tickets are already on sale and can be procured from any member of the Senior Class.

Extensive advertising is being carried out under the direction of Miss Winifred Shallenberger. Posters have been placed in Elizabethtown, Middletown, Harrisburg, and several other nearby towns.

Three to Attend Press Conclave at Baltimore

MEMORIAL HALL, Nov. 2.—At a specially called meeting here today, the Board of Control of Our College Times decided to send the Editor and the Business Manager of the paper to the Intercollegiate Newspaper Asso. convention to be held in Baltimore on November 17 and 18. Professor Rose also announced his intention to attend the meeting and offered his automobile as a possible means of transportation. His decision had the hearty endorsement of the Board.

The delegates will attend the I. N. A. convention for the purpose of representing Our College Times and applying for its admission to the organization.

"Ideal Man Must Be More Intelligent Than We", Say 'Y' Girls

Y. W. C. A., Nov. 6.—At a special meeting here tonight the Y. W. C. A. discussed their "Ideal Man." Along with several other characteristics, they insisted that he be more intelligent than the girl with whom he associates.

Special stress was laid on the fact that he must shave every day and that he must be neat appearing. It was also stated that he should not kiss a girl until he has become engaged to her.

The girls decided not to divulge the specifications and to keep the boys in the dark. It was a fine theory, but, of course, woman-like, several of them thought that it was a shame to keep news so good as this seemed to them.

The Y. M. C. A. had a similar discussion and it is generally supposed that the two organizations are going to compare notes at some future date. Why, we don't know.

125 ATTEND ANNUAL HALLOWE'EN PARTY IN GYM, OCTOBER 31

Y.W.C.A., Sigma Zeta, Y.M.C.A., Sock and Buskin, and Commercial Club On Program

GYM, Oct. 31.—Students and faculty were entertained at the annual Hallowe'en Party here tonight. Practically everyone on the hill was present and enjoyed himself immensely. The costumes were colorful and original. Everything and everybody was represented from a Colonial Lady to a Chinaman. Mr. Eby Espenshade appeared in a unique costume of a robot, and quite cleverly carried out his unusual role by emitting queer sounds throughout the evening.

The Hallowe'eners were greeted at the door by a frightful looking ghost with a cold slimy hand. They then proceeded into the gym which was quite dark and listened to a ghastly story told by the ghost. Following the grand march a Baby contest was held. This event afforded much laughter for the spectators and resulted in sore jaws for the participants.

18 New Members Are Admitted by Sigma Zeta Club

The Theta Chapter of the Sigma Zeta, a national honorary science organization, has announced the admission of 18 new members. Two associate members of last year, A. Stauffer Curry and Anna Reese, have now become active members at the last meeting.

Mr. Harry Saylor, the president of the local chapter, has not yet fully outlined his program for the year but it is not expected that any great amount of constructive work will be carried on until after the Christmas vacation.

The initiation of the new members was effected at the last meeting of the club. Practically all the new members are Freshmen and will be considered as associate members. Upon furthering their scientific studies and attaining the scholastic rank of a junior or senior they will become eligible for active membership.

Those admitted as associate members are: Ruth Ulrich, Violet Cassel, Elizabeth Stauffer, Kathryn Snyder, Edna Little, Leah Musser, Mary Hess, Ruth Longenecker, Pauline Hamilton, Helen Shertzer, Ethel Woodward, Arthur Hollinger, Lawrence Hoover, Shelly Miller, Luke Buffenmyer, Harry Hamme, Clair Trout and Paul Hertzog.

Industrial School Visited by Social Pathology Class

HEPSHEY, Nov. 2.—The Social Pathology students of Elizabethtown College were visitors here today at the Hershey Industrial Schools. Under the guidance of the superintendent of the institution and Prof. Wenger, head of the Department of Social Sciences at the college, the students were shown the salient features of the buildings and were given a brief outline of the objectives and of the methods employed. Practically the whole of the afternoon was spent inspecting the various units.

Subsequent trips to other points are being planned for the course.

"She Must Be a Blonde" Opens 'Y' Discussion on Their Ideal Woman

Y ROOM, Nov. 6.—A large group of interested young men gathered here tonight to discuss the qualifications of their ideal woman. Directed by Alva Harsh and counseled by Prof. Wenger, the discussion brought out just exactly what our ideal girl should be, though the prevailing sentiment was that such a girl, if ever found, would not attract most of us because of her absolute perfection.

It was finally decided that above all, the ideal girl should aspire to be a good Christian mother. She should be virtuous, as good or better than our mothers and she should be cultured to that extent that her husband need not be ashamed to present her to his friends.

Among the minor specifications we find that she should be a blonde; she should use Listerine and Absorbine Jr.; and she should be able to bake a good chocolate cake.

MODERN TREND AND INITIATIONS

Much good ink has been spent extolling the virtues of traditions; as a consequence, few persons realize the highly detrimental effects resultant of them. Even on our campus they degenerated some of the activities. For example, who has not noticed the infantile methods of initiation recently adopted by two of our leading organizations which are, for the most part, of a higher than average caliber? The practice of branding a prospective member with an insignia which he must wear in public is both useless and puerile.

After several inquiries as to the reason for the brand, it was learned from members of one club that it was a form of initiation similar to that used by the other club. Further searching revealed that the members of the second club did not know exactly why it was done, "but as far as I know, it has always been done."

Sweeping the American college in the last few years has been a wave of lofty ideals which aimed to lift us out of the rut into which we had fallen. Highly commercialized athletics were curbed; scholarships eliminated; more interest was placed on cultural progress than on wide trousers, horizontally striped jackets, berets, and stupid expressions. "Yes, We Are Collegiate", the musical classic of a decade ago, fell into oblivion. The collegian put on his garters, hung up his megaphone and changed his course.

In spite of this wholesome readjustment, however, many foolish ideas persist in cropping up from year to year. The practice of branding pledges to a club is only one of them. It is not an arch crime; maybe not even an incongruity. It is worth considering.

A CHALLENGE IGNORED

The Sophomore Class, in failing to answer the Freshman challenge to a tug-of-war that had become a part of college life at Elizabethtown, is exhibiting a spirit we would not expect to find in it considering the fact that so much ready energy was spent trying to break up the Freshman party.

The savage exhibition in connection with the Freshman social melee, it has been said, ill deserves a place in college life; but since a certain amount of friendly rivalry exists between the two lower classes, it ought to be directed into some safe channel that would be beyond criticism. Now the tug-of-war is a safe means of releasing energy and, in addition, provides a very interesting spectacle for the non-participants.

At its revival some years ago, the tug-of-war was hailed as a sane way to direct rather than to curb, physical activity. Why the Sophomores are permitting this fine practice to pass out of existence is more than we can understand. If they are afraid, of what are they afraid? Surely not the Freshmen.

It would be interesting to know just why the challenge was ignored. We would appreciate an explanation.

Nothing Is Lost on a Cultured Man --Claims Sheaffer

CHAPEL, Nov. 2.—As one of a series of talks recently given in Chapel on the subject of Life, Miss Rebekah Shaeffer, head of the Department of English, brought a message of Culture to the student body here today as a part of the regular Chapel program. On Monday, November 2, Dean A. C. Baugher had opened the series with a presentation of The Efficient Life and Prof. Wenger had also previously discussed The Moral Life.

In her thorough diagnosis of the subject, Miss Sheaffer stressed the fact that a cultured man is one: "on whom nothing is lost, who wears a girdle of restraint, and who has an inborn love for the finest." "We have long since given up the idea that culture is in learning things. Culture is the awakening of our conscience to the values and meanings of life that we have habitually taken for granted."

Miss Sheaffer's talk, which was replete with anecdotes and quotations, proved quite interesting and was well received by the audience.

CIRCULATION OF OUR COLLEGE TIMES OVER 300 FOR LAST ISSUES

It will be of interest to know that the circulation of the last issue of Our College Times was over 300 copies. The distribution covers a geographically wide area, extending into several foreign countries. One hundred forty copies are distributed among sixty day students and eighty boarding students at the college, while seventy more go to professors, subscribers, and advertisers in Elizabethtown.

One hundred twenty-five copies go to subscribers residing for the most part in Lancaster, Lebanon, Adams, and Dauphin counties. This list includes students in the spring and summer sessions and other subscribers scattered over eastern and southern Pennsylvania. There are approximately a dozen out of state subscribers while eight copies of Our College Times are sent to missionaries residing in India, China, Sweden, and South Africa. Our College Times is exchanged with colleges throughout Pennsylvania. There is also one exchange with a college in Nova Scotia.

In addition to this circulation, from each issue, forty copies are sent to Alumni for the purpose of interesting them in subscribing for Our College Times. Beginning with this issue, copies will be sent to the parents of some of the students for the same purpose.

Volunteer Programs Held in 3 Churches of Eastern District

Over the week-end of November 4 and 5, three Volunteer groups presented programs in Shamokin, Pine Grove, and Harrisburg. The Shamokin program was built around the idea of sharing and was presented by Misses Brumbaugh and Curry and Messrs. Kurtz, Curry, Cassel, and Lentz. The Harrisburg program was centered on the subject: "If I Cannot Go Abroad, Then What?" It was rendered by Miss Weaver and the Men's Quartette.

At Pine Grove, the presentation of Stewardship was the central theme and was developed by Misses Bucher and Kreider and Messrs. Nedrow and Krall.

= From Here and There =

We hear that Elwood Lentz is perfectly willing to take up mission work at Shamokin provided he can persuade a certain blonde Sophomore to accompany him.

Correct this sentence: "Anything the upperclassmen say," claims a Freshman girl, "is all right with me and I will try to carry out their wishes."

At the Y. M. C. A. conclave it was heard that a B. V. D. girl is one who is Beautiful (but) Very Dumb.

The dumb idea suits us fine; what we need is more evidence of the beauty.

In these days of matrimonial strife and unemployment an encouraging note is struck by Jim Nedrow who sincerely says about his future spouse: "Well, I'd support her!"

The Junior girl who has been known to make a frantic search among a stack of plates for chewing gum deposits during a meal, will do well to read some of the excerpts from the recent lecture on culture.

Modernism: The nations of the world argue for peace and then build large armies and navies to back up their arguments.

Open Forum

Dear Editor:

Traditions are nothing to be scoffed at. They play a vital part in the life of any college. They are closely allied to the life of each of us. Traditions are not legacies hedging in our personal freedom. They are guides to customs tendered to us from the past. We accept these, not as rigid demands, but as voluntarily accepted privileges.

Elizabethtown College has no dearth for traditions. We accept most of them unconditionally. But one of them at present is up for judgment. It is the annual Sophomore-Freshman Tug-of-War. The columns of this paper have rung with the challenge by the Freshmen. But the Sophomores, apparently lacking moral courage, have ignored the piercing pleas of the Freshmen for a wetting. Shall these appeals to traditions remain unheeded? Or shall we acknowledge the Sophomore refusal as a branding of this tradition as not suited to college life? Shall we class it among the trite activities of college club initiations?

If it is child's play let us leave it to the children. It at least is no dangerous pastime. But if it is a tradition worth keeping, it is for those who are interested to prove it. It is not for us who are disinterested, to worry our tired brains about it.

Etonian Progresses; Cooperation of All Needed for Success

Reports from members of the Etonian staff show that publication is progressing. The subscription managers are eager that all students order their Etonian immediately. Snapshots are needed; submit them to Mary Brumbaugh. The pictures of the various organizations will be taken this week. All groups are urged to have their pictures taken at the scheduled time, so as not to inconvenience the staff or the photographer. The staff especially urges all those students responsible for written material to have it ready on time. The time element is a very important factor in the prompt publication of a work of this kind.

Dear Editor:

The article concerning the attempt to interfere with the supposed Freshman social in the last issue of the "Times" was built on the premise that activities on a college campus should have a rational basis. Because so many of the practices formerly visited on the Freshmen explains in a large degree why they are fading out of the picture. The restrictions placed on Freshmen are being transferred from the physical to the mental realm of activity.

In rivalry between the Freshmen and Sophomores, the Juniors sympathize with the Freshmen and the Seniors with the Sophomores. Upperclassmen avoid active participation so as to be free to maintain a judicial attitude. The upperclassmen who refused to participate in the attempt to break up the Freshmen social are to be warmly commended.

Alumni Notes

'28—Henry G. Bucher, in addition to teaching in the West Lampeter High School, is taking graduate work at Temple University.

'25—Vera R. Hackman is teaching English and History in the Cole-rain Township High School and is serving as Assistant Principal. She has taken graduate work at Columbia since her graduation at Elizabethtown.

'29—Mary C. Kreider, who plans to sail for the African mission field in December to work under the auspices of the Brethren in Christ Church, recently spent a day on the campus.

'28—John R. Brinser, Jr., an instructor in social studies at the Falls Township High School, Fallington, Pa., is pursuing graduate work at Rutgers.

'30—Miss Lorraine Habecker was married to F. Earl Landis on June 22, in Koch's Garden, Lititz, Pa. After having toured the New England States, the couple located at Neffsville, Pa. Mr. Landis is an instructor of music at the Warwick Township High School and also at the Patton Trade School, at Elizabethtown, Pa.

Squad of Twenty Drilling Nightly for Positions on Varsity Basketball Team

GYM, Nov. 8.—The candidates for the varsity basketball squad have just finished a hard drill under the direction of Coach Ira Herr. Night after night, a squad of about twenty fellows have gone through calisthenics designed to develop physical condition. Because the team faces a very strenuous schedule coach Herr's chief concern is concentrated upon having the boys physically fit for the game. Rope jumping, running, and general body exercises are included in these drills.

During the practice period, the fellows are taught to handle the ball, to pivot and to understand the general rudiments of the game. It is a common sight to see fellows going up and down the floor doing "the figure eight." This particular drill is an aid to improve the passing of the team.

During the past week the fellows have appeared to be rounding into fair physical condition. Their handling of the ball, however, is rather ragged and seems to lack adeptness. Passing, too, is often wild and erratic. It is expected that many of these difficulties will be smoothed out until the opening game in December.

The Times sports staff believe the prospects for a good team are fair even though an entirely new outfit will have to be built. The playing of several of the Freshmen indicates that they know something of the game but it is questionable if the green material from high schools will be able to play ball of a college caliber.

Club Notes

When the Athletic Council convenes again, it will elect four athletic managers from among the Freshmen. Two of these are to become Sophomore managers for 1934 and one of the latter will become the Junior and eventually the Senior manager for the following years.

To the Sophomore managers the Council awards a small college letter; the Senior manager receives a regular varsity insignia.

Professor Guy R. Saylor has abandoned plans for arranging a French Club this year because of the scarcity of persons eligible to hold office.

Under the leadership of James Nedrow the Candles are swinging into their appointed work. Monthly the club meets for parliamentary drill and for the study of current events. Mr. Nedrow hopes that sometime during the coming year a public program can be effected.

Various organizations of the school presented short plays and other forms of entertainment. They were the Kitchen Band by the Y. W. C. A.; the school by the Y. M. C. A.; plays by the Sigma Zeta and the Sock and Buskin; and a futuristic office was presented by the Commercial Club. For lack of time the faculty and other organizations were unable to present their contribution to the evenings program.

Refreshments and singing followed the program. The gymnasium was decorated with leaves, corn shocks, black cats, witches, owls, and the like.

Athletic Council Elects Managers

ALPHA HALL, Oct. 24.—At a meeting of the Athletic Council here this afternoon the new athletic managers were elected. James Nedrow, the senior manager will be in charge of all the boys athletics. Harry Smith, the new Junior manager, will probably handle basketball.

The spring sports, baseball and tennis, will undoubtedly be under the care of the Sophomore managers: Reber, Gerber, and Zuck. The four Freshman managers as yet have not been elected.

For girl's sports, Naomi Weaver will be in charge with Mary Brumbaugh and Esther Zug as the assistants.

These newly elected managers will have charge of the various athletic events in which the college participates and will receive recognition in the form of a letter.

The boys who survive the drills conducted by Coach Herr certainly ought to be in condition.

Eby Espenshade left practice to become a Student Council policeman. Is there no justice?

One for the Book: Metzler asked the coach if he would be allowed to take more than one step with each dribble.

Can Ruth Eshelman play Tarzan on a basketball floor? We know the answer. Come to basketball practice and see for yourself.

Art Thome, who is expected to do some smooth pitching next spring, is doing pitching of another sort while practice teaching. Popular rumors have it that the story of "The Big Bad Wolf" almost had him for the count last week.

Two of last year's baseball men, Bob Houser and Bill Kehm, are married. We wonder if there will be two more this year?

Eddie Lander, a basketball aspirant, is training on mince pie and is getting fairly good results.

CORRECTION

In the last issue of Our College Times it was stated that: The proceeds of the Senior play will be used to defray the expenses of the Etonian. This statement is inaccurate; the proceeds of the play will go to the Senior Class.

Co-eds Begin Practice for Basketball; Prospects Good As Six Letter Girls Return

GYM, Oct. 30.—Eighteen aspiring girls answered Coach Ira Herr's call for candidates for the girls' varsity basketball team. The girls began practice with a vim and vigor that bodes ill for their opponents.

Coach Herr has high hopes of developing a fast team this year. Six letter girls from last year's team are back to form a nucleus for this year's aggregation.

Heading the list of letter girls is Martha Groff, sharpshooting forward, who is regarded as one of the best college girl players in this vicinity. Ruth Diefenbaugh, her running mate on last year's team, is back to play her last year of college basketball.

For center position we find Mary Brumbaugh back for her third year of varsity ball. Ruth Eshelman, husky side center, stands out among those trying for that position. Harriet Curry, who played at both forward and side center, is back to furnish competition for these positions.

Mabel Longenecker, who played a good brand of ball towards the end of last season, is the only varsity guard who has returned. Naomi Weaver, a guard for three seasons, will act as manager of the team this year instead of a player.

Besides these experienced players there is some very promising new Freshman material. Among those are Ruth Bishop, who starred as forward with the Elizabethtown Alumni team last year, Edna Barnes, Bella Kapp, and Ruth Groff—all from last year's Elizabethtown High School team. Ethel Woodward, a guard from Enola High School, is also showing up well in the practices. There are several others who are making strong bids for varsity positions.

An intimation that interfering with any class social has become a tradition on the campus is incorrect. It should first be considered whether the practice is worthy of becoming a tradition or not. This could well be termed the intelligent approach to the problem.

In the previous article reference was made to the fine gentlemanly conduct by upperclassmen at a Freshman social held at one of our nearby colleges. In this article reference will be made to another small college in Pennsylvania with a rather fine record for turning out Rhodes scholars. At this college the Freshman and the Sophomore classes will engage on the football, soccer, and speedball fields. The opposition of the two classes will not end here for the Freshman-Sophomore debate will be held; there will be basketball games, handball matches and probably tennis matches throughout the year. Every type of contest feasible will be permitted to occupy the docket so that every member of the classes will have an opportunity to contribute in some field to the victory or defeat of his class. No type of contest will be given more weight than another. Even the tug-of-war is outlawed and everything of a "rough house" or "hill-billy" nature is frowned upon. Frosh-Sophomore activities are confined to the realm of the legitimate and the intelligent.

ALUMNI COUNCIL MEETS; HOMECOMING PLANS MADE

COLLEGE, Nov. 6.—The Alumni Council of Elizabethtown College met in a full session here tonight to consider a number of important measures.

Several student loans were approved and plans laid for their lateralization.

The Council decided to sponsor branch organizations in the Juniata Valley, the Cumberland Valley, Central Pennsylvania, and in the Harrisburg district.

Recognizing the persistent calls for the Alumni homecoming, the Council decided to cooperate with the proposed homecoming in connection with the Juniata basketball game in the early part of January.

Two active members of the association were nominated as candidates for election to the Board of Trustees of the college. These names will be presented to the Board at its next meeting for approval.

Rendition of Schiller's Masterpiece Anticipated by Present German Club

Der Deutsche Verein Plans the Presentation of Wilhelm Tell For End of Year; Initiations Next Week

The German Club, better known as Der Deutsche Verein, has not yet held a scheduled meeting due to conflicting dates of various other campus organizations. This fact, however, does not indicate inactivity. The officers have been quite busy in planning a very active year. The initiation of new members has been scheduled for next week. The plans of the officers of the Verein call for regular meetings throughout the year. As heretofore, the meetings will be featured with scholarly, musical, and social interests.

The one project that will be sponsored by the Verein in connection with the German Department, is the presentation of Schiller's Wilhelm Tell, toward the close of the present college year. This play, which is one of Schiller's masterpieces, is now being studied by the third year class in German. The drama, being too long to be presented in its entirety, will be given in an abbreviated form. In addition to the drama, some songs to which Schiller wrote the words, will also be rendered. If possible, some slides giving glimpses of Schiller's life and works will be shown.

Just as the Verein in connection with the German Department sponsored a Goethe program a year ago, so the aim this year is to make Schiller the central figure of the proposed program. It is the aim of the officers and club members to sponsor a Shillerabend that will appeal to lovers of German culture.

The Spoiled Broth

- 1—As bad as that?
- 2—Lehigh vs. Lafayette
- 3—Schools of thought
- 4—Commendation.

By all the Cooks

Our Sophomores and Freshmen have been paying the penalty for manifesting a spirit of physical rivalry between themselves that is alleged to be a part of the lower nature of man. It has been pointed out that their actions are quite different from those of another college of high standing in Pennsylvania. Though they might have been, it is a question whether the rough-house nature as shown by our boys is worse than that of other colleges.

Let us look at the recent Lehigh-Lafayette war. It is said that some 30 odd Lehigh boys fell into the hands of the minions of the law for some plain and fancy cutting-up that they had been doing on the Lafayette campus, a few days prior to the annual Lehigh-Lafayette football classic. One ambitious student, it is further alleged, went so far as to appropriate an arm off of the statue of Lafayette to commemorate the event. Here is where the law stepped in.

There are two schools of thought; one that boys will be boys and the other that college students ought to be gentlemen. Neither of these ways of thinking are devoid of merit. Rivalry is a fine thing and if we take too strenuous methods to curb it, we are liable to some very undesirable consequences. Even after the fine spirit displayed by the Sophomores after the Freshmen social, some of the Freshmen are of the opinion that the hospitality was a matter of political expediency rather than the love that the Sophomores bore for them.

Be that as it may, the Sophomores did a fine piece of work and they deserve the commendation of that school of thought that believes that college students ought to be gentlemen.

Rowdyism Absent at Freshman Party

Our College Times Admitted to I. N. A. at Baltimore Convention; 3 Delegates Attend

Eminent Journalists Are Heard—Johns Hopkins News Letter Acts as Host; Lewis Speaks

BALTIMORE, Nov. 18.—At the regular business session of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association held here today as a part of the annual fall convention, it was voted that Our College Times, student publication of Elizabethtown College, be admitted to the organization. It was also voted that application for admission made by Wilson College, Alfred University, Barnard College, Elmire College, and Carnegie Institute be accepted.

Approximately 80 delegates, representing 30 colleges and universities gathered as the guests of the Johns Hopkins News-Letter to hear an imposing array of prominent journalists lead discussion groups and address the formal banquet Saturday night at the Hotel Emerson, convention headquarters.

Noyes Also Speaks

(From Haverford News)

Sir Willmott Lewis, Washington correspondent of the London Times was featured as principal speaker and guest at the final dinner. Following the meeting, he was initiated into honorary membership in Pi Delta Epsilon, national honorary collegiate journalism fraternity, by the host chapter. Other noted speakers on the same program included Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press, Mayor Howard W. Jackson, of Baltimore; Watson Davis, director of Science Service; Dr. Henry G. Doyle, Dean of George Washington University; Dr. E. W. Berry, Dean of Hopkins, and the toastmaster, Lee McCardell, of the Evening Sun.

ALPHA HALL, Nov. 21.—At the regular staff meeting here tonight it was announced that both Anna Reese, the associate editor of Our College Times and Nevin Zuck, the Sports Editor, had resigned from the staff.

Miss Reese left because of her activity in other fields. Mr. Zuck's inability to condone the editorial policy of the paper, prompted his resignation.

Elwood Lentz, a Freshman, was named associate editor to replace Miss Reese. Jacob Hershman, a Sophomore, will assume the role of Sports Editor, pending his possible appointment.

Debaters Selected for Coming Season 5 from Last Year

MEMORIAL HALL, Friday, Nov. 10.—Today, at 4:00 P. M. in the chapel, under the auspices of the Forensic Arts Club, a tryout was held for those men who are interested in debating during the coming season.

Five men of last year's College Debating Team were back for tryouts. Of the new candidates, all have had some debating experience. The competitive tryouts, judged on the oral production of a two minute constructive argument, resulted in Kurtz, Curry, Zuck, Fry, Bucher, Kuhns, Lentz, and Hollinger's being chosen to represent the College on the Men's Debating Team.

The debaters have not yet chosen their manager for this year, but organization of the teams will be effected in the near future. The first coaching lecture for both men and women debaters will be given in Room C of Alpha Hall on Thursday, November 16, at 7:00 P. M. by President Schlosser.

I. D. App, Dauphin Co. Supt., Discusses Worth of the Small Colleges

D. SCHLOSSER PLAYS

CHAPEL, Nov. 13.—As a part of the 33rd annual Founders' Day Program given here tonight, Prof. Ezra Wenger, head of the department of Sociology, presented the History and Heritage of Elizabethtown College. Also included on the program was a talk by Supt. I. D. App of the Dauphin County schools on The Worth of the Small College in American Life, several piano selections by David Schlosser, and a number by the male quartette of the college. Introductory remarks were made by the president, R. W. Schlosser.

In his interesting and enlightening resume of the past of the college, Prof. Wenger called to mind the fact that this institution was founded on the principles of Christianity. In 1899, it was decided to have a school of some sort. After (Continued on page two)

Reception of Freshmen Replaces Hazing at Annual Party

MEN'S DEAN PLEASED

GYM, Nov. 15.—The annual Freshmen Social was held here tonight without the usual rowdyism and free-for-all which is generally caused by the Sophomores' trying to break up the affair. Instead, the Sophomores, discarding previous customs, broke all precedents by extending a reception to the Freshmen immediately after the social.

Dean Wenger, in commenting on the affair said that: a new era in Freshmen-Sophomore class relations had been inaugurated.

The Freshmen Social which was held immediately after vesper services in the chapel was chaperoned by Prof. and Mrs. Wenger. Games of all sorts were played and various features introduced in the program in order to effect a better mutual acquaintance among the members of the yearling class.

An attractive lunch was served to the 60 Freshmen that attended the social. Everything was done with precision, bespeaking fine management and carefully planned events.

The Sophomore Reception following the social, came as a pleasant surprise to the Freshmen, the Dean, and several others on the campus.

Failure to remain on one particular subject and to develop one central theme, detracted from the effectiveness of the program.

Earl Kurtz, the vice-president of the local chapter of the Y. M. C. A., presided over the meeting in lieu of Alva Harsh, the president, who was absent.

George Rann Kennedy's Classic, Servant In The House, Is Well Received

By A. Nunemacher

Special to Our College Times

ELIZABETHTOWN, Pa., Nov. 25.—The capacity audience that greeted the Seniors in the gymnasium last night created a happy prelude and spur them to their highly commendable dramatization of John R. Kennedy's powerful drama, "The Servant in the House".

The play, which historians of the subject would classify as symbolic much after the manner of Ibsen, and (coming nearer our own time) Jerome's "Passing of the Third Floor Back", was well balanced in cast and showed evidence of very able directing. Lines came easily; and the unraveling of the various threads of the story moved on evenly to a forceful denouement. The staging, a one scene interior thru-out was remarkably faithful to life.

As for the characters, the palm, in my opinion, goes to Kenneth Senior, who made a most recognizable "vicar". Senior satisfied all the requirements of the most exacting critic, striding through all five acts of the drama with a sureness and verve that transplanted his audience to a little vicarage in one of England's (hedgeline) shires, as few college actors could do.

German Club Requires Aspirants to Eat Alum And Drink Castor Oil

This year's German Club initiation is reputed to be the hardest in the history of the club. Besides walking the plank blindfolded, the aspirants were required to drink half a teaspoonful of Castor Oil and to swallow a marshmallow filled with alum.

Six out of the ten aspirants took the initiation. The most excruciating text proved to be the fake cutting of the artery in the wrist.

Following this the Castor Oil was administered. Jake Brubaker, not satisfied with half a teaspoonful of Castor Oil, seized the bottle and attempted to drain the contents.

After taking the oath, a genuine dutch lunch was served, including an ample supply of cheese sandwiches, pretzels and hot chocolate. Wearing the symbol "D. V.", for one day was specified as the final requirement for admission to the Deutsche Verein.

MEMBER OF THE INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWSPAPER ASSOCIATION OF THE MIDDLE ATLANTIC STATES

Editorial

"TO ERR IS HUMAN, TO FORGIVE, DIVINE."

It is generally known that the tone of the written material in Our College Times has been roundly criticized. Inferences, some vague and some direct, have been made that the character of the writing and the attitude exhibited by the editor has in many cases run counter to the prevailing and accepted ethics of journalism; it has been further held that satire and invective have supplanted the impartial reporting of the news.

Although criticism does not necessarily make a thing evil, it awakens thought and calls forth a new weighing of the evidence, a new evaluation. When a school paper fails to please the majority of the students, obviously something is wrong. When indictments are made in large quantities it is evident that someone has failed to accept the responsibility that has been placed in him.

A school paper ought to be a unifying factor as far as concerted action is concerned. It ought to think ahead of the student body but not against it. In many cases Our College Times has failed to fulfill these requirements. Its editor is not ignorant of these failings.

At the beginning of the year Our College Times suffered a revolution as far as policy and methods are concerned. In this revolution the pendulum swung too far and the water that at first appeared to be a blessing, came near to sinking the ship. Gradually, however, the storm abated. Many things had been swept away but the rugged outline remains. Upon this outline a new and finer vessel can be built, if we all pull together.

I. N. A.

It is with pride that we point to our recent admission to the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association of the Middle Atlantic States. We believe that membership in an organization of this type is a definite step forward towards raising the standards of our publication.

The fellowship afforded us through this organization with our neighbor colleges will facilitate the exchange of ideas and opinions. At the conventions held each fall and spring we will be able to get concrete aid in the development of our editorial and advertising program.

The convention just past was a success from every angle. As an educational and social project it was unsurpassed. We want to take this opportunity to thank our host: The Johns Hopkins News-Letter.

FREEDOM OF THE COLLEGIATE PRESS

Some colleges are still denied the freedom of their press. Pressure is brought to bear upon the editors and the associates in order that they print only what the authorities want printed.

Such tactics are a frank admission on the part of the administrators that they are unable to defend themselves by other more legitimate methods. Gagging the press has always been viewed with contempt by the American people. Its freedom is our traditional right. We need and demand it in the colleges.

Although our own publication is not retarded by the above mentioned canker we present this thought in order to let our restricted brothers know that they have all our moral support.

300 Hear Schlosser at Steelton P. T. A.

STEELTON, Nov. 14.—Dr. R. W. Schlosser, president of Elizabethtown College, spoke before 300 members of the Steelton P. T. A. meeting in the high school auditorium to-night. "The World in Which We Move" was the subject chosen by President Schlosser.

In his address he stated that: the world which we perceive impresses us most, but eyesight is far less important than insight. There are several distinct worlds in which men dwell; those men who live in the stream of commodities; the men living in the world of disgust and suspicion; and the men living in the world of visions and dreams of better things.

In concluding, President Schlosser said that: the only way to make the world in which we live one of better things, it should be made a world of kindness and goodness, a stimulating atmosphere should be created and the world should be praised in terms of character.

PROF. WENGER PRESENTS HISTORY AT FOUNDER'S DAY PROGRAM

much discussion, the founders decided upon a co-educational college with the Bible, academic, and collegiate departments. The location was to be either Elizabethtown or Ephrata.

The first school was called Conestoga College but this name proved to be too local and the present name of Elizabethtown was chosen instead. On March 4, 1901, the finished school was dedicated and the formal school work began. The motto chosen was "Educate for Service."

Of the numerous Alumni that has been graduated from Elizabethtown, most of them are teachers, next preachers, and the least number of any profession represented are the medical men.

Prof. Wenger's history of the school was well received by the audience.

Superintendent App of Dauphin County listed several points in favor of the small college. The students can study nature to a greater extent in the small colleges than they can in the larger universities which are usually situated in the larger cities. Then, there are not so many digressing agencies and an ideal is easier to establish and maintain. The faculty and the student body become more closely attached and learn to understand each other better.

Mr. David Schlosser played two piano solos: Nocturne and a waltz by Chopin. Both numbers were roundly applauded and the audience was deeply impressed with the fine interpretation of the two popular classics.

Contrary to expectations, comparatively few alumni members attended the program.

Lancaster Alumni Branch to Meet

The Lancaster Branch of the Alumni Association will hold its annual meeting and dinner Thursday evening, December 7, at the Lancaster Y. W. C. A. Including a number of Faculty members. A large attendance is expected. The affair is scheduled to get under way at 7:15 o'clock.

Commercial Club Initiates Ten New Members Nov. 23

COMMERCIAL HALL, Nov. 23.—The Commercial Club initiated 10 new members here tonight. Under the guidance of Jacob Brubaker, Winifred Shallenberger, and Olive Jameson, the pledges proved their loyalty to the club by divers unique methods. Those admitted to the club are: Esther Myers, Frank C. Eckhart, Abram Hoffman, Elsie V. Lindamood, Leona M. Reinhold, Margaret M. Leas, Russel Hackman, Donald M. Royer, E. Isabel Powell, and Wilbur E. Weaver.

Many interesting facts about the new members were revealed during the initiation. A girl insisted that she is going to be an old maid, and one fellow admitted he was licked when it came to marriage proposals. It was remarkable that each new member realized he was nothing more than a goose after all and then proceeded to tell the world about it in song.

The admittance of the new members enlarges the membership of the Commercial Club considerably. It is expected that the addition of new talent will put new life in the club and cause it to make great strides during the year.

Ruth Diefenbaugh, president of the Commercial Club, has not yet announced the club program for the ensuing year, but, in view of the fact that the club was very active last year, a varied and interesting program can be expected.

2 EDITORS RESIGN FROM TIMES STAFF

Mr. Zuck's action was the cause of a careful analysis of the editorial situation by M. Ray Cobaugh, the editor of the Times. In his discussion Cobaugh emphasized the importance, influence, and responsibility of the collegiate press. Several other points were presented by the editor who definitely defined his position in relation to the paper.

A new apportionment of work was also effected and it was announced that the reporters would work directly under Mr. Lentz rather than under the editor as they had formerly done.

Brown and White of Lehigh University. Hyman Levin, president of the Association, presided. The members were also entertained by musical selections at intervals in the program and by a dance in the hotel following the adjournment.

Give Reports

The initial session was a business meeting Friday afternoon on the University campus at which three addresses were delivered, the most important by Byron Price, chief of the Washington Bureau of the Associated Press. Reports of the treasurer and various committees were also given.

After supper all delegates reconvened for a short meeting at which messages to the convention from 14 important journalists in the world today were read by D. Stuart Webb, honorary president of the local Advertising Club. Editorial and business groups then met separately. The former heard an address by Harvey Rivkin, of the International News Service. Papers were read by several of the delegates at both meetings. Following a motion picture on the "Making of a Newspaper", delegates adjourned to a night club party at the Hi-Hat Supper Club.

Hear Linotype News Editor

A good percentage of the members appeared the next morning for the main business meeting, which was opened with addresses by John E. Allen, editor of the Linotype News, and Robert R. Robertson, president of the National Advertising Service.

Elizabethtown was represented by M. Ray Cobaugh, editor and Franklin Cassel, business manager, of the Times, and Prof. L. D. Rose, chairman of the Board of Control. Prof. Rose used his car to make the trip and took Cobaugh and Cassel with him. In addition to this he insisted that the Times should not pay any of his expenses. This is one of the things that characterizes the attitude and interest that Prof. Rose has shown in Our College Times from the very beginning of the year.

COACH HERR NOT YET READY TO NAME VARSITY QUINTETS

First Team Will Be Selected Dec. 8 as Elizabethtown Opens Against Dickinson Cagemen

GYM, Nov. 13.—In a recent interview with Coach Herr, the fact was disclosed that the varsity five would not be named until the night of the first game at Dickinson, December 8. Coach Herr stated that his decision is due to the fact that competition is keen and the new material, which will practically compose the quintet, is drilling hard in order that they may win their respective positions. At present Coach Herr is trying to inspire confidence in the players by engaging teams composed of town boys to scrimmage the college squad. The Collegians have responded by piling up enormous scores against their weaker and unorganized opponents but the question is what will they do against a stronger and more aggressive opponent. The squad seems rather weak in its passing attack which is probably due to the lack of experience. It is probable that several more hard scrimmages will iron out the necessary wrinkles. Coach Herr is apparently satisfied with the progress being made.

It was well put when the late Knute Rockne said, "The duty of a coach is to teach fundamentals and inspire confidence, the rest depends on the attitude of the student body towards the team."

Squad Wins First Practice Game 39-8

GYM, Nov. 15.—In a practice game here this evening the Elizabethtown College basketball squad easily downed the visiting Aces Club, composed of local town boys, by a score of 39 to 8.

Practically the entire squad saw service in the fray which was the first of this sort this season. The teamwork displayed bids fair to develop a good club spirit.

Lebanon Alumni Association Meets

The Lebanon Branch of the Alumni Association met for its annual meeting and dinner at the Hotel Weimer in Lebanon last Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. Thirty persons were in attendance.

The meeting was in charge of Ray Kurtz, '32. During the business session the following officers were elected: President, Annie R. Royer, '30; Vice-president, Edith A. Eichelberger; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Rufus K. Eby, '24.

Dr. J. I. Baugher, '23, served as toastmaster. Short talks were given by R. K. Eby, '26 and Miss Mary Clemens, both of the Hershey High School Faculty. The following faculty members responded: Dr. Musick, Mrs. Wenger, E. G. Meyer, '24, Ezra Wenger, '22 and L. D. Rose, '11.

Prof. Wenger admonished his hearers not to worry. In the absence of President Schlosser, Prof. Rose called attention to the forward strides on the campus; he also cited several projects in which the alumni may be called upon to assist. He also announced that several branch associations will be organized during the year and that the Alumni Bulletin will soon be mailed to the members of the association.

The girls basketball team did not lose one member through graduation—what a team.

There is not one of last year's letter men available for the boys' varsity squad—worry, worry, worry.

EDDIE LANDER

Edgar "Fats" Lander, first string guard of the Elizabethtown College basketball club, is a printer of some renown, having worked at the trade for six years. He is well known throughout Lancaster's amateur baseball circles as "king of the catchers", having been duly crowned all-Lancaster catcher for the years 1931—32. He is working hard for a position on the Elizabethtown quintet and shows all the qualities of a fast aggressive player.

Sportlights

The Elizabethtown basketball squads are slowly whipping into shape and contemplate a successful season.

Do you know that the success of the basketball squad hinges on YOUR SUPPORT.

Do you know the McPherson College, one of our sister schools, has the only undefeated football team in the state of Kansas.

About three-fourths of our boys' basketball squad are Freshmen.

Do you know that the University of Nebraska's football team pins all their hope on the Bible. Dana Bible is their coach and the proud possessor of three big six championships.

That Metzler is still out for basketball—watch that voice LeRoy. Jones, six-foot center on the varsity squad, wears size twelve shoes.

Our first basketball game with Dickinson is only nine days away—how about giving the boys an encouraging send off.

Coach Herr's pleas for strict training have taken effect—the team is in fine physical condition and should go places.

Girls Squad Rounding into Condition; Martha Groff to Lead Team as New Captain

As the girls' practices continue, much improvement can be seen. The girls are quickening their passes and becoming acclimated to their several positions.

Coach Herr is very well pleased with the practices and he is especially encouraged by the spirit and development of the Freshmen, who are running close competition with the letter girls.

By popular vote of the girls Martha Groff was elected captain for the season '33-'34.

The first game, which is pending with Moravian College, is expected to be scheduled as the preliminary game, December 11, on the home floor.

GREEN MATERIAL COMPOSES '33-'34 BASKETBALL TEAM

No secret is made of the fact that a team of green material will compose the 1933-34 varsity basketball squad of Elizabethtown College. One can hardly go astray in believing that the team needs all the support possible from the student body, in order to have a successful season.

It is hardly possible to have a championship team this year, however, it is worthy to remark that the fellows are showing the fighting spirit that wins games. It is generally conceded that a new squad of men in any sports activity must be given encouragement or they are likely to develop an inferiority complex, so it is virtually certain that 100 per cent student support is extremely necessary.

The following candidates have been working with vigorous determination to win a place on the squad: Edward Lander, Alex Glasmyre, Donald Royer, Eby Espenshade, Harold Hollinger, Robert Trimble, Grover Artman, Cyrus Krall, James Nedrow, Clair Trout, John Jones, Harry Hamme, Shelly Miller, John Weaver, LeRoy Metzler, Harry Saylor, William McDonald, Luke Buffenmyer.

split the palm we gave to Senior. For LeRoy Metzler's interpretation of the wily and all too mercenary Bishop of Lancashire was certainly revealing. His fine acting of this role suggested that "for ways that are dark and for tricks that are vain" Bret Hart's Heathen Chinese is perhaps not the most "peculiar".

Again, Lester Bucher made a very good dramman (an Equivocal compliment? Pardon!). As "Robert Smith", Bucher had a difficult part and acquitted himself with honor.

However, this particularizing is not by the way of forgetting the fine work of the others: of Alva Harsh who played "Manson", the butler, with restraint and understanding; of Anna Reese, who made a very wistful "Mary"; of Naomi Weaver, as "Auntie"; of Harry Saylor, as page to the vicar.

Miss Sheaffer and her cast are to be congratulated for so admirable an interpretation with the materials available. Of course, the hypocritical might interpose at this point, that "Manson", might have spoken more gently and in more measured tones as befits a symbol of Christ; that "Mary", could have been a bit more artless; that "Auntie" might have used fewer gestures. But that would be like demanding that every player in the little stock company that played in the Klondike region in 1897 be an E. H. Southern or a Julia Marlowe—it would be, in fine, just what we have intimated—hypercritical and carping.

The drama, in brief, concerns a vicar, whom (if Wordsworth will forgive)—"the world was too much with." The vicar hopes for funds to repair his church. His wife appeals for aid to her wealthy and worldly brother, the Bishop of Lancashire. The vicar receives from his own brother, the famous Indian Bishop of Benares, an offer to co-operate in the work. (Symbolically, the state of the vicar's church, from the drains of which emanates a mysterious stench, represents the decay of the church spiritual. The Bishop of Lancashire signifies the aristocratic, self-seeking churchman, who vitiates the spirit of Christ's teaching). The vicar, moreover, has grown troubled in conscience by the unchristian treatment he has accorded his other brother, an uncouth drainman. But he is finally brought to a true knowledge of Christ's spirit by his brother, the Bishop of Benares (symbolic of Christ), who, unknown to the others, enters the house as a servant; and after cleansing it of the worldly Bishop of Lancashire's presence, inspires not only the vicar, but his wife, and his drainman-brother to labor for the religion of humanity.

The author of the drama, John R. Kennedy, who, with his wife is director of the Drama Department at the Bennett School, Milbrook, N. Y., has written a number of plays all fearlessly expressing some pressing problem of the day. Not the least of his plays is the short but profoundly telling peace drama, "The Terrible Meek" quoted so much during and after the World War, and banned by three of the Major Powers, because it was so unpatriotic as to speak the gospel of peace at a time when international slaughter was the fashion of the hour.

Mrs. Kennedy, as you probably have no occasion to know, is a noted actress, having played Portia and Rosamund opposite the great Sir Henry Irving, and later supported Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree on his last American tour. Recently she has been touring the country in a repertory of her husband's plays; incidentally, playing "Auntie" in "The Servant in the House".

The Seniors and Miss Sheaffer, chose well when they chose "The Servant in the House". For few plays are so provocative, yet so beautiful—so destructive of the evils of churchdom, the cold formalism, the petty denominational bickering, the purchased seats in Heaven, et al—while at the same time leaving the pure, wholesome, compelling spirit of Christ untainted.

Kennedy's play has known many varied performances since its world premier at the Bijou Theatre in London in 1907. I'd like to give it as my hearty guess that this is certainly not the least respectable of the lot.

Dr. Robert E. Speer to Address
'Y' Assemblies at Albright Dec.
8-9-10. Several Members to Go

ELIZABETHTOWN, Nov. 29.—Reports from the Y. M. C. A. here today indicated that Dr. Robert E. Speer, senior secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, will be featured as the principal speaker at the annual Student-Faculty Y. M. C. A. conference to be held at Albright College, Reading, December 8, 9, and 10.

At a special cabinet meeting of the local chapter of the Y. M. C. A., held here last Monday, it was decided that the college would pay the registration fee of any Y member desiring to attend the conference.

It is hoped that ten or more boys will be able to go.

ROBERT E. SPEER, D.D.

A very full and thorough program has been arranged by the various conference committees for the three days, and, in addition to Dr. Speer, several other eminent lecturers will be heard.

President Henry Hanson of Gettysburg College, will deliver an address at the conference banquet, Saturday evening, in the Albright College dining room.

Members of the college Y. M. C. A. who are interested in attending the conference, are urged to get in touch with the cabinet members as soon as possible.

The Spoiled Broth

- 1—Is it Shocking?
- 2—Not awful.
- 3—The loud guffaw.
- 4—We have privileges

By all the Cooks

The lack of decorum in the library of Elizabethtown College has often been pointed out by the librarian and others interested in the library as the seat of cultural knowledge and progress. It is not idle talk that says that we lack something in the way of library ethics. A transfer student among us said that he was shocked at the attitude that we assume in the library.

The reverential awe that one is supposed to feel in the presence of the great masterpieces of the master minds, does not seem to be present. Instead of awe, we have a light hearted and flippant attitude that is difficult to explain and more difficult still to justify.

Even though literature is an enjoyable thing and one authority, Prof. Howard M. Jones of the University of Michigan recommends that rooms be put in libraries where readers can burst into loud guffaws, we should not make the library a common meeting ground for dates, business meetings, or general conversation.

Because of the small student body at this college, we are accorded many privileges in our library that are denied the student of the large university. Let us protect these privileges by meriting them.

37 Now Practice Teaching

12 in Secondary Schools; 25 in the Primary Grade Division

100 Hours Work Required

Reports from the heads of the departments of elementary and the secondary education, show that there are thirty-seven student teachers from Elizabethtown College practicing in the public schools of Elizabethtown and the near-by community. Of this group of practice teachers twelve are in the secondary schools and twenty-five in the elementary schools. The former group of students are required to teach and practice one hundred hours, and the latter group, ninety hours.

Of the twelve practice teachers in high school five are girls and seven boys. Three students are teaching languages; three sciences; two mathematics; one history, and three commercial subjects. Most of these teachers will have finished their teaching by Thanksgiving vacation, but will continue to observe for a number of hours.

In the class of elementary practice teachers there is quite an unusual circumstance this year, in that there are eleven boys and fourteen girls. Usually the boys in this

Charlie Witmyer Performs as Toastmaster

ALPHA HALL, Dec. 11.—A crowd of 160 persons composed of students and faculty members gathered here tonight to partake of a Christmas Dinner at the invitation of the Student Associations of the college. Miss Sheaffer, Dean Baugher and Prof. Wenger were heard as the speakers on the program.

Vocal and instrumental quartettes supplied the music for the occasion. Charles Witmyer served as toastmaster. The custom of holding a Christmas Dinner for the entire student body was instituted last year.

Boys Down Blue Ridge Five 44-30

Lander and Gerlach Aid in Initial Victory

GYM, Dec. 12.—A crowd of 175 saw the Elizabethtown College quintet down the visiting Blue Ridge aggregation by a 44-30 score in a loosely played game here this evening.

Eddie Lander and Harry Gerlach showed up well for the home club. Royer, a forward, led the scoring with 6 field goals but his floor work was not exceptional.

The Blue Ridge boys failed to present a smooth offense and most of their points came by the long shot and foul routes. In the first half they made 9 out of 11 of the free throws but in the last part of the fray their shooting became ragged.

The Elizabethtown College band made its first public appearance and, together with the cheer leaders, added color to the game and did much to stimulate a good spirit among the rooters.

The fact that Blue Ridge is only a two year school detracts much from tonight's victory. The real test of any improvement made since the miserable showing against Dickinson at Carlisle last Friday, will come when the Chocolate Towners engage the strong East Stroudsburg Teachers on the local court next Thursday night.

German Club Holds Christmas Program

Der Deutsche Verein met Thursday, December 7, and after a short business meeting, presented the following program: a Christmas song by the club; piano solo by Stauffer Curry; "Christmas in Germany," a talk by Guy Hoffmaster; after which Professor Rose gave the outline of the club program for 1933. The program was closed with another Christmas song by the club.

Miss Sheaffer, in her talk, pointed out the modern interpretation of the true Christmas spirit that the event of Christ's birth is supposed to commemorate.

Dean Baugher further emphasized the necessity for remembering the religious significance of the occasion. He stated that a true Christmas joy can be experienced by giving to those who will probably not receive from others. Both Miss Sheaffer and the Dean scored the practice of giving merely for the sake of exchange.

The various Christmas customs of the world were related by the Dean of Men, Prof. Wenger. He also pointed out how our present customs were an outgrowth of the customs over the Christian world. Most of our traditions of the season, however, come from England.

The toastmaster, Charlie Witmyer, a senior day student kept a ripple of laughter running through the audience by his unique announcements of the coming numbers on the program. His comments about the speakers, singers, and things in general were both interesting and enlightening.

English Professor Goes West During Lecture

Miss Sheaffer, Professor of English, unwittingly brought a lengthy discussion to a hilarious close in her lecture yesterday by saying: If you want to know more about this come up sometime.

19 Sons and Daughters of Graduates Now Enrolled

This year nineteen sons and daughters of Elizabethtown Alumni are following the paths of their fathers. Of this goodly crew, six students have parents both of whom have spent halcyon days on College Hill.

Elizabethtown rejoices in the possession of the one senior, two juniors, eight sophomores, and eight freshmen of blue and gray spirited parents. These nineteen are: James V. Nedrow, '34, son of Elmer F. Nedrow, student in 1909, Ludlowville, N. Y.; A. Stauffer Curry, '35, son of Annie Stauffer Curry, student in 1907, Palmyra, Pa.; Elwood S. Hackman, '35, son of Jacob Z. Hackman, '13, and Naomi Stauffer Hackman, student in 1908, Lawn, Pa.; Dorothy L. Bucher, '36, daughter of Rufus P. Bucher, 1900, and Naomi White Bucher, student in 1906, Quarryville, Pa.; Harriet E. Curry, '36, daughter of Annie Stauffer Curry, student in 1907, Palmyra, Pa.; Paul Frey, '36, son of Clayton R. Frey, student in 1907, Elizabethtown, Pa.; Fanny E. Gible, '36, daughter of Christian W. Gible, student in 1906, Manheim, Pa.; Martha E. Groff, '36, daughter of Mary Stayer Groff, '04, Elizabethtown, Pa.; Jacob E. Hershman, '36, son of John R. Yule Enthusiasts Fail to Get Tree

ELIZABETHTOWN, Dec. 6.—Believing a Christmas tree necessary to preserve the spirit of the occasion, a group of students headed by Harriet Curry left Alpha Hall here this afternoon in search of a suitable pine. Two hours later they returned empty-handed.

A second search was instituted by Miss Zug, Les Bucher, Russ Hackman, and Bob Trimble but it suffered the unhappy fate of ending at the candy counter of a local department store.

Candles Admit Eight Members

New Ritual Used for First Time; Initiation Is Strenuous

ALPHA HALL, Dec. 6.—At a meeting here tonight, the Candles introduced a new form of ritual for the purpose of taking in new members, which will probably become a permanent part of the organization. Eight new members were admitted from the Junior and the Senior classes and Doctor E. S. Kiracofe was officially given the position as adviser by Doctor R. W. Schlosser, who has held the position for the past several years. Doctor Schlosser resigned because of his activities in other fields.

Prior to the ritual, the fraternity held a form of initiation for the new members very similar to that used by the German Club some weeks ago. The pledges were forced to go through many obnoxious operations including the taking of some cod liver oil by means of a straw and the rolling of a peanut the entire length of the gym with their noses. Following the initiations, the pledges were permitted to change clothing in order to participate in the ritual.

Refreshments were served and a short program was given in the reception room following the ritual.

Two of the charter members of the club, I. W. Keller and James S. Miller, together with several other alumni members, were present for the initiation, the ritual and the refreshments.

Speer, Hanson, and Hart Are Heard as Feature Speakers

Albright 'Y' Is Host

READING, Dec. 10.—The Student-Faculty Conference at Albright College came to a successful conclusion here today. Dr. Robert E. Speer, New York City; President G. Morris Smith, Susquehanna University; President Henry W. A. Hanson, Gettysburg College; and Reverend John R. Hart, of Philadelphia, were the principal speakers. Fifteen delegates from Elizabethtown were present at the conference, which had for its theme: "Adventuring With a Changeless Christ."

The Elizabethtown delegation attended en masse all the inspiring programs presented at the conference. Friday evening the various delegations were welcomed to the conference by J. Warren Klein, president of Albright College. Dr. Robert E. Speer, of New York City then opened the conference by an address on the theme: "Is there Adventure in the Application of the Principles of Jesus?"

Saturday morning Dr. Robert E. Speer gave another well-accepted talk stressing "The Finality of Jesus." Afterwards the conference delegates divided into four groups and received much benefit and guidance. (Continued on Page Four)

Kurtz to Head Forensic Arts

Defeats Nevin Zuck; Cobaugh Declared Ineligible For Office

Sechrist Named Secretary

ALPHA HALL, Nov. 29.—Earl Kurtz defeated Nevin Zuck here today in a hotly contested election for the presidency of the Forensic Arts Club. The Faculty Committee on Student Activities frustrated the plans of the Day-Student political bosses by declaring their candidate for the office, M. Ray Cobaugh, ineligible because of his activities in other fields.

Margaret Sechrist, a Sophomore, was named secretary while Leroy Eshleman, another Sophomore, was elected Treasurer. Cyrus Bucher was chosen vice-president.

Nevin Zuck was appointed manager of debating for both men and women. He will correspond with other colleges and arrange the schedule.

Later in the year managers will also be appointed to take charge of oratory and extemporaneous speaking.

Debating at Elizabethtown will not begin until the second semester. At the present time the debaters are receiving a lecture course from Pres. Schlosser who is discussing the technique and methods of the subject.

ELIZABETHTOWN, A COLLEGE IN EVOLUTION

Few colleges have changed as rapidly as has Elizabethtown during the last two decades. Despite the fact that it is situated in an essentially conservative locality and that it is largely attended by a notably conservative people, it has undergone sweeping and significant changes.

It is not to be assumed, however, that the college is responsible for all the changes that have been effected in it. The fact that automobiles have replaced buggies and that cornfields have given way to spacious lawns, cannot be wholly the result of the influence exerted by the college. These things are merely indications of the times.

On the other hand, certain evolutions are the result of contacts afforded the students of the college. Our present attitude toward athletics is a comparatively recent development. Ten years ago there were very few, if any, intercollegiate contests. Our first intercollegiate debate occurred only eight years ago.

Less than two decades ago, Our College Times stated that "if you use cigarettes, no one will trust you or believe what you say". Today, while smoking is prohibited on the campus, some of our finest students are addicted to the habit. These are not all the examples one could cite but they are enough to reveal that there is a definite evolution in progress.

Some people deplore the fact that "the old order changeth"; others regard it indifferently while still others are pleased with the turn that the events have taken.

To those who look with misgiving at the new Elizabethtown College that has evolved from the one founded in 1899, there is a definite reassurance. Stern and rugged do these principles upon which the school was founded still exist. Education for service is yet the aim but service is not alone the goal; a definite attempt is made to preserve those ideals that have guided the founders of our school and that have given its patrons the courage to further the project.

The changes do not necessarily reveal harm, nor are they indications of unusual progress; they are merely the products of the times and should not be unduly deplored or widely extolled.

SCHOOL SPIRIT—WHAT IS IT? WHERE IS IT?

We think chiefly about school spirit in connection with athletics. Perhaps it is here that we see it most strongly evidenced. For school spirit means school pride, we lack it at Elizabethtown. For this statement there is ample proof and multifarious reasons.

As to the evidence, our mere lack of attendance at intercollegiate contests is a strong justification for our saying that there is a dearth of school pride at Elizabethtown. Basketball, Baseball, Tennis, Debates—all are very poorly attended. The convenience of these contests to our student body ought to insure an almost perfect attendance; yet all have been known to be carried on with very few spectators or a very small audience.

There are several reasons for these conditions; one outstanding one is the time of our pep meetings. Pep meetings at four o'clock are useless. They ought to come in the morning, somewhere around chapel time.

Enough of the reasons, after all, what we most need is not an analysis but a definite cooperative program to catch this elusive spirit. The staff of Our College Times, particularly the sports editor, is willing to lend a hand. Athletic council, Administration, Students, Alumni, in what way can you help?

Chapel Audience Hears Dr. Musick

CHAPEL, Dec. 4.—Dr. Musick, to-day, gave the second of his addresses on Economic Efficiency. The theme of his discourse was "The Balanced Budget".

Professor Musick claimed that the budget can be balanced through the economization of what one already has, the specialization of one's productive activities, the revising of one's wants, and the rationalization of consumption.

The doctor illuminated the above outline by pithy phrases and anecdotes. Above all, he stressed the increase of one's bill-of-fare. By this, he claimed that he did not mean the increase of the menu for food; too much stress is put on this already for few of the masses can enjoy the beauty of a garden, the theme of a painting or the harmony of music for any length of time without ejecting that impressive phrase: "When do we eat?" We have no appreciation for art.

"For a perfectly balanced budget, one must have a balanced life."

No Dates - Hard Rule for Freshmen to Obey

The rule prohibiting Frosh to have dates is the one that appears the most troublesome to them. The Women's Student Council has found almost no other offense committed by the Freshmen girls. The boys have likewise had their little difficulties because of the attraction of the opposite sex.

There are, however, other offenses noticed by the Councils. In some cases boys have been punished for taking the head of a table in the dining room and not giving the preference to upper-classmen, refusing to clean debris from the Gym after the Hallowe'en Party, and disrespectfully handling the American Flag.

On the whole, however, it may be said that the Freshmen have not given the Student Councils much trouble and they are striving to keep the "Ten Commandments," especially the one added by Elizabethtown College: Thou shalt have no dates.

Y. W. C. A. HOLDS PARTY FOR MEN

The outstanding activity of the Y. W. C. A. during the month of November was a Thanksgiving party to which the members of the Y. M. C. A., the faculty and their wives were invited. A spirit of fellowship characterized the whole party.

An interesting program consisting of a series of pantomimes depicting the life of "The Girl" from childhood to maturity together with contests and extemporaneous speeches featured the balance of the evening's program.

Refreshments were served. Alva Harsh formally thanked the girls for their hospitality.

COLLEGE BAND REHEARSES WEEKLY

SCIENCE HALL, Dec. 11.—The lately conceived College Band met today for another of its weekly rehearsals. This group meets each Monday at 4:00 P. M. under the directorship of Charles Nissley, leader of the Municipal Band of Elizabethtown.

Although among the younger activities of the hill, the band seems to be progressing at an appreciable rate to arouse our interest in its program. The aim of the band, at

From Here and There

The Library is no community center, at least that is what Russel Hackman found out on recently trying to carry on a conversation there.

Mrs. McCann and members of the faculty were cordially invited to attend a Repeal Celebration at the Old Livery Stable night club at Palmyra. Mixed drinks, dancing, and "what have you" until the wee small hours of the morning were billed as features.

The Ursinus Weekly tells us that the Sophomore-Freshmen football game was very different from former years. It was an orderly game this year.

At the University of West Virginia prior to 1911 a bell was rung every night at nine o'clock, warning students that they must go to their rooms. At six A. M. a cannon was fired to get them out of bed.

Open Forum

Dear Editor:

Due to the fact that the flag has been improperly handled and much adverse criticism has been directed by the student body toward the Men's Student Council, we are setting forth some of the principles that the Freshmen will have to observe in the future:

1—The flag should be displayed from sunrise to sunset or between such hours that may be designated by the proper authorities. It should be hoisted briskly and should be lowered slowly and ceremoniously. The flag should be displayed on all National and State holidays. (However, being the emblem of our country, it ought to fly from every flagpole everyday throughout the year, weather permitting.)

2—Do not let the flag touch the ground or the floor or trail in the water.

3—Do not fasten the flag in such a manner as will permit it to be easily torn.

4—Do not display, store, or use the flag in such a manner as will permit it to be easily soiled.

5—When flown at half-mast, the flag should be hoisted to the peak for an instant and then lowered to the half-mast position; but before lowering the flag for the day it should be raised again to the peak. By half-mast is meant hauling down the flag to a position half way between the top and the bottom of the staff. If local conditions require, divergence from this position is permissible.

6—The flag should be carefully folded.

7—The flag should be placed on the table in room J of Memorial Hall when not displayed.

Fan Pleads for Easier Schedule

Dear Editor:

Time has shown that throughout the several years in which Elizabethtown College has participated in intercollegiate basketball, they have scheduled teams entirely out of their class. Even if they did play good basketball, our boys would be forced to lose games because they are engaging opponents who have at hand two or three teams, equally versed in the fine art of basketball, to run in the game at any convenient time. It has definitely been established by records that no college with a student body the size of ours can, with a few exceptions, compete against a school with a student enrollment of several hundred and expect to have a successful basketball season. It is my firm belief that if Elizabethtown would schedule colleges more on their own standing, the day will be seen when it is possible for our teams to play larger schools and step out of the frays victorious. Records of many colleges show that winning athletic teams produce larger student enrollments.

Jacob Hershman.

Lancaster Alumni Meet In Annual Session

LANCASTER, Nov. 30.—Thirty persons attended the annual meeting and dinner of the Lancaster branch of the Alumni Association of Elizabethtown College held in the Y. W. C. A. building here this evening.

Colsin R. Shelly, '31, presided and the following officers were elected: President, John M. Miller, '05; vice president, I. E. Shoop, '04; secretary, Evelyn H. Sprenkle, '31; treasurer, Henry G. Bucher, '28.

Prof. Ezra Wenger, '22, served as toastmaster and Dr. P. M. Harbold of F. & M. College, was the guest speaker for the evening.

Dr. R. W. Schlosser, president of Elizabethtown College, presented an optimistic outlook for the institution, stating that there has been an increase of 33 per cent. in the enrollment this year over last year. He also pointed out that the chapel has been refurbished. An intensive solicitation for students during the second semester was also predicted.

650 Witness Contest

CARLISLE, Dec. 8.—Completely outclassing their visiting opponents in every department of the game, the Dickinson Red Devils ran roughshod over the Elizabethtown College basketball club in a loosely played game here tonight by a score of 62-14.

The steady playing of Hughes and the phenomenal shooting of Eaton and Wilson enabled the home club to keep well in the van throughout the contest. The Dickinson aggregation jumped into an early lead and were never threatened.

Glasmire and Lander were the only two Elizabethtown boys that seemed to be able to keep their bearings before the onslaught of the sharpshooters from Dickinson. The size of the floor and the caliber of the opposition seemed to have the rest of the boys in a fever.

The game tonight which was the first one this season for either team, was witnessed by a crowd of 650 spectators. Elizabethtown had a few students in the stands rooting for the boys but the majority of the crowd were supporters of the home team. The Dickinson band and a well organized cheering section added much color to the contest that otherwise was not too interesting.

Basketball-- Fast But Not Strenuous

Basketball, although one of the fastest of all sports, is not so strenuous as many believe.

Coach Everett Dean of Indiana, has compiled some interesting statistics from a number of games. The teams involved were Purdue, Indiana, Chicago, Notre Dame, Iowa, and Carnegie Tech.

Coach Dean's figures reveal that in the average game there are a total of 108 interruptions and that the actual playing periods without stops average 2 minutes, 22 seconds. The shortest playing period without stop is one second.

Other data from these games show that there are 19 jump balls, 31 center jumps, and 14 fouls in the average contest while the number of out-of-bounds is 38.

Eighteen is the average number of baskets scored for the entire game.

class outnumbered the girls. Because of this proportion it is impossible to give every student practice in the country as well as in the town schools. Since the period of teaching for this group continues until Christmas vacation, many students are taking charge of the Thanksgiving and Christmas programs to be rendered in the various rooms. From the reports of many of the students, everyone is enjoying his work. The critic teachers also appreciate the work done by these students.

ROBERT TRIMBLE

Robert "Bob" Trimble hails from Elizabethtown High School where he has made a name for himself in athletics, having excelled in football, basketball, and baseball.

He is a blacksmith by trade, having worked as an apprentice for a few years before pursuing his college education.

He plays a guard position on the varsity team and has shown throughout the many scrimmages flashes of brilliant defensive ability.

Sportlights

A few years ago Elizabethtown College was the proud possessor of a football team.

Paul Fisher, former athlete of Elizabethtown College, recently ran for Justice of the Peace. He lost.

That Lander boy certainly is a slicker: Thanksgiving Day he crawled over the fence and saw the F. & M.-Gettysburg game free of charge. Watch him next year F. & M.; he'll be there.

Bridgewater college of Virginia has seven lettermen available from their last year's basketball squad.

U. of P. boasts of having one of the largest basketball teams in the country. The average height is about 6feet 3 in, the smallest member being 6 feet—and they call him shorty.

Coach Herr went deer hunting but came home empty handed, Oh dear. Martha Groff, captain of the girls sextet, leads her class in scholastic standing.

GYM, Dec. 12.—The Elizabethtown College Girls opened their season here tonight with a 32-11 win over the Alumni of the Elizabethtown H. S. The Blue and Gray exhibited a good brand of basketball in the face of a weak but fighting opposition.

Ruth Eshenbaugh, diminutive forward, played an outstanding game for the visiting club while no one of her teammates. The guards and forwards, however, appeared to be generally better than the middle division players.

The girls will play East Stroudsburg as a preliminary to the varsity game tomorrow

CLUB NOTES

At a special meeting of the executive committee on Tuesday December 5, the Commercial Club outlined its program for the balance of this school year. The committee decided to see if arrangements could be made to go through a modern broadcasting station, a large airport, a modern office, and one or two important factories. A visit to the legislative halls in Harrisburg is also contemplated for the club. The committee expects to have a prominent speaker at the open session of the club to be held in the spring.

The Ministerium met on Wednesday December 6, for a short business meeting and an interesting program. Professor A. C. Baugher outlined for the club the history of theological seminaries. He brought out that it was the need for higher education for the ministers of our land that led to the establishment of colleges and universities. Professor Baugher closed his talk by giving advice to prospective ministers concerning further work in theological seminaries after leaving Elizabethtown College.

Plans for Play

ALPHA HALL, Dec. 5.—At a meeting here tonight the Sock and Buskin laid plans for a play to be given in the near future; the subject of membership was also discussed at some length.

The constitution was changed to limit the membership to twenty-five for the next semester. This modification means that there is a possibility of four Freshmen being admitted to the club.

It was also decided to present a free program sometime in the near future before the main Dramatic Club play which will be presented sometime in April.

Glee Club to Carol Friday Morning

At three o'clock Friday morning the Glee Club will revive an old custom of singing Christmas carols throughout the village of Elizabethtown. The caroling will be the club's first public appearance of the year.

The Glee Club is also preparing a group of high grade A Capella numbers to be sung among the Brethren churches of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. The music department has selected the best of the musical talent to represent the school. The Freshmen talent has added much strength and quality to the choir.

It is expected that a light opera or an oratoria will be developed in the second semester.

The entire club expects to go to hear the Russian Symphonic Choir at Harrisburg in January; all its members are expected to listen to organizations of this type whenever they have the opportunity.

Gala Homecoming Planned for January 12-13

All Alumni Are Invited

Program Planned

Big Turn-out Hoped For By the Present Students

ELIZABETHTOWN, Jan. 9.—Elizabethtown College is preparing for what is expected to be the greatest home-coming ever staged at the institution. All the alumni, former students and friends of the college are invited to be on College Hill, January 12 and 13 to participate in this event.

The present students are planning to give an enthusiastic welcome to the old grads who can be present on the gala occasion.

An inclusive program is contemplated for the week-end. The Sock and Buskin Club will start the activities with the presentation of several short plays on Friday evening, January 12.

The Alumni of the college will take an active part in the affair by giving a program on Saturday morning which will consist of a "Jury Panel Discussion" of alumni questions.

The Science Club (Sigma Zeta) will give an exhibition on Saturday afternoon.

A basketball game in the evening will be the last scheduled event.

SYMPATHY

The Times extends its sympathy to Guy Hoffmaster, '35, in the recent passing of his mother. The student body sorrows with him in his bereavement.

President Schlosser's Message to Former Students and Alumni

On January 12 and 13 all roads for former students and alumni of Elizabethtown College lead to College Hill. It will be the first home-coming celebrated, and former friendships are to be renewed and old-time fellowships revived. May the genuine spirit of Elizabethtown College loyalty bring you back to the campus. A splendid treat is in store—music, dramas, discussions, exhibitions, basketball—a real time of hobnobbing with old friends and scenes rich in recollections of former days. You are all cordially invited and earnestly entreated to come.

Sigma Zeta to Hold Exhibit

SCIENCE HALL—A display of the advances made in the fields of science will be one of the special features for the Home-coming Day program. The Sigma Zeta aims to show just what the school can do in science.

In the field of Chemistry, the club expects to give demonstrations in Nitrogen Fixing, Blue Printing, Butter-fat Analyzing, Milk and Water Analyzing, and minor Silvering. These will be accompanied by charts showing recent discoveries made in this field.

The physics department will endeavor to have on display the photo electric cell, the electric windmill, and a sound in vacuum demonstration.

The biological display is planned to include dissections of animals to show the nervous and circulatory systems and muscular reactions, the dissecting work having been done by the comparative anatomy division.

The club hopes to have the results of the bird mating experiments, carried on by the club, computed and charted for exhibition at this time.

Short Plays on Program

The Sock and Buskin will entertain the alumni on Friday evening, January 12 in the Gymnasium as part of the first homecoming celebration of Elizabethtown College. The evening's entertainment will consist of the presentation of two one-act plays. One of them is entitled "The Trysting Place" and is written by Booth Tarkington. The following members of the Dramatic Club will participate: Anna Reese, Eby Espenshade, Ruth Eshleman, Ruth Groff, John Weaver, and Harry Saylor.

The character of the other play, "Will You Marry Me?", by William Fuhlam will be portrayed by: Marguerite Sechrist, Helen Ott, Lester Bucher, Esther Zug, Naomi Weaver, Harriet Curry, Earl Kurtz, and Nev-Zuck.

Research Laboratory Nearing Completion

At the recent trustee meeting it was announced that Professor Shortess and his aides had nearly completed their work on the microtechnical laboratory that has been erected on the north end of the campus.

This research laboratory has the advantage of the fresh water lake and the spring. Prof. Shortess and his helpers hope to finance this work by supplying biological materials to schools. At present they are working on a collection of living materials around the lake and introducing plants that are not growing in the vicinity, but should be native to the section. They are also improving methods in the preparation and staining of materials.

MANHEIM, PA., Jan. 5.—The Sophomore Class of Elizabethtown College held a party near here tonight at the home of Fanny Gible, one of the members of the class. Approximately thirty of the class were present, and everyone enjoyed an exceptionally pleasant evening. The evening's entertainment was in charge of Fanny Gible and Ammon Wenger.

To start the evening off Martha Reist played the piano and various members of the class rendered more or less melodious selections of music. A game was then played, the winners of which had to tell one of the most interesting experiences of their lives. Jacob Hershman and Henry Bollinger had the honors. After the refreshments were served several members of the class participated in a water drinking contest. Paul Gerber and Florence Henning won the prize, which was a rubber doll with a suitable note attached. Nev-Zuck, president of the class, officially made Mrs. Gible, the mother of the hostess, the champion (Continued on Page Three)

Alumni Editor and Secretary

PROFESSOR L. D. ROSE

Professor Rose, secretary of the Alumni Association, has announced the publication of the Alumni Bulletin of which he is editor. Copies have been mailed to the members of the Association.

Telescope Work Is Progressing

SCIENCE HALL—Elizabethtown College shall get a telescope. This will be a realization in the near future if the project undertaken by the Sigma Zeta or Science Club can successfully be brought to a finish. A new telescope of the reflecting type with a six inch lens, will be the goal of this endeavor. The most noteworthy part of this project is that the club is aiming to have the fun of making the entire telescope, both lens and mountings. Various members of the club will make trials at grinding lens, and the best one made will become part of the instrument. The metal work will be made in a nearby machine shop where Paul Herr, a member of the club, is an employee.

The club is being encouraged in its efforts by the aid of Professors Shortess and Myers.

College Trustees Effect Important Measures at Quarterly Meeting

ALPHA HALL, Jan. 3.—The regular meeting of the Board of Trustees was held here today; all the members of the Board were present except two.

The chief items for consideration were of a financial nature. Matters of insurance, investments and the collection of unpaid bills comprised the main points of discussion.

The treasurer's report together with the audit of the certified public accountant was accepted.

Boys Are in Good Condition Asserts Coach

Topping the list of attractions offered the participants in Elizabethtown College's home-coming this week-end will be a basketball game between the fighting Indians of Juniata College and the Elizabethtown Choc-lateers.

Despite the fact that the warriors have a strong team and have lost only one man from last year, the local club is expected to furnish them with plenty of competition.

The Elizabethtown five has been steadily improving since its first game and seems to be at last hitting its stride. Coach Herr reports that the boys are in the pink of condition physically and are prepared to do their best.

The Juniata fray is the most important one on the Elizabethtown schedule. The rivalry is very keen and a fast game will undoubtedly mark the initial meeting of the two schools on the basketball court this season.

During the last several years the Chocolatetowners have been unable to turn the tide on the Huntingdon lads and this year it is expected that they will avenge some of the losses suffered at former encounters.

To date, the preliminary game has not been announced.

Susquehanna Cagemen Nose Out Elizabethtown Club in Fast Fray

ELIZABETHTOWN, Jan. 6.—Exhibiting the worst form of the season, the Elizabethtown College basketball team was badly beaten in a rough game here tonight against the Susquehanna University Crusaders by a score of 46 to 19. Many fans of the smallest crowd yet to witness a contest on the local court this season, were visibly disappointed at the type of game put up by the home club.

Roach, a center for the visitors, lead the scoring with 6 field goals and 1 foul for a total of 13 points. Harry Gerlach, of the home club, was a close second with ten counts, 4 of which came by the free throw route.

Alex Glassmire, stalwart forward for the local boys, played his usual fine game on the defense. Failure to shoot when in scoring territory and repeated attempts to work the plays too far under the basket were some of the weaknesses displayed by the Elizabethtown boys. Summaries:

"WE LOVE THY SONS SO NOBLE—"

No college exists in one town alone. What we see here on the hill is only a relatively small part of Elizabethtown College; a larger part and by far a more important one, the alumni, lies beyond us. To the students that have gone before, we owe a debt that only our keeping faith with the traditions of the school can repay. Theirs was the task of establishing the precedents for us. Whatever reputation or prestige we possess, we have gained only through their efforts.

Knowing this, we have a right to be justly proud of the achievements of the noble sons of Elizabethtown College who have given so much toward making our school what it is today.

AND THY DAUGHTERS FAIR AND TRUE—"

The women, too, are deservant of much praise. In their work in foreign and domestic fields they have ably carried on the traditions of our school and have ever sought to preserve its name and enlarge its realm of influence.

We are conscious of the part all our students have played in the making of Elizabethtown College and we shall be glad to welcome all of them back for our home coming next week.

THE LOUD LAUGH THE VACANT MIND

A sage once said: An educated person is one who can experience something new without laughing. What an indictment against us, the students of Elizabethtown College, who are convulsed with loud, uncouth, and revolting laughter at the slightest provocation!

In our dining rooms, lecture halls, and social gatherings, a ripple of laughter, which among enlightened people has become the accepted response to humor in its enlightened stage, is invariably buried under an avalanche of Hottentotish sounds that would make Iowa's champion hog-caller hang his head for shame. Statements alleged to be jokes, regardless of the fact that they are hoary with age, uttered by speakers who have little else to offer are generally greeted with resounding guffaws. The loud laugh, which the beloved Oliver claims to be an indication of the vacant mind, has become our stamp of approval.

Milonic decorum is not our goal. A sense of humor is something that ought to be cultivated; it acts as a disperser of gloom and serves to pronounce a fitting benediction to the eccentricities and incongruities of life. The lamentable thing is that its virtues are being obliterated by the loud and incessant laughter of persons who are under the impression that this is the only way of manifesting its presence.

CARRY ON; WE LIKE IT.

One of the most welcome of the recent additions to the activities on the hill has been the Elizabethtown College Band. It has filled a real need that has long been felt on the campus.

The unity of the spirit and stimulus that its effects at the basketball games can scarcely be estimated. To those students who have attended the college last year when we did not have an organization of this sort, the band is especially noted and appreciated.

With the coming of the band many of the students also felt the need for a real lively school song to augment if not supplant our present Alma Mater which is both too long and too heavy for athletic contests. Something in a decidedly lighter vein would be more desirable.

This condition, however, is not the band's shortcoming. The work that it has already done is commendable and we appreciate it.

Unemployment Is No Reason For Folded Hands, Claims Elder

CHAPEL, Jan. 2.—Stressing the fact that unemployment is no reason for folded hands, Elder Joseph N. Cassel, told the student body during the regular chapel period this morning that the world still needs active men and women because of the fact that there is yet much to be accomplished in the way of charity towards others if the American people are to learn the true definition of equality as it is written in their constitution.

Elder Cassel is quite active in the work of the Brethren Church. He has also long been identified with Elizabethtown College both as a patron and a member of the Board of Trustees.

Prior to his remarks, Dr. R. W. Schlosser, President of the College, extended to the students greetings for the new year.

By all the Cooks

Despite the fact that Elizabethtown College is endowed with the necessary equipment to afford practically all its students facilities for participation in competitive sports, it still remains a fact that about fifty per cent of our students graduate from the institution without having participated in any definitely organized athletic contest with the possible exception of the meager attempt made to afford them this opportunity in line with the regular physical education.

While other colleges are making rapid strides toward the stimulation of projects that would foster a more universal participation in athletics, Elizabethtown seems to be retreating. The field day, that only a few years ago was an annual spring event of some importance, has disappeared. Intramural athletics, which were furthered with much activity and no little interest, have become a thing of the past. Even the activities of the junior varsity basketball squad are on the wane.

Only last week, Princeton University announced that it now has effected a program of intramural sports, the benefits of which reach ninety per cent of the non-varsity students. The movement was first organized in 1873 and has now grown to occupy a position of such importance that the University authorities are taking definite steps to aid its further expansion.

President Harold Willis Dodds declared his approval of intracollegiate athletics because of the great advantage to the large number of students participating. Speaking of the interest evidenced in these sports, he said: "The student body is not showing a lack of feeling for the varsity sports of the university, but the average undergraduate is showing more of an interest in his own athletic development."

Commerciantes Meet

COMMERCIAL HALL, December 13.—The Commerciantes met to-day for a business meeting and a short program. The future plans of the club were discussed by President Ruth Diffenbaugh. Olive Jameson had charge of the program which consisted of a guessing game and a discussion on advertisements. Angeline Piscetelli won the game, having the most correct answers.

Open Forum

Dear Editor:

On several occasions it has been suggested that I write some constructive instead of destructive criticism, and for that reason I am writing this letter. I, as one individual wish to, at this time, congratulate the team on the fine sportsmanship displayed throughout the several games and also wish to point out the fact that they have played hard aggressive basketball despite a great handicap. But the fact remains that they are not winning enough games to bring them before the public's eyes. It is my firm belief that to do this there must be a complete revolution of athletics at Elizabethtown. We must have a winning team to bring our name before the public. The following is my suggestion as a remedy:

1. Several "push overs" at the beginning of the season are necessary to inspire confidence in the team.
2. Lower admission prices are necessary, in these times, in order that the public may see the team in action.
3. The games must be advertised in a more attractive style, and the advertisements placed in more conspicuous places.
4. No player whether varsity of last year or not is sure of his or her position. The team shall be open at all times for prospective material.
5. The team should receive more support from the alumni.

I realize this letter will cause much criticism and citing this fact I am not open for argument. This is my individual idea and I would consider a reply to this letter a very sportsman-like form of criticism.

Skating Popular on Lake Placida

ELIZABETHTOWN, Pa., Jan. 4. —Lake Placida has been playing hostess to many skating enthusiasts since the holiday vacation. For several evenings scores of devotees have participated in this healthful form of exercise.

It is clearly apparent that many fine skaters represent the local institution. During the frequent hockey games, such stalwarts as "Eddie" Lander, "Pef" Engle, Leo Kob, and "Jake" Hershman were outstanding.

A movement is under way to promote intramural hockey matches, by several members of the student body. "The world's fastest game" will be a new sport at E-town, and should prove interesting.

Band Enlivens Contest

GYM, Dec. 14.—Facing one of the strongest basketball clubs ever to play on the local court, the Elizabethtown College cagemen were unable to prevent a 64-21 defeat at the hands of the visiting East Stroudsburg quintet here tonight.

Despite their decisive defeat, however, the home boys acquitted themselves with credit and showed much improvement in their floor work since the Blue Ridge game here last Tuesday. Outstanding among the meliorations was the work of Royer and Artman. Both these boys are beginning to show signs of real promise. Every man on the team seemed to be doing his best and the defeat lay in the fact that the boys were outclassed by a faster and more experienced club rather than in avoidable mistakes or lack of coordination.

The visiting teachers, using two full teams, played a fast cutting game using quick short passes. The type of defense play they employed, sending a forward out to dog the man with the ball before the opposing team crosses the center line, worried the Elizabethtown boys a great deal and did much to frustrate their offense.

The College Band, an organization that is rapidly becoming one of the most popular on the hill, was present at both the girls and varsity games and did much to enliven the cheering sections by providing color and atmosphere to the fray.

Alexander (Alex) Glasmire hails from Leola, where men are born, not made. His affable manner and sincere willingness to lend his hand to the right cause has gained him many friends and admirers both on and off the basketball floor.

Stepping right into a varsity berth his first year, Alex has proved himself a sterling defense man and one who is particularly aggressive when the odds are greatest.

First Defeat of Season

GYM, Dec. 14.—Jumping into an early lead which was never threatened during the entire game, the East Stroudsburg girls easily defeated the Elizabethtown College club, in a one-sided fray staged here this evening, by a 31-9 count.

The caliber of the opposition had the local girls bewildered and although they staged a valiant attempt to avert the defeat they were outplayed in every department of the game by the carefully coached visitors. The Stroudsburg guards were particularly brilliant, holding the Elizabethtown forwards to 9 points.

Miss Ruth Dittenbaugh of the Elizabethtown team, recently transferred from a forward position, worked with surprising smoothness at her new post at guard as Misses Longenecker and Woodward weakened in the face of terrific pace set by the visitors.

The set-back tonight was the first experienced by the Elizabethtown Girls this season. They had previously defeated the Alumni team of the local high school.

Longenecker and Groff Star as Girls Trounce Lancaster Team

ELIZABETHTOWN, Jan. 6.—The stellar guarding on the part of Mable Longenecker and the accurate shooting of Martha Groff enabled the Elizabethtown College girls basketball team to gain an easy victory here tonight over the Eighth Ward girls team of Lancaster by a score of 31-19. Louise Carroll, a forward, played a good game for the visitors.

The ability of the Elizabethtown girls to convert foul shots into points gave them a decided advantage over their opponents from the Red Rose city who had considerable trouble locating the basket from the free throw line.

They have a splendid reputation as star instrumentalists both in this country and Canada. They have made several trans-continental tours.

Forensic Arts Society To Study Other Clubs

The Forensic Arts Club, newly organized this year, is studying similar societies of other schools to learn how they function. When it matures, the hope is to form a Forensic Speech Club instead, which will include all speaking activities. Of these numerous and scattered societies and clubs such as oratory, extemporaneous speaking, debating, reading, and dramatics, one consolidated club will be formed.

Debating is the main feature of the club at present. The manager has been appointed, the men's team chosen, and a series of lectures given by Pres. Schlosser. The women's team has not been selected as yet and will feel the absence of Miss Jameson, one of last year's veterans, who cannot participate this year. Final schedules have not yet been completed.

It was voted again to offer five free scholarships, three east of the Susquehanna River, and two west.

It was decided to make some repairs in the buildings including new floor in part of the dining room. An investigation into the possibility of a change in the heating of Alpha Hall was authorized.

Mr. A. G. Breidenstine of Soudersburg, and Mr. Charles Schwenk of Jersey Shore, were approved as nominees for the trustees in the annual election held by the Alumni Association.

The Board requested that effort be made on the part of the students, faculty and alumni further to increase the enrollment for the coming year. The present enrollment is 30 per cent larger than that of last year.

Elizabethtown fared a little better than the average college in placing of the graduates last year.

Organized Sports Not a New Thing

The joy of efforts and the love of competition which characterized the Greeks caused the multiplication of competitors and the rivalry of the city states which during the sixth century, made Greece, literally, a nation of athletes. Though we have no means of comparing their athletic performances with those of our time, it may be safely asserted that no nation ever attained so high a level of physical fitness as the Greeks did at the close of the sixth and the beginning of the fifth century. But the Greeks were also a nation of artists and in the beauty of the athlete the Greek artist found an inspiration no less strong than that of religion and somewhat closely related to it. Thus there arose an Athletic art which in its turn refined athletics and helped to produce the athletic ideal which found its highest expression in the sculpture of the fifth century.

The sixth century was an age of organized competition. But though gymnastics were already an essential part of education there was as yet no science of training. Such training as their was, was merely traditional. Sport was still largely recreational, and purely amateur. It was the stage in which football was half a century ago in our schools and universities, when the game existed for the benefit of the players, not for the spectators and the press.

The characteristics of the sixth century were strength. Many of the athletes won distinction in war, and the effects of athletics on the nation were shown in the Persian wars. Thus one can readily see why such desperate attempt is being made to revive some of the old Grecian sports.

The activities of the Y. W. C. A. previous to the Christmas vacation included a Christmas party and several evening carol services on the dormitory. The party was held Wednesday evening, December 13, from 4:00 to 6:00 P. M. Carol singing, games, and refreshments were a part, but the big feature of the evening was the arrival of Santa Claus, who delivered gifts which revealed the identity of the "Big Sisters" or the upper class girls who had been giving little gifts secretly to the Freshmen girls all through the year.

The evening carol services were held in the "Y" room and were made impressive by the lighted candles, the Christmas tree, and the open fireplace.

Common Sense Overcomes Blind Optimism As Athletic Situation Shows No Signs of Improvement

A Coach Is No Magician

First Class Material Is Seen as Crying Need

The recent disastrous defeats suffered by the Elizabethtown College basketball team have awakened many students and some alumni into the realization that a coach is not a magician and that he is helpless unless he has some first-class material with which to work.

For a period of four years the local college club has failed to annex a major engagement and the last successful season we had was in 1928 when our present coach Ira Herr had such stars as Clyde Wenger, "Red" Angstadt, and Harry Bower around whom to build a team.

Since that time the college has not admitted more than five men of the caliber necessary to compete with the teams we are opposing.

Most of the players from Elizabethtown College are recruited from B and C class high schools while the majority of colleges today have men available that have been stars on first class high school and prep school teams.

York Alumni Holds Meeting

The York branch of the Alumni Association of Elizabethtown College held its annual alumni dinner here this evening. Thirty-seven alumni and friends of Elizabethtown College attended the dinner which was marked by a spirit of fellowship and loyalty.

The president of the Association, Charles A. Kyle, '31, occupied the chair. Three members of the college faculty were called upon for addresses: Professor Rose, Dean A. C. Baugher, and Dr. R. W. Schlosser. Dr. Schlosser, the president of the college, was happy to inform the group of the increase in enrollment and of the improvements that were being made around the college in the way of building alterations. He also pointed out the fact that a thorough canvass would be made for students for the second semester and that terminal courses may be offered for the Summer Session which will consist of a three week unit and a six week unit. It was also announced that athletic service scholarships had been approved for athletes who pursue their studies with merit.

The following officers were elected: president, John B. Minnich, '29; secretary, Minnie Atland, '29; and treasurer, Clyde Dieter, '31.

THE SECOND MILE IS THEME OF CHAPEL TALK

CHAPEL, Jan. 11.—Dr. Thomas professor of sociology at Millersville College, was the speaker in the chapel service here today. His theme was taken from the fifth chapter of Matthew and was centered around the subject of the "second mile man."

Dr. Thomas said that what we need in the present crisis is a greater number of folks who are willing to forget themselves in the interest of others—to go the second mile.

His talk, a challenge to the student body, accompanied by a wholesome attitude toward the problems of the day aroused admiration. The valuable contributions he made to classroom discussions after the program were also thoroughly enjoyed.

QUARTERS CHANGED

Because of some alterations that are to be made in Alpha Hall, the Day Student Room has been changed from that place to the fourth floor of the Boys' Dormitory.

A REMINDER

Concerning the letter sent to the Alumni November twenty-eighth, the Business Staff of Our College Times wishes to remind those who have not sent in their dollar nor made reply to the letter that they do so immediately.

Little Hope Remaining

School Spirit Does Not Score Many Field Goals

It was not until the recent Maryland State Normal School game when our boys were badly handled at the hands of only an average team that the morale of the student body seemed to suffer and many students took that attitude that little hope remains for a decent showing in athletic contests.

The cheer leaders and confirmed optimists on the campus have done their best to bolster the failing confidence, but the fact that school spirit scores very few field goals is slowly dawning on the collegians who have followed the careers of Elizabethtown teams during the last four years.

Not alone basketball, but tennis and baseball have fallen into a category where not even the best friends of the men on the teams can wish them luck without a half smile.

Our tennis team, which used to be a threat in collegiate circles, is just another way for our opponents to boost their average; the baseball team is nearly as bad although it had a fair season three years ago and as late as two years ago won from such clubs as Haverford College and the Maryland State team.

Coach Herr, who has charge of the basketball and baseball teams is silent on the issue.

During the late East Stroudsburg and Juniata games, Elizabethtown was at times during the fray represented by five freshmen on the floor.

Debating to Begin Soon

ELIZABETHTOWN, Jan. 18.—The debating teams of Elizabethtown College are about to launch forth upon this year's activities. At the present time they are in correspondence with fifteen colleges and have made arrangements for five dual debates and several single ones.

A tour has been planned for the week of March 5, which will extend through western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Maryland. The managers plan to give both teams work by scheduling single debates with nearby colleges in which those who cannot go on the tour can participate.

The first debate of the season will be with the Fairmont Teachers' College in our college chapel at eight o'clock Saturday evening, February 17th.

Galaxy of Attractions Greet Visitors at First Homecoming

Group Reunions Enhance General Program; Inclement Weather Mars Attendance on Second Day

ELIZABETHTOWN, Jan. 12-13.—Beginning with President R. W. Schlosser's address of welcome and ending with a basketball game between Elizabethtown and Juniata, the first Elizabethtown College Homecoming program was replete with attractions planned to interest the visiting "old grads."

The general program consisting of short plays, an alumni meeting, the Sigma Zeta exhibit, a tea given by the Y. W. C. A., a fellowship dinner and two basketball games, was greatly enhanced as groups of former students and former members of the various organizations on the hill gathered together to discuss "old times".

Unfortunately a torrential downpour during the second day of the program kept many alumni, who had planned to come, away from the scenes of their college days. Many of the persons who did attend were victims of wet feet and everything else that goes with an April shower that decides to come in mid-winter.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS CONDUCT TWO PROGRAMS

On Sunday evening, January 14, the Student Volunteers sent out two deputation teams, one to the Midway Church and the other to Mohrsville and Richland.

The group at Midway consisted of Mrs. Leas, Miss Musser, and Messrs. Zuck, Krall, and Glasmire. The program presented was centered around "prayer".

The second group, consisting of Misses Brumbaugh, Curry, Kraybill, and Messrs. Curry, Kurtz, and Herr, rendered a program at Richland in the morning and at Mohrsville in the evening. The main subjects were: "Proper Relationships With God" and "Sharing".

Two Plays Are Features

One of the finest features of the program was two short plays presented by the Sock and Buskin at the first attraction offered to the "homecomers". The characters, for the most part, were wisely chosen and splendidly portrayed their roles.

The first play, "Will You Marry Me?" was a clever little farce which proved that the art of love making is making as many changes as in the business world.

The three acts of the presentation revealed how proposals for marriage were carried on in Revolutionary Days, in the Gay Nineties, and

Club Hears Dr. Musick

COMMERCIAL HALL, Jan. 10.—Dr. T. K. Musick gave an original and unusual talk this evening at the regular meeting of the Commercial Club. "The Balance Sheet of Life" was the theme of his discussion.

After drawing a balance sheet form on the blackboard, Dr. Musick listed the resources that every human possesses on the asset side and the stewardship of each human on the equity side. Dr. Musick gave a detailed explanation of the resources which are as follows: good health, good clothes, good looks, good behavior, good name, good ideas, and good humor.

Dr. Musick then explained the stewardship of each human being, which consists of obligations to his fellowmen and accountability to 's creator. Courtesy and consideration were said to be the essence of obligation while accountability to one's creator is fulfilled only to the degree that he serves his fellowmen.

"THEIRS NOT TO REASON WHY—"

In the face of the avalanche of student criticism directed at our athletic situation here on the campus, the players on the team are doing a commendable piece of work. Admittedly outclassed from the very outset, like the immortal Light Brigade, they do not falter but continue to fight in a manner that draws praise from even the most critical.

As basketball players, they gain no laurels; as men, we pay them tribute. May their deeds, which are neither devoid of merit or valor, be remembered as the deeds of tall men.

INDEFATIGABLE

Regardless of whether or not our debating teams are successful this season, the managerial work of Jacob Kuhn reaches a new high as far as thoroughness and a real live, contagious interest are concerned. Conviction and discernment are evidenced by the gentle yet firm manner in which he rebuffs his critics and continues to carry on.

AN APPRECIATION

To those alumni and friends who have expressed their commendation of OUR COLLEGE TIMES, we extend our sincere and grateful appreciation.

The Staff.

BOOING AND SPORTSMANSHIP

It was noticed during some of the recent games played here at Elizabethtown College that several of the so-called supporters of the home team indulged in the practice of what is known in sporting circles as booing. The referee and the opposing players were targets for these very unsportsmanlike thrusts.

Booing should be discontinued not alone because it shows extremely poor sportsmanship but also because it is distasteful to the members of our own team and the persons who are conscientiously rooting for them.

STILL WATER RUNS DEEP

Much that is done in this world goes unheralded. Especially is this true of men of Professor G. S. Shortess' type, who work in as unobtrusive a manner as possible. Were it not for the fact that finished products bear mute evidence of persistent labor, few would know that Professor Shortess is one of the busiest men on the campus.

His work, characterized by the scientific traits of research, experiment, and originality, has been largely instrumental in procuring for students of Elizabethtown College many unique advantages in the field of Biology and Physics. It was largely through the efforts of Professor Shortess that several interesting experiments were made possible for the scientific exhibition that was given during the recent homecoming. The student body and the alumni congratulate him upon the work that he has done.

Y. W. C. A. DISCUSSES THE IDEAL WOMAN

ALPHA HALL, Jan. 8.—The discussion at the regular Y. W. C. A. meeting held here tonight centered around the report received from the boys as to what are the characteristics of the "Ideal Girl".

The girls all agreed that the boys were right in the selection of desirable attributes, but that the combination was rather overpowering. The degree of perfection which seemed to characterize the men's opinion of the "Ideal Girl" would make her a rather difficult person with whom to live.

Popular sentiment also had it that if the men insist on that degree of perfection, the next decade will see an increase in the percentage of bachelors.

Later discussions centered around social life and studies as a means of attaining the ideal. It was decided that a more organized social life coupled with a greater degree of self-forgetfulness on the part of the student, would be highly advisable on the college campus. The Y. W. C. A. plans to take definite steps in this direction.

IDEAL BOY FEATURED ON Y. M. C. A. PROGRAM

FAIRVIEW APARTMENTS, Jan. 8.—The regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held here tonight. The feature of the evening was the reading and discussion of the girls' idea of an ideal boy. Melvin Wagner had charge of the program.

After the opening devotions led by Cyrus Krall, Alva Harsh, President of the "Y" read the qualifications of an ideal boy. The boys manifested great interest in this subject and many revealing sidelights were brought out during the course of the meeting.

The majority of the boys were of the opinion that the girls put entirely too much stress upon the outward appearance and actions of the boy and not enough upon the fundamental characteristics that decide whether a man is ideal or not.

Open Forum

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter to voice the opinion of several persons concerning the recent action that the student council has taken with those fellows and girls that were caught taking a street car ride to Hershey the night of January 14.

We believe that the punishment was altogether too severe and that keeping the girls from talking to men at the dining tables is not only too trenchant but silly as well. One would have to transgress the bonds of decency to obey this edict.

In addition, the policy of acting in secrecy is contrary to the accepted ethics of meeting out justice. The student body elects the student councils which immediately become thorns in our sides by slinking around with the grave air of a man just about to apprehend someone in the act of murder. Since their activities are admittedly fair, why can't they be carried on in the open?

Be it remembered that we are opposing a system, not those who are enforcing it.

Arthur Fair.

To believe that five inexperienced yearlings could be successfully pitted against teams from schools which do not allow freshmen to play is not what most people call good judgment.

To shout: "Who's gonna win, win", at half time when the visiting team is ahead about 40 to 10 and our boys are badly faltering, is more than most of the students, who are thinking what they are saying, are able to do.

There was a time when excuses were freely offered by both players and spectators as to why the local boys were consistently on the short end of the score but the situation is such now that not even the excuses are forthcoming!

The Alumni of Elizabethtown College is dormant on the issue and to date has not made a unified appeal to the authorities that the lamentable situation be remedied.

Dear Sir:

For the past few months you have been sending me copies of OUR COLLEGE TIMES, the student paper of the college.

I hereby inform you that I shall not pay for the copies you have already mailed to me nor shall I pay for any copies you might mail me in the future.

Inasmuch as I cannot indorse the policies of your editorial staff I do not feel justified in subscribing to your school paper.

Regretting my inability to aid you this year, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,
EARL F. WELLER.

Dear Mr. Cobaugh:

I should like to take this opportunity to congratulate you upon the fine way you have been managing the editing of Our College Times. No editor-in-chief in the past has equalled your achievements, and you deserve much credit for your efforts.

The general arrangement of the articles and the type of articles written is all very excellent. The editorials are good; I am glad you are not borrowing editorials from neighboring college publications. This was done in former years and seemed to always denote a great inefficiency on the part of the staff.

Sincerely yours,

Elizabethtown Varsity Drops 3 More Games

Shippensburg-34 Elizabethtown-30

GYM, Jan. 19. — Even though Harry Gerlach, center for the Elizabethtown College basketball team, played the best game of his career and chalked up 19 counts, the local team was on the short end of a 34-30 score against the Shippensburg Teachers' College here tonight.

The game was played on even terms for three quarters when the reserve material Shippensburg had available began to turn the tide against the tired Elizabethtown boys. The score at the end of the half stood 17-14 in favor of Shippensburg but only a few minutes later was again tied at 18 all.

Lander and Bucher also played good ball and the team showed a general improvement in that it no longer exhibited the tendency to bunch under the basket.

Juniata-45 Elizabethtown-16

ELIZABETHTOWN, Jan. 13. — Scoring almost at will and far outclassing their inexperienced opponents the Juniata College basketball club ran rough-shod over the Elizabethtown College five in a dull game here tonight by a score of 45-16.

From the outset there was no doubt that the Indians would emerge from the contest on the long end of the score. An early lead was built up until the count at the end of the half stood 27-9.

At one time during the fray the local school was represented by five freshmen on the floor who had very little experience before coming to college.

Juniata used practically their whole squad in the second half but the barrage of field goals continued as the visitors added 18 more points to their already long lead.

MARYLAND VS. ELIZABETHTOWN

ELIZABETHTOWN, Jan. 11. — The brilliant work of Burt Wheeler, who proved to be finest pivot man to play on the local court this season, was a big factor in the Maryland State Normal Indians' crushing defeat of the Elizabethtown College basketball club, here tonight.

The long-shot offense used by the Maryland aggregation was too much for the boys who were very badly off form, being unable to make the easiest of shots or make any show of a defense against the invading Red Skins.

The game served as an eye-opener to several alumni who attended and it is generally hoped on the campus that the poor showing will turn out to be a blessing in disguise by acting as a stimulus toward getting some action on the improvement of the athletic situation at the college.

EBY (EPIE) ESPENSHADE

Eby, a local high school product, has made a name for himself not only in athletics but also in scholastic standing, receiving in his senior high school year the American Legion award for the most outstanding, versatile student of the year.

During his three years at Elizabethtown he has engaged in a variety of activities ranging from dramatics to athletics. He is a guard on the basketball team and has been appointed captain in several

Sportlights

Do you realize that so far this season the opponents of the boys basketball team have chalked up on an average 13-4 points per minute.

Do you know that the Junior Varsity team held the Elizabethtown High School club to a 26-11 score without one minute of previous cooperative practice.

The people of Harrisburg and vicinity will have a treat this week when the strong Senators basketball team will oppose a team composed of both sexes.

The general question which arises out of the Juniata game is: What is necessary to win a game in addition to yelling? Can you answer it?

Don't forget to turn out for the rest of the games on the home floor. There is still hope that our team may hit its stride and if it does you may miss it.

East Stroudsburg-28 Elizabethtown-20

EAST STROUDSBURG, Jan. 10. — Showing a vast improvement over their form in the first game, the Elizabethtown College girls basketball team dropped a hard fought contest to the East Stroudsburg sextet in a fast game played here at four o'clock this afternoon by a score of 20 to 28.

During the first half of the game East Stroudsburg outscored the visitors but during the last half a brilliant rally staged by the wearers of the Blue and Gray enabled them to come within a few points of victory when the whistle stopped the game.

The guards, who had failed to stop the Stroudsburg forwards in the first game, played a masterly game, holding their opponents to one of the lowest scores they experienced this season. In the previous game between the two clubs the Teachers won a one-sided decision by a score of 31 to 9.

Moravian-30 Elizabethtown-26

BETHLEHEM, Jan. 19. — The Moravian College girls team tallied their second win over the Elizabethtown College co-eds by a 30-26 count here this afternoon.

The close refereeing considerably slowed up the game and several girls from either side were put out of the fray because of fouls.

MORAVIAN COLLEGE-34 ELIZABETHTOWN-32

ELIZABETHTOWN, Jan. 13. — Some 250 persons saw the Elizabethtown College girls basketball team lose a fast nip-and-tuck battle to the strong Moravian College sextet here tonight by a score of 34-32.

The teams were evenly matched and the game was hotly contested throughout; the score at half time stood 14 to 13 in favor of the local girls but a brilliant rally at the end of the fourth period enabled the visitors to carry off the laurels.

The sensational shooting of the Moravian forwards was too much for the Elizabethtown guards who seemed unable to diagnose the varied system of attack employed by the visitors.

"Hank" Gowdy was the first professional ball player to enlist in the World War.

After weeks of patient practice Leroy Metzler at last made the first team — the girls', in a practice game.

A HISTORY OF BASKETBALL

The game of basketball is of comparatively recent origin. Dr. James Norsmith invented the game in 1892. He was then connected with the Y. M. C. A. Training School at Springfield, Mass., in a class that was studying the elements of successful games and trying to invent new games to include these elements. He recognized the need of a game to fill the breach between the football season in the fall and that of baseball in the spring. One rule and change after another was added to the original simple game, as need arose, until, through a gradual evolution, the present game resulted.

Basketball is the first deliberately invented ball game to become largely popular. Now no gymnasium or playground is complete without provision for it, and in the U. S. matched games are witnessed yearly by hundreds of thousands of spectators during the winter months, when many outdoor sports must be temporarily abandoned.

JUNIOR VARSITY DROPS FIRST TILT

ELIZABETHTOWN, Jan. 11. — The uncoached Elizabethtown College junior varsity team lost its first game to the local high school by a 26 to 11 score here tonight. (Continued from page one)

during the present time. Practically everyone admitted that there was much change but most of the audience were dubious as to whether or not any progress had been made in the art.

A second play, "The Trysting Place", was also well received and appreciated. Although of a more serious vein than "Will You Marry Me?", it was uproariously funny in places.

Eby Espenshade was superb as Launcelot, a much subordinated boy of 20 who had his own ideas about how a serious love affair ought to be carried on with a widow.

The plot of the play was centered around the mixed-up and bewildered tryst of different members of the family who were using the lobby of a summer hotel as their meeting place.

Practically the entire Sock and Buskin personnel took an active part in the production of the two offerings.

Prior to the plays, President Schlosser gave a short introductory talk in which he recalled fond memories which were doubtlessly of interest to the alumni.

The college band was also in evidence, adding much color to the evening's program.

Alumni Holds Meeting

On Saturday morning, January 13, a meeting of the alumni was addressed by several of its helpers during an informal discussion of problems of interest to the college.

H. M. Arnold, '25, instructor in the William Penn Senior High School at York, opened the discussion with a talk "On Filling the Vacancies With Graduates", bringing out the fact that Elizabethtown has an unusually high record of placements.

Dr. Charles Weaver, '26, Manheim, in opening the discussion on "Advancing and Maintaining Interest Among the Alumni", held that the College should offer a wider range of courses as a possible means of increasing the enrollment.

Three more speakers responded to the invitation to discuss the subject "Recruiting Students".

Dr. Schlosser concluded the program by saying that student solicitation begins with a circuit of the high schools in February, followed by personal efforts during the spring and summer; he also announced that due consideration was being given the possibility of offering one year courses in the various fields for students who cannot or do not want to attend college for a longer period of time.

According to the visiting alumni, the science exhibit, given as a special feature of the homecoming day proved a success.

C. artists will feature operatic sketches, solos, duets, and quartets in a program of merit.

All the projects that were displayed were accompanied by full explanation of the principles involved. These descriptions were given by experimenters who are members of the Sigma Zeta or Science Club which sponsored the chemistry, physics, and biology displays.

The exhibit made public the fact that Elizabethtown College operates a government Bird Banding Station; a general outline of the project was published and the results of the local station were computed showing that out of a total of 221 birds banded since January 1932, 8 had returned the following season, giving the station a total return percentage of 3.6.

Y. W. C. A. Holds Tea

A tea, sponsored by the Y. W. C. A., was perhaps a feature of the program that did much to dispel the gloom that was gathering during the extremely wet afternoon of the second day of the homecoming.

The delightful function was held in Alpha Hall and the adjoining classrooms became centers of interest as old grads gathered to discuss everything from how they had put the president's buggy upon a roof as a Halloween prank down to the welfare of several classmates of whom they had lost track. Some of the pranks described that were carried on as jokes made the present students believe that maybe the younger generation isn't so bad after all.

REV. M. R. ZIEGLER

ELIZABETHTOWN, Jan. 7.—At a special meeting of the Ministerium and Student Volunteers here today Reverend M. R. Zeigler, Ministry and Home Missions Secretary of the Church of the Brethren, gave a short, inspiring message.

Reverend Zeigler made a plea for universal brotherhood and stated that we must find a place for the church in modern life. The importance of knowing ourselves, others and God was stressed. He also brought out the pertinent facts that the greatest mission field is in our own hearts and that learning to sacrifice is the most important thing to remember as we strive to serve God and our fellowmen.

Teachers Hear Dr. Shambaugh

Qualities of The Good Teacher Discussed at Banquet

ALPHA HALL, Jan. 31.—The annual Practice Teacher's Banquet with Dr. Howard Shambaugh, director of Pupil Accounting in the State Department of Education the principal speaker, was held here tonight in the college dining room.

The main theme of Dr. Shambaugh's address was "The Qualities of a Good Teacher." These he divided into the four C's: courtesy, cheerfulness, courage, and constant preparation. He brought out the fact that courtesy and cheerfulness do much to add to the general tone of the schoolroom and to make the child sensitive to an atmosphere of refinement. He also claimed that courage is a necessary attribute and that constant preparation on the part of the teacher is a vital factor in the child's scholastic progress.

The remainder of the program consisted of talks by visiting principals and directors, and by Misses Jameson and Ott, who represented the practice teacher's groups. The musical contributions of Mr. Metzler and the Brass Quartette were greatly appreciated. The subtle humor of the toastmaster, Dr. Kira-cofe, kept the whole group in a completely social frame of mind. The decorating committee also received many favorable comments upon their clever and appropriate schemes.

Library Shows Large Increase

Recent figures released in a survey conducted by Our College Times show that the Elizabethtown College Library has made a 1500% increase in the total of bound volumes in the last 26 years.

The first compilations recorded in the files of the library show that in 1907 there were 257 standard books and 330 public documents for a total of 587 bound volumes while today there are 8581 bound volumes consisting of 6978 standard books and 1603 public documents.

Professor L. D. Rose, who has been librarian at the institution since 1921, stated that a goal of 9000 volumes is expected to be reached by the close of the present year.

One of the strongest features of the library is a periodical reference department which subscribes to 42 of the nations' leading magazines, some 35 of which are regularly filed and assembled into bound volumes. A recent addition of the new International Index, containing cross-references on 200 or more subjects, generally of a scientific or philosophical nature, discusses internationally, completes a list of indexes necessary for efficient cross-reference work in the magazine files. Big Valentine Party Tomorrow Evening

The boys on the dorm are already planning how they can manage to have a clean shirt for the night of the big annual Valentine Party to be held in the Gym, Wednesday, February 14.

The affair, which is sponsored by the Student Associations is already planned and everyone is expected to be there for the "grand pair-off" when dignified Seniors and mooning Freshmen attempt to outwit their rivals for the coveted seat beside the best girl.

College Hears Mrs. Pinchot

ELIZABETHTOWN, Feb. 12.—In the college chapel here this evening, the students of Elizabethtown College heard Mrs. Pinchot present a lucid and interesting panoramic view of the governmental problems of today.

The first lady of Pennsylvania was brought here through the efforts of the Commercial Club of the College.

In the course of her address, Mrs. Pinchot declared that the American people are failing to put up a constant fight for rights as laid down in the initial organization of our government; by permitting the powerful bankers and utility magnates to get a strange hold on business, the Americans are losing their democratic principles.

Her numerous pointed illustrations made it possible for everyone to understand the complex economic conditions underlying the depression, and the attempt to end it, namely the N. R. A.

Particularly did Mrs. Pinchot score sweatshop conditions, exploitation, and chiseling on the established codes.

Famous Lecturer Twice on Elizabethtown Campus

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. — Delegates from the leading universities and colleges of the country will attend the celebration of the 50th anniversary of Temple University, this city, during the week of February 11 to 17. A program of impressive ceremonies has been planned.

Featuring the semi-centennial will be the traditional observance of "Founder's Day" on February 15, birthday anniversary of the late Dr. Russell H. Conwell, noted educator, theologian, humanitarian and author of the world-famous lecture, "Acres of Diamonds," who founded Temple in 1884.

Many former students and alumni of Elizabethtown College have recollections of Dr. Conwell who twice appeared on our campus while on lecture tours.

The orator of the occasion will be Dr. Glenn Frank, noted publicist and president of the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Charles E. Beury, President of Temple, will confer honorary degrees upon several notables, to be announced later. Mid-year commencement exercises will be held simultaneously.

An elaborate series of clinics, laboratory demonstrations and exhibits has been arranged by the professional and undergraduate schools to mark Temple's forward progress. A feature of the celebration will be the presentation of a life-like bronze bust of Dr. Conwell, executed by Boris Blai, noted Philadelphia sculptor.

OSTEOPATHY TONIGHT

The Varsity basketball team meet Philadelphia Osteopathy in the Gym tonight. The boys need this game.

The girls play Lebanon Valley. At 4 P. M. a Jr.-Sr.—Soph. class game.

College President Addresses Class

Pres. Schlosser at John Harris

HARRISBURG, Jan. 26.—A near capacity audience of 1000 persons, including 128 members of the graduating class, heard Dr. R. W. Schlosser, president of Elizabethtown College, as the principal speaker at the fifteenth commencement of the John Harris High School, declare that one's world is determined more by insight than by eyesight.

In the course of his address, Dr. Schlosser advised the graduates against the dangers of extremes as typified by absolute capitalism and pure socialism. Further pointing out the futility of a sheer materialistic philosophy or a pessimistic view of life, the college president concluded with several quotations from Bergson and Browning.

The effectiveness of the discourse was much enhanced by many homely examples and clear illustrations. Essays were read and prizes were presented to the honor students of the school. Two superb renditions by the John Harris orchestra and the presentation of the diplomas completed the program.

Debating Team Ready For Tilt

ELIZABETHTOWN, Feb. 8.—Manager Jacob Kuhns of the Men's Debating Team reports that the orators are in fine shape for their first tilt with Fairmont State Teacher's College, on February 14.

Although the tour schedule has not been completed, many of the debates, independent of the tour, are arranged. The schedule: Wed., Feb. 14, Fairmont State Teacher's College, (home); Feb. 23, dual with Lebanon Valley; March 1, dual with Millersville; March 14, Albright; March 16, Westminster; March 24, California.

MISSIONARY IS CHAPEL SPEAKER

CHAPEL, Jan. 19.—Miss Anna Engle, '25, home on furlough from Africa where, for the past seven years, she has been active as a missionary for the Brethren in Christ Church, gave an inspiring talk in chapel here today. Centering her message around the second chapter of Philippians she emphasized the importance of a proper personal relationship with God.

The descriptions of her work in the African field, especially of those people who had sacrificed a great deal for the cause of Christianity, gave her talk a valuable background and made it doubly interesting.

BIBLE INSTITUTE HIGHLIGHTS

HERE SINCE 1900

The 1934 sessions of the Bible Institute of the Church of the Brethren marks the thirty-fourth year that the meetings have been held on the Elizabethtown campus. The custom began in 1900 and has since been an annual feature of the college program.

During the institute week many eminent speakers and spiritual leaders in the church are brought before the teachers, ministers, and lay workers of this vicinity.

turn to the original mysticism of the church and to a faith which makes one conscious of the presence of God. These topics along with a personality enriched by hard study and much travel, at home and abroad made Dr. Kurtz appreciated by all.

One of the featured speakers of the institution was Dr. V. F. Schwalm, of McPherson, Kansas. Dr. Schwalm tried to point us to higher Christian ideals despite the confusion caused by many of our modern social problems.

His discussions of Nationalism, Movies, and Prohibition were well received. They represented an intelligent and far reaching view of the problem and always tried to set forth the Christian ideal.

In his afternoon lectures, Dr. Schwalm presented a fine outline of the Sermon on the Mount, again delighting his hearers with his optimistic outlook and evidence of the personality that has won him many (Continued on Page Four)

THE PRICE WE MUST PAY FOR PATRIOTISM AND PEACE

At this moment in Europe, there are 1,000,000 more men under arms than in 1914; there is intense Nationalism and Anti-Semitism, as stirred up by Hitler in a country which hasn't freedom of press and which has for its Vice-Chancellor a man who says: "Being on the battlefield is as natural to man as motherhood is to woman." Statesmen and chemists are hard at work, the one advocating peace, the other preparing for war. All this, and more, brings home to us in America thoughts of patriotism and peace.

Strange though it sounds, it is very difficult to be a patriot—that is, in the highest sense of the word. The true patriot is between two fires. He must love peace with a veritable holy fervor, yet when all efforts at peace have failed, he must war with the same intense zeal. He must preach the gospel of love by living it; when that fails he must preach the gospel of hate with the sword.

Woodrow Wilson was the most pacific president we ever had. He kept us out of the impending war with Mexico in 1912 by sheer force of his Puritanic character. When the German U-boats sank the British Lusitania on May 7, 1915, he could have lead the enraged country into war the next day. But Wilson waited two years before sending the German ambassador home and even then he didn't declare war; negatively, he recognized a state of war that Germany had already created by her acts.

His utterances, such as: "There is such a thing as being too proud to fight" or "Peace without victory", had created in many a feeling that he would have peace at any price. Yet when the war came, no president was more vigorous in its prosecution. The fiery Prophet of Peace became overnight the fiery Crusader in a war to end war.

Supposing you hate war and resolve in time of peace never to fight under any circumstances. Will that save you when the deluge comes? No! During the late war, all countries were flooded with patriotic liars; it was they who sowed the damaging seeds of hatred—told the atrocious stories (85 per cent. of which were false rumors)—told of the German corpse factory in which the dead German soldiers were supposed to have been cremated into fertilizers (It turned out later that these bodies were those of horses which had been killed in battle).

The patriotic liar served other ends. After much thumbing of his History books, he called the Germans by the worst name that he could find, Hun—Bosh. He made war on the German language so that every state in the Union abolished the teaching of it. He stirred up the populace against such men as Fritz Kreisler and Theodore Dreiser. He made it unpopular to listen to the music of Beethoven, Bach and Wagner. He constituted himself a private secretary and went snooping for everything foreign; he was suspicious of every stranger in town. In short, he made it a high crime to have any privacy at all. Every one of any note became a 4 minute man whose duty it was to preach to this Christian civilization, the gospel of hate and war.

Most of the professors in our colleges succumbed and became haters of everything German, though many had gone to Germany to round out their admittedly unpolished American education! The Christian organizations were rounded up en masse—the Y. M. C. A., the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, the K. of C.—all entered this war to end war, this war to make the world safe for democracy, even though Czarist Russia the most despotic nation on the face of the globe was one of our allies. Looking back from to day it almost seems that we have made the world safe for dictatorship rather than democracy.

It takes more than a few sporadic efforts and pretty mouthings to destroy war. Henry Ford's peace ship venture proved this most tellingly. The gathering of the notables, the trip to the Scan peninsula, and the ignominious return furnished but a comic interlude in the greatest tragedy of mankind.

All the peace efforts accomplished in a lifetime may be swept away in a trice when war comes. All the talking of the world's most silver tongued orators cannot insure peace. The price of peace is continued, untiring, unending vigilance.

Delegation Visits Old Folks Home

NEFTSVILLE, Feb. 2.—The Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. gave a joint program here today at the Brethren Old Folks Home. With Winifred Shallenberger as chairman, the group put on a most successful presentation.

The Mixed Quartette, of which Alexander Glasmire, Mary Brumbaugh, Paul Herr, and Harriet Curry are members, sang a number of pleasing selections. Naomi Weaver and Harriet Curry each gave an entertaining reading. A talk, "Finding God," was then presented by Alva Harsh.

After the program proper the quartette sang songs in the wards of the institution for those who were unable to attend the chapel service.

The occupants of the home were highly appreciative of the splendid program put on by the Y's and invited them to return at a future time.

Ys Are Planning Peace Conference

The Y. W. C. A.'s and the Y. M. C. A.'s of this territory are planning a model World Peace Conference to be held at Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster on the 15 and 16 of February. Dr. VanDuesen will be the main speaker at the conference.

Each of the colleges of this district will represent a different nation. They will send delegates to the conference well informed as to the problems of the nation they are representing. The object of the conference will be to determine how to settle this problem in a peaceable fashion and with the greatest satisfaction to all.

Rev. Mac Donald Harrisburg Grads Leads Discussion To Hold Meeting

ELIZABETHTOWN, Feb. 7.—Reverend MacDonald spoke on the theme "Values of the Christian Ministry" today at a meeting of the Ministerium. Reverend MacDonald asserted that to him the ministry is the best job on earth. After the talk, the members of the organization participated in a general discussion of the topic.

It was agreed that the greatest value of the Christian ministry is in that it deals with the molding of human lives. The possibilities of great service to one's fellowman was brought out. The ministry is the fullest life, it embraces the fullest happiness and the greatest sorrows.

LIBRARY SHOWS

and 8 news sheets for specific societies, including French, German, and Spanish publications, are included in the service afforded students in this phase of the work.

The Elizabethtown College Library is a member of the National Conference on Social Work, the National Educational Association, and the American Academy of Political and Social Science. Professor Rose is a member of the American Library Association and the Pennsylvania Library Association.

Professor Rose, the present Librarian, began his work as the student director of the Library from 1907 to 1911, during which time the number of bound volumes increased from 587 to 2007. He was succeeded by B. F. Waltz '14, who had charge of the work between 1911 and 1913. Calvin J. Rose '17 (deceased), brother to Professor Rose, assumed control from 1913 to 1916.

During the next five years the work of the library was carried on in an indefinite manner and only 800 volumes were added; this figure represents about 2 years normal progress.

Since 1921, Professor Rose has been in charge. At the present time acquisitions average about 400 volumes per year.

'27—E. Esther Leister is teaching mathematics in the Fayette Township High School at McAlisterville, Pa. This is her fourth year in this position.

Y Room Opened To Day Students

"Y" ROOM, Jan. 31.—At a meeting here today, the Cabinet of the Y. M. C. A. decided to extend the use of the "Y" Room to the Day Students for recreational purposes.

The Cabinet is of the opinion that the proximity of the Day Students in their new room will encourage camaraderie with the "Y" members and thus be a means of effecting a better understanding between the two groups. Even though, at present, most of the Day Students are not members of the "Y", they are welcome to the facilities that the "Y" has to offer.

Several routine matters were also discussed at the meeting. Most important of these were plans to have Elizabethtown represented at a Model Peace Conference to be held in the near future at F. & M. College.

FIRST DEBATE CANCELLED

Due to the extreme cold weather last Friday, February 9, the Western Maryland Girl's Debating Team cancelled their first debate with the Elizabethtown girls. The contest was to be held in the chapel.

The next debate on the hill will be held tomorrow, when the men meet the Fairmont Teachers.

Varsity Trounces Blue Ridge 30-20; Girls Lose

NEW WINDSOR, MD., Feb. 9.—Playing their finest defensive game of the season, the Elizabethtown College quintet gained a 30-20 decision over the Blue Ridge Bisons in a fast game here this evening. Unable to work the ball under the basket at any time, Blue Ridge made their entire score by long shots and fouls.

The fact Elizabethtown was off on their short shots prevented a much larger score. The Blue and Gray missed eleven tries in the first half that should have been double deckers.

The game tended to be rough at times, but the referee was able to cope with the situation.

The unguarded walls, immediately to the rear of the baskets, were the cause of several minor injuries as the boys followed through on their shots.

The credit for the victory goes to no player in particular, all of them playing on fairly equal terms.

Intramural Program Launched

Intramural sports at Elizabethtown College will form the first leg in the recent athletic campaign for a better system in sports. The revolution has started the able tutelage of the director of Physical Education, Professor Myers and is supported by the entire faculty and student body. The intraschool league will consist of four teams composed of those students who have been dormant in athletics and who wish to try their hand at playing. The purpose for organizing this nationally known system is to arouse interest within the student body with the hope that a greater number of students will turn out for varsity competition.

The league will be in charge of a board of control headed by Professor Myers, and the respective managers of each team. The games will be played Wednesday and Friday of each week; the regular schedule will be published in the Times.

Any student whose name has not been posted and who wishes to participate in the program, can do so by handing his or her name to their respective class presidents.

SMALL HIGH SCHOOLS FURNISH BASKETBALL MATERIAL AT E-TOWN

The basketball material of Elizabethtown College is recruited from ten high schools, most of which are of a Class "C" rating. The list which includes Lancaster Boy's High, Denver, Manor, Quarryville, Elizabethtown, Hallam, Upper Leacock, Manheim, and Cornwall is comprised of comparatively local schools most of them being in Lancaster County.

Of the girls squad, nine are from Elizabethtown High, while Perry Township, Ridgely (Md.), Palmyra, and Enola furnish the other members of the squad.

NEW WINDSOR, MD., Feb. 9.—Completely off form and apparently much surprised at the caliber of their opponents, the Elizabethtown College girls team was handed a surprising 18-10 defeat here tonight at the hands of the Blue Ridge College Co-eds.

The game, which tended to be dull and uninteresting, was featured by close guarding on the part of the Blue Ridge guards and loose playing on the part of the Elizabethtown Club.

Varsity Loses to Teachers 42-19

GYM, January 7.—Inability to make their shots good for counters paved the way for the Elizabethtown College Five's 42-19 loss at the hands of the fast Millersville State Teacher's Club.

Souders, a diminutive guard for the visitors, proved to be the spark plug of the offense. He was materially aided by Gantz, a center, the tallest, if not the best, pivot man to face the Blue and Gray this season. Glasmyre and Lander played good ball for the local boys.

The game was rough throughout and several men were ejected from the fray by the foul route. Maljan, a substitute guard for the Millersville aggregation, brought the crowd to its feet by a sensational field goal three-quarters the length of the floor just as the closing whistle sounded.

"Sharkey" Thome, pitcher for the Blue and Gray, is slowly whipping himself into shape by constant exercise in the gym.

Patton Checks Junior Varsity

ELIZABETHTOWN, Jan. 3.—In a fast game here this evening the Patton Trade School five checked the Elizabethtown College Junior Varsity Club by a score of 20 to 14. The Elizabethtown team showed a great improvement since their last game and bids fair to put up a strong fight against the high schools in this vicinity.

In a preliminary game, the college Reserves lost to the Patton scrubs by a 30 to 14 count.

Firemen to Hold Big Benefit Show

"The Private Life of Henry VIII," one of the finest films of the current show year, will be shown as the feature picture on a program sponsored by the Friendship Fire Co., at the Moose Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, February 19 and 20.

The play, which was filmed in England, stars Charles Laughton, whom critics acclaim to be the greatest character actor since Emil Jannings.

The regular admission price of thirty cents will be charged. Tickets can be secured on the campus from Ray Cobaugh.

Girls Down Juniata But Indians Trip Boys 41-18

The Elizabethtown College basketball quintet was defeated by the much stronger Juniata College team in a loosely played game here tonight by a score of 41-18.

A slow breaking offense and a much weaker defense seemed to be the cause of the one-sided score. The fine shooting of Matlack, a Juniata forward, paved the way for the constant increase in points which resulted in the overwhelming defeat.

The Elizabethtown boys showed plenty of fight but were outclassed in all department of the game. The fine sportsmanship displayed throughout the game, despite the keen rivalry, was commendable.

A 44-30 win over the Co-eds of Juniata College enabled the fast Elizabethtown College girls basketball club to chalk up its first major victory of the season in a fast game here tonight.

The score was comparatively close throughout the contest but the stellar playing of Martha Groff, a forward, and the close guarding on part of Mabel Longenecker gave a decided edge to the visiting club as the final whistle blew.

Y'S ARE PLANNING PEACE CONFERENCE

The Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. of Elizabethtown College plan to send from three to five delegates to the conference. Russia will be the country to be represented by this group.

Johnny Good, former E-town athlete, is playing some fine basketball this season for the East End Hose Company, in the Steelton Fireman's League. Johnny was a guard last year for the local club.

Martha Groff had twenty eight points against Juniata in the game at Huntingdon.

A Cappella Choir Sings Before 1500 in Brethren Church at York

YORK, Feb. 4.—The Elizabethtown College A Capella Choir presented a program of sacred music to an audience of 1500 people in the Brethren Church here tonight.

The program, centered around the life, works, and sufferings of Jesus Christ, consisted of four choros numbers solos and quartettes.

The following programs are scheduled for the balance of the year: Feb. 11, Mingo and Ambler; Feb. 18, Lebanon; March 11, Lancaster; March 18, Mountville; April 1, Carlisle and Chambersburg; and April 8, Harrisburg.

On February 22, the choir expects to attend the program of the Russian Symphonic Choir in the Forum at Harrisburg.

YESTERDAY

On the Campus

(from our files)

October 1916 — Elizabethtown College received very pleasant news. Mrs. Mary Geiger bequeathed a thousand dollars to the college.

October 1916—The students have been delighted with the grapes and peaches that we have been having on the table. The roasting ears were appreciated too.

May 1917—If you can't push, then pull and if you can't pull, get out of the way.

November 1918 — Quarantine! Everybody campused.

April 1919—Educate a boy and you educate an individual. Educate a girl and you educate a family.

February 1916.—The Chemistry Class baked bread. The kind, we are told, that causes divorces.

May 1916—The college acknowledges with much gratitude the gift consisting of 500 asparagus roots from Rev. George Weaver, Manheim, Pa. The same have been planted in the truck patch.

friends.

Dr. Schwalm has been Dean of Manchester College for some years and is now at the head of our sister college, McPherson.

Some of the many problems that teachers encounter in their daily work of trying to inculcate high ideals into the minds of students in the schoolroom were brought out by Dr. E. S. Kiracofe, Head of the Department of Education at Elizabethtown College, in his daily lectures on "The Christ of the Classroom."

Emphasizing the peculiar advantage a teacher has to reach young people, and illustrating his lecture with many practical examples, Dr. Kiracofe presented some of the attitudes and prejudices that have grown up around the school.

By analyzing some of the criticism aimed at the Christian Church by those who wonder why nations professing Christianity would war with one another, Professor Kiracofe showed how these criticisms were really indirect compliments and remarkable indicators of the real and potential power of the Church as a factor in guiding human destiny.

BAREVILLE CHURCH HEARS VOLUNTEERS

BAREVILLE, Jan. 21.—The Student Volunteers of Elizabethtown College rendered an afternoon and evening program at the local Church of the Brethren here today. They were represented by Alva Harsh, Franklin Cassel, and the Mixed Quartette comprised of Mary Brumbaugh, Harriet Curry, Stauffer Curry, and Paul Herr.

The program in the afternoon was based on "Sharing", while the one in the evening developed the question: "If You Cannot Go Abroad, Then What?"

Between the afternoon and evening program, the group was delightfully entertained by Mr. and Mrs. William Glasmire, parents of Alexander Glasmire, who is a student here.

Locals Win NRA Debate

Defeat Fairmont in Single by 3-0 Score; Split With Lebanon Valley

Negative Captures Both

The Elizabethtown Debating Team defeated the Fairmont State Teacher's College orators by a 3 to 0 decision in a debate held in the College Chapel Friday evening, February 17. On Friday, February 23, the same team (the Negative) defeated Lebanon Valley in the chapel but another Elizabethtown group (the Affirmative team) dropped a 3 to 0 contest with Lebanon Valley's Negative team at Annville.

The question for debate was: Resolved, That the essential features of the N. R. A. should be adopted as a permanent part of the policy of the government of the United States. Elizabethtown was represented against Fairmont by Stauffer Curry, Cyrus Bucher, and Jacob Kuhns. The visitors team consisted of Joel Johnson, Paul Richmond, and Landau Brown.

The judges, Stacy Peters of Lancaster, Ray Light of Cornwall, and Wayne Blough of Elizabethtown, all picked Elizabethtown as the winner.

The home club showed some fine work on the constructive speeches but in the rebuttals, they were out-classed by the more experienced Fairmont boys. Especially did Brown, Fairmont's second speaker, do some nice work in turning back several Elizabethtown points.

Kuhns appeared to be the most capable of the Elizabethtown men while Richmond and Johnson showed up well for the visitors.

The discourses, especially the rebuttals, were interspersed with the usual amount of ludicrous examples which did not prove a great deal but seemed to please the judges.

Curious Gotham Crowd Gathers as E-town Grad Departs on Mission

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Crowds of curious New Yorkers paused from their day's business to witness 400 quaint, blackgarbed Mennonites hold a religious service in a Fifth Avenue Cafeteria prior to their sending three missionaries to the African field. Among these missionaries was John H. Mosemann, Jr., who graduated from Elizabethtown in 1932.

Many of the Mennonites who witnessed the departure had never been this far away from their farms before. They seemed slightly awed by the vastness of New York but were apparently not disturbed by the curious glances of the many passerbys who stopped to witness their service.

Mosemann will be accompanied on the African venture by his sister, the Sister Elam Stauffer. Together with the latter's husband who is already in Africa preparing for his wife's arrival, they comprise the first group of Missionaries ever to be sent to a foreign field by the Mennonites.

Program of Two Short Plays Announced

On March 23, the Candles will present two one-act plays: "Dad" and "Antoinette Comes to Town", together with several musical numbers, in the Auditorium-Gymnasium.

This will be an all-men program. The proceeds will be used to complete the payment of the picture in the Chapel that was presented by the organization in 1931.

The entertainment will be augmented by the Elizabethtown College Band.

Library Gets Grad's Thesis

System Outlined for Agrarian Education in Lancaster County Schools

The Elizabethtown College Library has just received a bound volume of "A Program of Agriculture Education for Adolescence in Lancaster County". The volume, written by Henry Bucher, '26, contains the Thesis presented by the author to the Faculty of Teacher's College, Temple University, to meet his requirements for the Master's Degree which was conferred on him by that institution.

The thesis, which is complete with maps, tables, charts, and bibliographies, was written for the purpose of formulating a program of vocational guidance in agriculture for adolescence in Lancaster county. The author holds that Lancaster County presents a unique problem because of the great fertility of the soil, the rapidly increasing population, and the increasing competition in agrarian enterprises.

The essential problem discussed is set forth in the proposals to carry Vocational Agriculture Education to

Sock and Buskin to Present "Midsummer Night's Dream"

The Sock and Buskin plans to present "Midsummer Night's Dream" on Friday, April 13, in the Auditorium-Gymnasium. This play will be the first Shakespearean performance produced here on the hill since the presentation of "Othello" two seasons ago. A tentative cast has been selected and practice will begin next week.

The club is also preparing a short play to be presented before the Elizabeth Hughes Society of Elizabethtown. Sometime in May the organization will produce several one-act plays here on the campus.

Last week, the club admitted four Freshmen members: Anna Jane Brubaker, Leah Musser, Alexander Glasmire, and Harold Hollinger. Although a committee has been appointed, no definite date has been set for the initiation.

PRES. SCHLOSSER CONTINUES TOUR

During the past several weeks President Schlosser has been making weekly tours—on Tuesday and Thursday—to the various high schools in the counties immediately surrounding the college.

The object of these visits is to interest seniors in high school in enrolling at Elizabethtown College this coming Fall. President Schlosser also stresses the importance of the competitive examinations for scholarships that will be held early in the spring.

An average of four or five high schools are visited daily. Lectures have just been completed in Lancaster county. York, Lebanon, Berks, and Dauphin counties are next on the program.

President Schlosser indicates favorable results on these tours and asserts that several persons have already been enrolled for next year.

"Y" Men Hear Prof. Wenger

FAIRVIEW APARTMENTS, Feb. 12.—Professor Wenger presented a well-accepted talk here tonight at a regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. His discussion was centered on the theme "Thrills and Emergencies." In a short business session Alva Harsh, president of the "Y" explained to the boys the Model Peace Conference to be held at Franklin and Marshall College on February 14 and 15. Nevin Zuck was selected as the Y. M. C. A. delegate to the conference.

The program was in charge of Paul Herr. Stauffer Curry lead the devotions, after which Professor Wenger addressed the group. He stated that we must have a safety valve in the form of thrills in order to cope with the emergencies which confront us during our lives. Giving many interesting and amusing anecdotes for illustration, Professor Wenger brought out that our thrills must be such that they do not harm ourselves or others. Emergencies should uplift and not degrade us.

FIRE DRILLS PLANNED

Fire drills are being planned for use in the various buildings on the campus.

Contest Plans Now Complete

Management Vested in For- ensic Arts Club Instead of Y.M.C.A.

The annual Oratorical Contest will be held on Friday, March 16, at 8 P. M., in the college chapel. This contest has been a regular event for the past several years and has been sponsored by the joint Y's. This year the management of the event has been vested in the Forensic Arts Club. Alva Harsh, the winner of the contest in last year's event, was appointed manager of the affair.

The plans for the contest have been completed and any member of Elizabethtown College, who has not previously won a first prize, may compete. The winner will be selected by a committee of three disinterested judges and prizes will be awarded. The first prize is $10.00, the second $5.00, and the third, honorable mention.

The rules, by which the contest shall be governed, are as follows:

1. Each contestant will select a subject and prepare an original oration, the time of delivery not to exceed ten minutes.
2. Each contestant must secure a faculty adviser to coach in the preparation and delivery of the oration.

John M. Gible, Staunch Supporter of Elizabethtown, Succumbs at 78

ELIZABETHTOWN, FEB. 23.—Elizabethtown College lost a staunch supporter and a long-time friend here today as John M. Gible, 78, died at his home after a period of illness extending over two months.

Mr. Gible was identified with the College as a member of the Board of Trustees and as a patron and worker. He was largely instrumental in acquiring the Gible Science Hall for Elizabethtown College.

Funeral services were held Monday. The college authorities declared a half-holiday in memory of his work as its benefactor.

Mr. Gible began his term as a trustee twenty-one years ago, at which time there were only two buildings on the campus. Since then he was one of the leaders of every building project. His great-

Reorganization of the Entire Staff to Be Effected During March

Staff Banquet Planned

RIDER HALL, Feb. 13.—In the first meeting of the new year, the Board of Control of Our College Times, which met with the Editor and Business Manager of the publication, effected many important measures pertinent to coming I. N. A. Convention, a proposed staff banquet, and reorganization for the coming year.

Elizabethtown College will be represented at the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association Convention by the Editor of Our College Times, M. Ray Coughlin; Associate Editor, Elwood Lentz, Sports Editor, Jacob Herschman; Business Manager, Franklin Cassel; and the Chairman of the Board of Control, Professor L. D. Rose. Messrs. Coughlin, Cassel and Rose were at the fall convention in Baltimore, last November.

Another measure, made possible through the brilliant managerial work of Franklin Cassel, and the increase in circulation of the school paper and the favorable balance in the treasury, was passed in order that a staff banquet could be held sometime during March. All the staff members and the Board of Control, together with several outside guests, will be invited to attend. It is planned that an editor of one of Pennsylvania's largest papers will be brought to the campus as a speaker for the occasion.

Many minor matters were also considered and plans were laid for the reorganization of the staff for the ensuing year. It is planned that the staff will be named sometime in April and that it will take over the publication of the paper either for the last issue in April or the first one in May.

No name has yet been suggested for the new editor but it is generally understood that Franklin Cassel will be reconsidered for the office of Business Manager for the new year.

THE MENNONITES, A CROWD AND AN ELIZABETHTOWN GRADUATE

Last week, when four hundred Mennonites from Lancaster County journeyed to New York, to speed the first missionaries ever sent by that sect to an African field on a happy voyage and a successful venture, a mild sensation was caused in the Western Hemisphere's largest city by the picturesque people who wore black hats and held their religious service in a Fifth Avenue cafeteria. All of which causes us to wonder more than a little.

Were the same meeting held in Lancaster, scarcely more than an average crowd of outside spectators would have assembled to witness the affair; but in New York, a city where new things appear almost daily, a curious throng assembled in less time than it takes to tell about it. And a curious throng makes news; as a consequence practically every paper of any importance carried the story of the rousing send off and the curious crowd. The fact that the Mennonites from Lancaster held their religious meeting in a Fifth Avenue eating house was copy of the first water. That these were the first missionaries ever sent and that the loyal four hundred held later devotionals on the liner Deutschland, all followed in regular order.

Reading down the column, Elizabethtown students and graduates received a pleasant surprise as they noticed that John R. Mosemann, '32, was one of the missionaries chosen for the venture; his sister and a Miss Elam Stauffer accompanied him.

Those of us who have had the privilege of knowing Mr. Mosemann have a feeling of reassurance that the undertaking will be a success. His work here at the college and his general bearing among his fellows was of such a type that we have only the highest regard for him.

All Elizabethtown—faculty, students, graduates, and friends—wishes him and his companions success on this most noble venture.

Happy Crowd Throngs Gym to Aid in Revival of Spirit of St. Valentine

GYM, Feb. 14.—The spirit of St. Valentine was revived at the Valentine Day Party at Elizabethtown College here tonight, as scores of happy students participated in the event.

The party got off to a late start due to the debate between Elizabethtown and Fairmont College which claimed the attention of the majority of the students during the early part of the evening.

Upon arrival, each student was set to the task of mending a broken heart in order to find a partner for the evening. A game "Rachel and Jacob" proved to be a riot of fun. When blindfolded, even some of the gayest Lotharios were hampered in their attempt to locate one of the opposite sex.

Alva Harsh acted as toastmaster during the serving of refreshments and talks were given by Royer, Espenshade, and Lentz. The most welcome, if not the longest, speech of the evening, was a brilliant one-sentence address by Jacob Kuhn. Kuhn gave as his address: Kuhn Homestead, Mt. Joy.

Alumni to Add Another Branch

The Alumni, friends, and former students of Elizabethtown College are planning an organization dinner meeting to be held in the Evangelical Church at Mifflin on the evening of March 3.

Several members of the Alumni Council will be present to address the meeting.

The committee in charge of the event consists of E. Esther Leister '27, Earl S. Kipp, '28, and Mrs. Earl S. Kipp, '31.

Utopian College Described in Chapel Talk

CHAPEL, Feb. 20.—"A Modest Proposal", a great deal more constructive in theme and a great deal less invective in style than the more famous one by Dean Swift, was advanced in chapel here today by Miss Sheaffer as a part of the regular program. Having nothing to do with population and having much to do with college life, the students listened with interest as Miss Sheaffer outlined her idea of an Utopian College.

Miss Sheaffer, who is Dean of Women, strongly advised against a Dean on the warpath and "mooniness" on the part of the students. She would, rather, place more emphasis on "the art of living", "truth for truth's sake", and "a unit of experience" rather than a departmentalization of the curriculum. We need more living and less preparation for life.

In conclusion, Miss Sheaffer explained that a job is not the final goal and that an entrance examination ought to consist of questions to determine: "how eager are you to learn?"

Harrisburg Alumni Hold First Meeting

Marked by a fine spirit of fellowship and loyalty, the alumni, former students, and friends of Elizabethtown College, residing in Harrisburg and vicinity, held their first meeting last Tuesday night in the social rooms of the Harrisburg Church of the Brethren. Eighteen members were in attendance.

Dr. R. W. Schlosser and Professor Rose represented the college. The President enumerated the progress made on the campus and spoke at length on the ideals of the college and the plans made for the increasing of the enrollment. Professor Rose confined his address to the plans that are being effected for the growth and development of the Alumni Association.

The following were in charge of the meeting and were elected as officers for the coming year: President, C. B. Sollenberger, '23; Vice-President, Hiram J. Frysinger, '29; and Secretary-Treasurer, L. Anna Schwenk, '22.

Sacred Concert Well Attended

AUDITORIUM, Feb. 25.—Despite the threatening weather, a crowd of 250 people turned out to hear the sacred concert given by the Elizabethtown College Orchestra this afternoon.

This concert was the maiden appearance of the college orchestra. Considering this, the concert was exceptionally well rendered and was highly appreciated by the audience. There was no charge for admission, but an offering which amounted to nearly ten dollars was collected. The concert consisted of a number of arrangements of well known sacred songs, a cornet solo by Henry Bollinger and three sacred selections by the College A Capella Choir.

sented at Ambler. During the day, the Choir was entertained at the homes of Franklin and Miss Catherine Cassel, Miss Mary Hess and the Misses Hennings.

Feb. 18.—A similar program of sacred music was given by the choir at Lebanon. Prior to the program talks were given by J. H. Miller, E. Lander, and Franklin Cassel.

Alumni Council Holds Session

ALPHA HALL, Feb. 20.—The regular mid-winter session of the Alumni Council met here this evening in the office of the President.

The Council decided to continue the practice of applying the proceeds of the Alumni Fund Campaign to the payment on the loan made by the college for the completion of the Auditorium-Gymnasium.

A committee was appointed to provide for after dinner features by inviting alumni to speak on various phases of the growth of the college. A business meeting has been planned for the near future.

The classes of 1904, 1914, and 1924 will be invited to hold reunions at the college on Alumni Day, June 2.

Audience of 200 Hears Piano-Voice Recital of Sacred and Secular Music

Before an audience of 200, the piano and voice students of Professor and Mrs. E. G. Meyer presented an interesting recital consisting of secular, sacred, and classical music.

The recital was begun at 8 o'clock with a piano solo by Robert Heisey. Taking into account that this was the lad's first public appearance, his rendition of the "Haunted Barn" was very well done. "The Camel Train" played by Harry Rohrer, Jr., was also well accepted by the audience.

The interpretation and excellent tone demonstrated by Harold Hollinger in his presentation of "The Builder" by Cadman, rated his solo as one of the better vocal numbers. Alexander Glasmire's interpretation of "God Is Enough" and Miss Dorothy Dulebohn's tone and diction in Spross' "Will O' the Wisp" were also well worth while.

Miss Helen Angstadt delighted the audience with her fine version of Verdi-Liszt's "Rigoletti". David Schlosser's excellent rendition of Chapman's "Ballad in A Flat", concluded the program.

Deaf Mutes Handle Boys Rough to Get 36-16 Win

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The deaf mutes of Gallaudet College gained a 36-16 decision over the visiting Elizabethtown College aggregation in a rough and tumble battle here tonight.

The Elizabethtown boys, not being used to an "everything goes" game, were lost in the melee. Even the boys who thought they liked a rough game, got their fill as the capitol city lads stampeded their way to victory.

The cheering section, which sounded like tom-toms in the jungle, together with several unique floor rules, did much to put the visitors off their stride. The Gallaudet players, however, despite their great physical handicap displayed a high type of sportsmanship.

Brown starred for the home club while Gerlach shone for the visitors. The summaries:

Millersville Club Slaughters Boys

MILLERSVILLE, Feb. 21.—In a one-sided game here this evening, the Millersville State Teachers handed the visiting Elizabethtown College club one of the worst defeats of the season by downing them in an easy fashion for a 65-14 win.

The game was extremely rough and several men were ejected from the fray by the foul route. The Eastern League tactics were apparently very much enjoyed by the crowd which shouted its approval everytime a man was kicked, shoved, or bitten.

As far as the game was concerned, Millersville jumped into an early lead and was not threatened throughout the entire contest. Palmer and Fox lead in the onslaught.

Maryland Trips Varsity 30-22

TOWSON, Feb. 16.—A 30-22 victory here tonight gave the Maryland State Normal Indians their second win over the Elizabethtown College basketball club this season.

The Blue and Gray showed a great improvement since their first game with the warriors which they had dropped by a 44-19 score.

Wheeler and Rankin again proved to be the big guns on the Maryland offense, gathering 26 points between them. The Elizabethtown boys made a very poor showing in foul shots, making 6 and missing 10.

'32—Howard A. Herr, after graduating from Hahnemann with his M. D., is serving his internship in the Mercy Hospital, Altoona, Pa.

Doctors Nose Out Varsity

ELIZABETHTOWN, Feb. 13.—Playing ball in a free and easy fashion and not seeming to care if they won or lost, the Philadelphia Osteopaths gained a 3729 decision over the Elizabethtown Club here tonight.

The battle was close throughout the game but the superior size and experience of the visitors proved to be the downfall of the locals.

The game was interesting from the spectators standpoint because of the fine passing and easy manner of the Quaker City boys. The playing of Slim Jamis n stood out for the Doctors, while Gerlach showed up well for the home club.

By managing to down the Sophomore club by a 17-15 score, and by barely nosing out the Frosh "B" aggregation 17-16, the fast-stepping Junior-Senior remains in the undisputed lead of the Intramural League.

Strange as it may seem, the only defeat suffered by the league leaders was administered by the Frosh "A" team which has graced the cellar position since their first game.

Three more games remain on the schedule. On March 2, Frosh "A" meets the Sophs and the Jr.-Sr. Club takes on the second place Frosh "B". If the Frosh "B" boys turn in a victory, the league will be plunged into a deadlock which will probably necessitate a playoff.

Business Man Speaks in Chapel

CHAPEL, Feb. 16.—Pointing out the fact that one of the tragedies of our day is a "lack of knowledge of the Bible", Jesse W. Atkins, president of the Buch Manufacturing Company, of Elizabethtown, gave a very illuminating talk on the book of Job, here this morning.

Citing many examples of poetry, prose, and drama contained in the immortal book, Mr. Atkins humanized and illustrated the character of Job in a manner that interested everyone who heard him. Mr. Atkins' talk is one of a series of those given by outside speakers in chapel on Friday mornings.

GAME BEING PLANNED

Girls, Exhibiting Top-Form Down Lebanon Valley Club

ELIZABETHTOWN, Feb. — Reaching the peak of form for the season, the Elizabethtown College Girls' basketball team turned in a nice 37-24 victory over the visiting Lebanon Valley sextette in a fast game here this evening.

The local girls worked well throughout the game and kept their heads even though, in the nip and tuck battle, they lost the lead on several occasions.

The fine game was very much appreciated by the crowd which was very apprehensive about the outcome, especially since the girls had just been downed by the Blue Ridge Coeds a few days before.

None of the girls deserve outstanding praise as they all shared in the victory.

The Lebanon Valley Club will have a chance to avenge the defeat when Elizabethtown meets them later in the season on the Lebanon court.

Girls Lose to Juniata 24-18

ELIZABETHTOWN, Feb. 23.—Exhibiting a complete reversal from the fine showing made against Lebanon Valley last week, the Elizabethtown College girls' basketball team failed to get going against the visiting Juniata sextet in a loosely played game here this evening. When the game ended the score stood 24-19, in favor of Juniata.

The Elizabethtown forwards were especially poor; their failure to convert easy shots into field goals paved the way for the downfall of the home club. Several times during the game, it looked as though a substitution, even though only temporary, would have been of great benefit.

The Juniata girls promptly swung into action at the beginning of the game, establishing a 9 point lead. They lost this margin, however, and the Elizabethtown club started the last quarter with a 2 point advantage. A barrage of field goals in the last quarter proved the last straw for the home girls who could not cope with the well coached visitors.

Bucher Talks to Volunteers

CHAPEL, Feb. 19.—The Student Volunteers held their regular bi-weekly meeting here at 6.30 o'clock this evening.

Alva Harsh presided. A talk on "The Trend of Modern Life" was given by Lester Bucher. His talk centered mainly around the Student Volunteer Bulletin which, in its plan of programs, stresses the duties and privileges of the Student Volunteer.

On Sunday, February 11, this group was represented by Misses Weaver and Kreider and Harsh, Hoover, and J. H. Miller.

Plans are being made to send several delegates to the Student Volunteer Conference at Juniata College, March 16—18.

German Club Selects Cast

boys who probably will farm, to stimulate interest in farming in boys who should farm, to build a more adequate program, to enrich the curriculum, and to effect an instructional program on a twelve month basis.

The study takes into consideration the status of the school and attempts to give a rather accurate view of the farm situation in Lancaster County.

LOCALS WIN N. R. A. DEBATE

nevertheless. There was considerable banter about the difference between N. R. A. and N. I. R. A. and the Elizabethtown boys really missed a fine chance for a point in rebuttal by not referring to the original statement of the question.

Dr. E. S. Kiracofe, of the Elizabethtown faculty, acted as the chairman for the event. The audience did not exceed 100 in number; the attention was fair.

CHAPEL, Feb. 23.—The Elizabethtown Men's Negative Debating Team won a 3—0 decision over the Lebanon Valley Affirmative Team here tonight. The question for debate was, Resolved: That the essential features of the N. R. A. should be adopted into the permanent policy of the United States Government.

The Affirmative team composed of Mr. Hollingsworth, Mr. Hostetter, and Mr. Etter based their appeal on a humanitarian view of the situation. On the other hand, the Negative team composed of Mr. Curry, Mr. Bucher, and Mr. Kuhns proved the features of collective bargaining and public works program to be impracticable and hence undesirable. The judges for this debate were: Dr. Thomas, of Millersville State Teachers' College, and Mr. Alexander, of Elizabethtown.

On the same evening at Annville, the Elizabethtown Men's Affirmative team composed of Mr. Zuck, Mr. Kurtz, and Mr. Lentz lost a 3—0 decision to the Lebanon Valley Negative team, including Mr. Earnest, Mr. Woerner, and Mr. Reber. Although having proved that a change of policy was desirable and that the features of the N. R. A. were sound, the affirmative failed to prove their practicability. The negative advanced particularly strong arguments that the N. R. A. could not succeed because it was based on false assumptions. The judges for the debate were Mr. Case of Lebanon, Mr. Eppel of Annville, and Mr. Noll.

Mr. Bibbel was the type of man who took pride in his work. He would rather build a lasting edifice, even at a greater cost, than construct anything with inferior materials. One of his chief cares was to see that everything had a place of shelter, as is evidenced by his efforts in having the college garage built. "He was a man of deeds rather than words."

Personal contributions to the extent of thousands of dollars indicated the charity of Mr. Gibbel. Not only by direct contributions to the school, but also by financing needy students, Mr. Gibbel demonstrated his spirit of helpfulness. The time he devoted to the expansion of the school was not the least of his contributions. His broad minded optimism was always in evidence. He was not the man to give up the ship.

Mr. Gibbel was also an active deacon in the local Church of the Brethren for 20 years. In this capacity his tact and pleasing personality made him one of the most valuable of church members. Though very conservative, Mr. Gibbel understood youth and its problems and was ever willing to aid youth in gaining an education. Elizabethtown College has lost a most valuable patron.

ASSEMBLING BIBLIOGRAPHY

Students in Educational Measurement classes, under the direction of Dr. E. S. Kiracofe, are assembling a bibliography of standard educational tests. The date is being carefully compiled and card-indexed, and will become a permanent possession of the department.

Girl's Debating Clubs Divide 2 With Lebanon

Elizabethtown Negative Is Winner Here- Lebanon Wins at Lebanon

Teams Evenly Matched

CHAPEL March 6.—The Women's Negative Debating Team of Elizabethtown College met the Women's Affirmative Debating Team of Lebanon Valley College here tonight on the question: Resolved, That the essential features of the N. R. A. should be adopted as a permanent policy of our government.

The decision of the three judges which stood 2—1, in favor of Elizabethtown was given by Professor Walter Severance, Principal of the John Harris High School of Harrisburg; Dr. J. B. Thomas, Professor of Sociology, at Millersville State Teacher's College, and Professor Heagy, Principal of the Columbia High School.

Helen Earnest, Jean Naugle, Catharine Mowery and Helen Shaak comprised the Lebanon Valley team, while Elizabethtown was represented by Lydia Wagner, Helen Ott, Emilie Jane Kraybill, and Leah Musser.

The teams seemed to be fairly evenly matched and although Elizabethtown won it was not by a great margin as both teams displayed fine analytical and oratorical strength.

The attendance was better than the average attendance of debates on the Hill.

VOLUNTEERS AT JUNIATA

As we go to press a large delegation of Student Volunteers left for Juniata College to attend a conference. Details will be in next issue.

Social Relationships Discussed By Miss Sheaffer in Y.M.C.A.

FAIRVIEW APARTMENTS, Mar. 13.—Miss Sheaffer discussed "Social Relationships" with the members of the Y. M. C. A. here this evening. The meeting was of great interest, the attendance equaling the best previous meetings held this year. The frank and enlightening discussion following the refreshments was of especial value to the boys. The program was in charge of Earl Kurtz. Harry Smith had charge of the devotions.

The meeting was opened with a song led by Stauffer Curry. Immediately following, the Freshman Quartette, composed of Harold Hollinger, Edward Lander, Donald Royer, and Elwood Lentz, rendered a pleasing selection. Miss Sheaffer brought the message of the evening, which consisted of a talk on "Social Relationships" followed by a very interesting discussion.

Paul Walker and Al Clark to Speak at Times' Banquet

On Monday evening, March 19, the entire staff of Our College Times, together with its publisher E. G. Kuhn and his assistant Bryan Blough, and the Board of Control will gather in the dining room of Elizabethtown College to hear Paul Walker, a member of the editorial staff of the Harrisburg Telegraph.

Mr. Walker is graduate of Dickinson College and while there he was a member of the staff of the Dickinsonian so naturally he is in a fine position to present a viewpoint that will be readily understood by collegians. His talk will follow a banquet that is being introduced as a custom by the present ruling powers of the Elizabethtown school paper.

Al Clark, well known sports editor of the Morning Telegraph, will be another speaker. He will discuss work peculiar to the reporting of sports events.

In addition to the message these two men have to bring, several other more or less prominent personages will take an active part in the program. A visiting musician from Harrisburg together with what local talent there is available will be the features of the evening. Bryan Blough, well known local boy and assistant to E. G. Kuhn, will be very much in evidence with a vocal solo "On the Road to Mandalay". Much interest is manifested in this number by many who are dubious as to whether or not a printer can sing when he is not in the shop.

The retiring editor of the Times, Ray Coughlin, will in all probability have a few words to say to the staff which will only be together a scant month longer.

No changes have been announced in the arrangements to send five delegates to the Philadelphia Convention of the intercollegiate Newspaper Associations to be held at Temple University, on March 24 and 25 so Our College Times will be well represented.

Hilda Gible Is Oratorical Prize Winner

CHAPEL, Mar. 16.—Miss Hilda Gible, a Freshman, won the first prize of ten dollars in the annual oratorical contest here tonight. John Weaver took the second prize of five dollars and Olive Jameson got honorable mention.

There were seven contestants in all. In addition to the prize winners C. Arthur S. Hollinger, Leroy Eshleman, Ruth Longenecker, and Ray Coughlin competed.

Miss Gible's oration dealt with the various implications of friendships as opposed to battleships. Weaver discussed another phase of practically the same theme while Miss Jameson pointed out in her talk the need for constant effort on the part of a college student in order to keep abreast with the times.

The affair was sponsored by the Forensic Arts Club. Alva Harsh had charge of the arrangements and was chairman at the contest.

Three judges including the Rev. Mr. Croman of Elizabethtown, and Mr. Dibble of the Patton School, conferred to render the final decision.

All four of the college classes were represented and the caliber of the orations was unusually high. The orations average about 8 minutes in length.

Three weeks from the date of the Oratorical Contest, the Extempore Speaking Contest will be held. Rules governing this event will soon make their appearance on the various bulletin boards of the campus.

E-TOWN COLLEGE DEBATERS DEFEAT ALBRIGHT

CHAPEL, Mar. 14.—The Elizabethtown Men's Affirmative Debating team defeated the visiting Albright Negative team here tonight by a 2—1 decision on the usual N. R. A. question.

Getting off to a late start due to the girls' basketball game with St. Albans, the debate was held at 8:30.

PROF. L. D. ROSE

Rose Manages College Times' Reorganization

Under the direction of Prof. L. D. Rose, President of the Board of Control of Our College Times, the entire staff of that publication will soon be organized for the coming year.

Following his outline of the procedure in chapel, recommendations were posted directing interested persons how to proceed in their quest for a position on the staff. Those persons were recommended to do the following things:

1.—To consult the editor for directions; to make a careful study of the plan of reorganization governing the Swarthmore Phoenix; this plan has instructions for all members of the staff from "cub" to editor.

2.—To make a careful study of articles appearing in the current issues of the Haverford News, Swarthmore Phoenix, Ursinus Weekly, Brown and White, Muhlenberg Weekly, and Dickinsonian, noting style, order of events and any other factors peculiar only to newspaper articles.

Earl Kurtz and Paul Herr Are to Figure In the Leading Roles

Ken Grosh Is Directing

On Friday evening, March 23, the Candles, an honorary fraternity of Elizabethtown College, will present an evening of entertainment of Music and Drama in the Auditorium-Gymnasium. Kenneth Grosh, an alumnus of the college and erstwhile member of the Candles, is coaching the dramatic productions. He announces that his casts are rounding into shape and soon all will be in readiness for the final production.

This will be the second time in the history of the Candles that they have undertaken the presentation of a public program. The first program was given during the school year of 1931-32, under the leadership of Ezra Bucher who then headed the organization.

Earl Kurtz will take the leading role in a play "Dad" which has for its theme "who is really a success." Is it the man who prospers and makes good or the man who needs a second chance?

The lead in a second play, "Antoinette Comes to Town" will be played by Paul Herr. This play shows how a college student can make good.

The program, which begins at 8 o'clock, is as follows:

Music College Band
Play—Antoinette Comes to Town
Piano Solo A. S. Curry
Vocal Solo Kenneth Senior Reading F. Cassel
Music Men's Quartette
Play Dad
Music College Band

Warm Wave Brings Spring Fever to the Pipe Line Brigades

ELIZABETHTOWN, Mar. 8.—The contagious disease, universally known as spring fever, made its initial appearance on College Hill during the recent warm spell.

Freshmen, as well as their upper class colleagues, favored the dreamy atmosphere of the out-of-doors, to the more serious environment in the class rooms.

Future Ruths and Groves passed and bunted base ball under the soothing rays of Old Sol. The gentlemen on the "pipe line" enjoyed their afternoon smokes with the temperature hovering around sixty. At the office plans for cleaning and refilling Lake Placid were hastened so that students might enjoy the delightful recreation of boating.

Sock and Buskin Announces Cast

ELIZABETHTOWN, March 9.—Rehearsals for the Shakespearean play, Midsummer Night's Dream have begun. This play is to be presented by the Sock and Buskin on Friday, April 13, in the Auditorium-Gymnasium. The permanent cast been chosen and will appear as follows: Theseus, Lester Bucher; Lysander, Paul Gerber; Demetrius, Alva Harsh; Egeus, Nevin Zuck; Philostrate, Anna Jane Brubaker; Nich Bottom, Earl Kurtz; Quince, Esther Zug; Snug, Paul Herr; Flute, Harry Saylor; Snout, John Weaver; Starveling, Jacob Brubaker; Hippolyta, Ruth Eshleman; Hermia, Harriet Curry; Helena, Martha Groff; Oberon, Anna Reese; Queen Titania, Helen Ott; Puck, Dorothy Dulebohn; the First Fairy, Mabel Longenecker. Other fairies will be represented by children from the faculty families.

Men's Debating Team Wins Only Decision Debate of Extended Tour

The Men's Debating Teams of Elizabethtown College returned Friday, Mar. 9, at eight P. M., from a 965 mile tour through Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Maryland, debating with Bucknell University Junior College, Wilkes Barre, Pa.; Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa.; Fairmont State Normal School, Fairmont, West Virginia; and Gettysburg College, at Gettysburg, Pa.

Of these debates, only one, that with Westminster, was a decision debate. The critic judge awarded the affirmative team of Elizabethtown the decision. With the exception of Gettysburg, these debates marked the beginning of forensic relations with these various institutions.

Six debaters, Stauffer Curry, Cyrus Bucher, and Jacob Kuhns, negative and Nevin Zuck, Earl Kurtz, and Elwood Lentz, affirmative, made the trip which began Monday at noon and ended last Friday.

Very little road trouble was experienced by the debaters barring a minor accident due to slippery roads. Several snow storms were encountered; one of them forced the debaters to drive until midnight Thursday in order to avoid a possible delay because of drifting snow.

REFLECTIONS ON MY DUTY TOWARD MY FELLOWS

It has been my experience while in College to observe that practically anyone will stop his work to aid a less fortunate fellow in the battle that a student is continually waging to get through his course or to get high marks. Rationalizing, we say something like this: "Well, maybe it isn't just exactly the right thing but at the same time we are helping someone who needs help."

Most of us say that there is no harm in this, but let us look at the same spirit when it is carried into another line of work.

In the past four years there has graduated an individual from Elizabethtown College that could not graduate from other colleges by virtue of the fact that he had been expelled from them. By the same process of rationalization that we used in the first case we might say that this was all right because it helped someone get a chance in life that otherwise he wouldn't have gotten. Be that as it may; the whole thing is a blackeye to Elizabethtown College. Moreover, during the past four years there have been students in Elizabethtown College pursuing the regular course, and passing some too, that really did not have the stuff out of which a college student can be made. The fact that that person was permitted to remain in college was not only unfair to the college but unfair to the rest of the students of the college who really had the mentality to become a college student with all its implications.

Altruism is a fine thing, but in this day and age when the status of the college student is rapidly reaching the zero point there must be drastic measures taken to really preserve the integrity that someone must have built for them in the past.

This integrity cannot be preserved by the continuance of the policy of letting everyone who has enough money to pay the tuition remain in college until they have acquired the necessary diploma or certificate.

All the privileges alleged to be granted to a graduate of college won't be worth a picayune if we continue to allow everyone to graduate from our institutions of higher learning. If Elizabethtown, or any other college, thinks that this blind altruism is going to get them anywhere, there ought to be a pause to re-consider.

AN OBSERVATION

The recent exhibition of Thirteenth Century cruelty and ignorance, as exhibited by the girl who threw the cat from the second story window of the Girl's Dormitory, is repulsive and pathetic.

If the cat had been thrown but once, the girl might be excused because of pure ignorance or because of accident, but when the act is recommitted in the face of considerable opposition and protest as openly voiced by other girls, surely there must be a maladjustment somewhere. A person so utterly impervious to group disapproval ought to be dealt with in a sterner manner.

Hollingsworth Is Speaker in Chapel

CHAPEL, March 2.—In one of the finest chapel talks heard here this year, the Reverend Mr. Hollingsworth, of the local United Brethren Church, presented a thought provoking address concerning the place of religion in college life. One of the contributions of religious faith to the life of the student is the fact that it is a means of providing "mental poise and soul security that is necessary to successfully combat the cynicism so current in modern thought." Reverend Hollingsworth further stated that "courage and hope are imparted only through religious faith."

The address was thoroughly appreciated by many of the students and favorable comments were heard from several sources.

Juniata Valley Alumni to Meet

Those Alumni, former students and friends of Elizabethtown College residing in Juniata Valley, held an organization dinner meeting on Saturday, March 3, in the social rooms of the Evangelical Church at Mifflin, Pa. The meeting which was marked by a fine spirit of loyalty and fellowship was attended by 19 persons.

H. M. Arnold, '25, instructor in the York Senior High School, and Professor Rose, represented the Alumni Association. Arnold outlined Elizabethtown's great assets: alumnus and alumni; he held that the least an alumnus can do is to support the work of his Alma Mater. Efforts are most effective when we join the common cause of the group. Professor Rose outlined plans for the growth and activities of the Alumni Association; he also conveyed to the group President Schlosser's felicitations and reported briefly on the student canvass and the excellent outlook for a large Freshman Class next year.

Other features of the program were vocal numbers by John Kipp and Professor E. G. Meyer, '24, and a sketch by Olive Jameson, '34, Luke Buffenmyer, '37 and Shelly Miller, '37, presenting student life on the campus.

The following officers were elected: President, E. Esther Leister, '27; Vice-president, Gideon Drake, '25; Secretary-Treasurer, Margaret J. Watts.

Volunteers Visit In Montgomery County

The Student Volunteers sent a group to Montgomery County March 4th to render a program at the Hatfield Church in the morning and at the Indian Creek Church in the afternoon. The theme: "Sharing", was developed by the idea that our present civilization is based on it and our Christianity demands it.

The group was composed of Ruth Longenecker, J. H. Miller, and Earl Kurtz together with the Mixed Quartette consisting of Mary Brumbaugh, Harriet Curry, Stauffer Curry, and Paul Herr.

Every member of the last years tennis squad has returned to school and is anxiously awaiting participation.

= From Here and There =

Dr. Schlosser's parable of time in chapel was immediately followed by Dr. Musick's advice that we lose time-consciousness.

The recent snowball battlers proved a lot of things but did nothing to further establish the superiority of college students over high school boys.

"Kenny" Senior, sensational dirt-track driver set a new record on his home trip last Tuesday. Time: 3 hours, 20 minutes.

"From Denver University we learn that the human body requires 15 days to recover from the loss of one night's sleep." —Ursinus.

"Proving that there is more than one way of getting through a course, students at the Spanish University at Valleyin locked their professors in a room until they had promised to pass the class without an examination."

"Hazing of freshmen at Lincoln Memorial University was abolished when one of the upperclassmen grabbed a professor by mistake."

Cumberland Valley Alumni to Meet

The Alumni, former students, and friends of Elizabethtown College residing in the Cumberland Valley have planned an organization dinner to be held in the Chambersburg Church of the Brethren on the evening of March 17. This is the third new branch organization to be effected during the present year.

Fellow members and visiting Alumni will be present to address the meeting. The following committee is in charge of the event: Mary L. Higes, '28, G. A. W. Stauffer, '09, and Margaret Oellig, '22.

MEN'S DEBATING TEAM WINS ONLY DECISION

debated the Bucknell Junior College Affirmative Team after a dinner meeting of the Economics Club of that place. Showing a finer technique than their inexperienced opponents, the Elizabethtown boys had a slight edge over the up-state lads.

Leaving Wilkes Barre, the boys visited Bucknell University and Penn State on their journey to Westminster College. On Wednesday afternoon, a two-man Elizabethtown affirmative team was awarded the decision over Westminster's negative team by a critic judge from Grove City College. Westminster has an imposing record in Forensic Arts, having won an Intercollegiate Forum Debate. They were also last year's champions in the Tri-State Debating League.

Traveling to Fairmont State Normal School via Pittsburgh, the Elizabethtown Affirmative Team met Fairmont's Negative in a non-decision debate. In the opinion of the audience the Affirmative held a slight advantage over the negative in this tilt.

Forcing their way through a blizzard high in the West Virginian mountains the boys experienced some difficulty in reaching Gettysburg in time for the scheduled meeting at 3:30, Friday afternoon.

The debate with Gettysburg was made quite interesting by several unique analogies offered by members of both teams. Neither team seemed to have much of an advantage over the other.

They stopped at Grantham Junior College on their way to Elizabethtown. Grantham is the Alma Mater of Jacob Kuhns, one of the Elizabethtown debaters.

Joseph's, the debate proceeded rather dryly until the rebuttal which proved unusually interesting. The Affirmative team, which seemed weak in its constructive speech, came back strong in rebuttals.

The negative attempted to prove that the high concentration of power in the President was undesirable and that the N. R. A. has not brought about any real change since it is in effect.

The Affirmative clinched the debate by proving that the Negative had not taken into consideration the latest figures on business activity and that these figures show a decided upward trend in general business activities.

The debate was marred by a continual disagreement concerning the essential features of the N. R. A.

The judges for the debate were: Dr. Stonesifer of Lebanon Valley College; Mr. May, attorney, from Lancaster, and Mr. Greene of the Columbia High School Department of English.

Osteopaths Trip Varsity

PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—For the second time this season, the Philadelphia Osteopaths proved their superiority over the Elizabethtown Varsity by annexing a 30-26 win in a heated contest here tonight.

Lack of consistent teamwork played havoc with the Herr-coached machine and while the Elizabethtown boys were trying to find themselves the Doctors chalked up enough counters to win by a narrow margin.

The usual color attending a game with the Osteopaths was not lacking. Jamison again lead his team in scoring with 3 field goals and 2 free throws. Gerlach played an outstanding game for the Elizabethtown Club.

Frosh Defeat Upperclassmen

GYM, Mar. 15.—In a thrilling battle played here tonight, the strong all-Freshmen team proved their superiority over the upperclassmen by handing them a 33-21 defeat in the final game of the season here tonight. Lack of substitutes and consistent fouling seemed to spell disaster for the upperclassmen.

Royer lead the scoring for the Frosh with 8 field goals and 3 fouls. Gerlach and Bucher turned in nice games for the upperclassmen.

Coach Announces Initial Call For Baseball Players

COACH IRA E. HERR

Coach Ira Herr announced that the first general practice of the baseball candidates would take place tonight.

Pitchers and catchers have been practicing since last week.

A good supply of veterans and an abundance of new material is seen as a hopeful sign for a successful season.

Krall, a catcher; Thome, a pitcher, Cobough, Espenshade, and Bucher, infielders, and L. Bucher, an outfielder comprise the bulk of the last year's letter-men.

Several Freshmen have announced the intentions of trying for a position.

Eppley, a pitcher, from Shippensburg, has reported last week in good shape. He is expected to give Thome some competition on the mound.

Royer and Artman have also been getting into shape for a try at the hurler's berth.

Girls Down Blue Ridge

The E-town Coeds decisively defeated a much changed Blue Ridge sextet, in a fast, hard fought game, here tonight. The score was comparatively close throughout the first half, but the accurate shooting of Martha Groff and the timely shots of Eshleman, a converted forward, enabled the girls to double the score on the Blue Ridge lassies as the final whistle blew.

Frosh "B" Win Intramural Title

The Frosh "B" team of the intramural league upset the dope by defeating the strong Jr. and Sr. team in the play off for the class championship. The Frosh outplayed the upperclassmen in all phases of the game and led in the scoring throughout.

The upperclassmen put on a final spurt but were unable to overcome the lead chalked up by the Frosh. The interest aroused by this "intramural league" experiment, was commendable and the sportsmanship displayed by the players was out of the ordinary.

Harry Gerlach Wins Contest With 19 of 25

HARRY GERLACH

GYM, Mar. 14.—At four o'clock this afternoon the annual foul shooting contest got under way with a total of 26 contestants in both the boys' and girls' tournaments. Harry Gerlach, varsity center, won the boys' tournament with 19 good shots of out 25. Ruth Bishop, varsity forward, copped the title in the girls contest with 14 out of 25.

Nineteen boys competed of which Gerlach scored 19, L. Bucher and Artman scored 18, Espenshade and Thome 17.

Out of 25 tries Ruth Bishop scored 14, Edna Barnes and Harriet Curry 10, and Leah Musser 9.

At the close of the contest Prof. Dan. Meyer shot 18 out of 25 and Dr. Kiracofe 17 out of 25. Both of these veterans scored nine fouls without missing. The contest failed to set any new high records. Last year's record was 20 or better out of 25.

The Outlook

(By Jake)

As basket ball season is rapidly expiring, the general conversation around College Hill concerning athletics, assumes a baseball lingo.

Official practice, not yet having been ushered in, there is little we can say about prospective material although it looks as though with the varsity men from last year and the several yearlings who have had scholastic experience, there will be a fighting bunch on hand to compete for the positions open.

This is not a prediction but we believe that we will have a squad that would make any small college proud.

All-Opponent Team Picked

(By Jake)

In climaxing the season of an intercollegiate sport it seems to be a traditional custom of most colleges to choose an all opponent team composed of those players, who were the most outstanding against their home club. The purpose in carrying through such a tradition is to leave the opposing colleges know that, from observations taken by one school, they have produced a player worthy of being named on an honored team. In the past Etown College has no record as having published an all opponent team so it is hoped that by starting with this year, picking an all opponent team will become a traditional custom in the coming years at E-town.

In picking our all opponent team for this year we have interviewed the members of the varsity team. Their choice plus our own personal observations form the necessary factors for naming the team. The team is as follows:

R. F.—Evans—East Stroudsburg State Teachers' College.
R. G.—Hughs—Dickinson College.
C. — Wheeler — Maryland State Teachers' College.
L. F.—Bender — Millersville State Teachers' College.

Honorable Mention

Souders—Millersville State Teachers' College
Book—Shippensburg State Teachers' College.
Wenger—Juniata College.
Fox—Millersville State Teachers' College.

E-town Given Decision Over Westminster

CHAPEL, Mar. 16.—The Elizabethtown Men's Negative Debating Team was awarded a decision over Westminster College Affirmative team by a critic judge, Doctor Klein of Gettysburg College, this afternoon at four o'clock on the N. R. A. question.

Elizabethtown was represented by Mr. Curry and Mr. Kuhns; Westminster was represented by Mr. Ludorer and Mr. Christy. Contrary to most debates on this question, there was no quibble over the essential features of the N. R. A. The Affirmative defended the N. R. A. by showing that a change of system is necessary and that the N. R. A. is the needed change because its principles are fair and equitable. The Negative based its attack upon the impracticability and the unsound economics of the N. R. A. Doctor Klein, a well-known coach of debate gave as his chief criticism of the debate that the Affirmative confined itself to a theoretical discussion of the N. R. A. and presented no clear cut case for the Negative to tear down. On the other hand, he stated that the Negative failed to point out this weakness of the Affirmative. Doctor Klein's analysis of the debate was accurate, concise, and well stated. This is the second victory of an Elizabethtown team over a Westminster team for this season. The Elizabethtown Affirmative team was awarded a decision by a critic judge over Westminster Negative at New Wilmington, Pa., on the former team's debating tour. The Westminster debaters are now on a seven-day tour visiting such schools as Penn State, Lebanon Valley College, Western Maryland, Gettysburg, St. Francis and others.

SOCIAL DELATIONSHPIS

DISCUSSED BY MISS SHEAFFER IN Y. M. C. A.

formal discussion of problems brought to light by the talk. As the main points of her discourse Miss Sheaffer said that for the opposite sexes to have satisfactory social relationships they must have (1) a community of interests (2) a Platonic relationship, (3) a friendship that is stimulating in the right direction and (4) a friendship that is restrained.

Miss Sheaffer divided friendships into three groups: the outer circle of friends, which is governed by the golden rule; the inner circle of friends, which is ruled by love; and the innermost circle of friends, which should be small and include one's life mate. She stressed the Platonic relationship as the most desirable for people attending school. A Platonic relationship is being "pals" not lovers; having friendships, not love affairs. Lack of restraint in what boys say and do has broken many girls' hearts, according to Miss Sheaffer, and the constancy of women outweighs that characteristic in men, which many times causes much friction.

In the informal discussion after Miss Sheaffer's talk, the problems of wallflower girls, petting, teasing, and the artificial situation created by the college atmosphere were discussed. The boys manifested great interest in these topics and it was with regret on the part of all that the discussion was ended. Another rendition by the Freshman Quartette and a song by the group brought the meeting to a close.

SHIPPENSBURG DOWNS ELIZABETHTOWN BOYS

SHIPPENSBURG, March 7.—The Elizabethtown Varsity quintet was literally swamped by the much stronger Shippensburg Teachers, as the latter club gained a 47-19 decision over the visiting aggregation. The contest marked the knell of a very unsuccessful season for the Elizabethtown Club.

The game was played on fairly even terms for three periods but during the last quarter, with Gerlach on the bench because of fouls, the visitors were unable to stem the tide as the Teachers piled up more points than their opponents were able to gather during the entire game.

McVickers displayed great offensive strength for the Shippensburg Club while Lander and Bucher were the mainstays for the visitors.

Herbert Stare of Gettysburg to Head INA

Elected on Second Ballot Following Hectic Discussions

TEMPLE U. IS HOST

Eminent Journalists Heard at Gala INA Spring Convention

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 24.—At a hectic session of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association here this afternoon, Herbert Stare, editor of the Gettysburgian of Gettysburg College, was elected president of the organization for the coming year. Stare was chosen on the second ballot after a hot battle waged by the supporters of Mort Rovins of Temple, Mary Harris of Drexel, and the delegates at large, threatened to disrupt the meeting.

Rovins seemed to have a slight edge before the electioneering began but several suggestions and subsequent misinterpretations, coupled with some rather tactless remarks on the part of his would be backers, led to the election of Stare whose neutral position soon caught the fancy of the voters. Miss Harris, retiring secretary of the I. N. A., did not carry her attempt to get into office further than a few explanatory remarks.

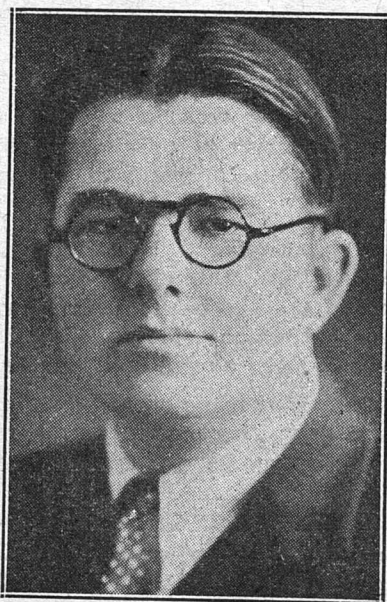

Margaret Peters of Swarthmore, was elected Secretary on the first ballot and Ed. Harris of Brooklyn Poly, was named Vice-President.

Brooklyn was chosen as the site of the 1934 Fall Convention, at the joint invitation of Brooklyn Poly and Stevens Institute. An invitation to hold the meeting at Washington and Jefferson College was also offered.

Convention Began Friday

The first meeting of the Annual Spring Convention, with the Temple News as host and Hyman Levin, President of the I. N. A., presiding, was held in Mitten Hall on Friday (Continued on Page Four)

KENNETH GROSH

Candles' Play Much Enjoyed

Big Audience Supports Project Directed by Ken Grosh

GYM, March 23.—The Candles presented an evening's entertainment of music and drama here tonight to a large and appreciative audience. Music by the college band, a piano solo by A. Stauffer Curry, a vocal solo by Paul Herr, more music by the Quartette, and two one-act plays, "Dad", and "Antoinette Comes to Town", made up the program of the evening.

Under the able direction of Kenneth Grosh, the entire program went off without a hitch. The boys knew their lines well and covered up any wrong cues they may have received. Earl Kurtz as "Dad" fitted himself well into a most difficult role. "Mose", in the person of Cyrus Krall gave the play life and now and then a touch of sad humor. The sneaking thief, who only wanted another chance after all, was well portrayed by Kenneth Senior as "Lane". The supporting characters in the cast of "Dad", Alva Harsh as (Continued on page four)

Men's Negative Debating Club Ends Season Unbeaten

Albright Is the Fourth College to Fall Under Brilliant Arguments of Kuhn, Curry, Bucher

READING, Mar. 21.—The brilliant Men's Negative Debating Team of Elizabethtown College closed their season undefeated here tonight by downing the strong Albright Affirmative Team on the N. R. A. question. Albright is the fourth college to fall before the strong arguments of Kuhn, Curry, Bucher, and Hollinger in decision debates this year. In addition to this the team participated in several non-decision tilts.

Dr. Lingenfelter of the Millersville State Teacher's College, judged the debate with Albright on delivery, material, and general appearance. He said that the Elizabethtown boys had their constructive speeches better organized although the clubs were evenly matched in the rebuttals.

Women's Negative Meets Penn State

CHAPEL, Mar. 21.—The Women's Negative Debating Team of Elizabethtown College met the Affirmative team of Penn State College men on the N. R. A. question here tonight. A unique feature of the debate was the fact that it was non-decision because of the inability on the part of the managers to secure a critic judge. Both teams showed good form but the boys seemed to present a more concise argument. The final rebuttals of each team were strong although some of the rest were lacking in force.

Despite the pitifully small audience and the absence of the critic judge, a spirit of good fellowship prevailed.

New Alumni Branch Meets

Crowd of 78 in Attendance

The Alumni, former students, and friends of Elizabethtown College in the Cumberland Valley held an organization dinner meeting Saturday evening, March 17, in the Chambersburg Church of the Brethren.

Marked by a fine spirit of loyalty and fellowship, the evening provided a pleasant occasion for making and renewing friendships and recalling the good old days spent on College Hill. Seventy persons were in attendance including three Trustees: G. A. W. Stauffer, '09, C. E. Grapes, and C. R. Oellig.

H. M. Arnold, '25, and Professor L. D. Rose were the official representatives of the Alumni Association. Arnold emphasized the need for unity of aim and cooperation among the members of the Association; Professor Rose outlined plans for increased interest and activity in the various projects sponsored by the Alumni.

The committee in charge of the event which has been retained for next year consists of Mary L. Hughes, '28, President; Margaret Oellig, '22, Vice-President; and G. A. W. Stauffer, '09, Treasurer.

Contest Rules Are Outlined

Plea Made for Choice of Wide Subject-Matter Fields

CHAPEL, Mar. 22.—In an announcement in chapel here today, Ray Cobaugh, manager for the Extempore Speaking Contest, briefly discussed the rules which would govern the annual event which is held in the memory of Miss Elizabeth Myer, the first English teacher ever to hold the position at Elizabethtown College.

Cobaugh stressed the fact that the main idea of the contest was to develop the ability to talk extemporaneously and that memorized material should not be presented. Students were urged to choose wide fields in order to encourage variety and interest in the speeches.

The rules, which have been posted on the bulletin board, are as follows:

- 1.—All regular students of Elizabethtown College are eligible to compete.
- 2.—Each contestant shall designate a field in which he would like to speak.

14 Go to See Midsummer Night's Dream

600 Mile Trip Made to Witness Shakespearean Comedy

TO BE GIVEN HERE

Salient Features of the Play Carefully Noted by Our Cast

ELIZABETHTOWN, Mar. 23.—14 members of the Sock and Buskin, including faculty adviser Miss Rebekah Sheaffer, just returned from a 300 mile trip to Williams and Marys College where they witnessed the presentation of A Midsummer Night's Dream by the Dramatic Club of that school.

High interest was manifested by the Elizabethtown delegation because of the fact that the play is to be given here on April 13. All the students who made the trip are members of the cast which will reproduce the play here.

Although the production at Williams and Marys was not perfect (as one naturally would not expect it to be perfect) it revealed many interesting and vital features of Shakespearean technique to the visiting onlookers and undoubtedly the play here will be considerably improved because of their having seen it. The acting of the "Bottom Group" was particularly commendable.

The Elizabethtown group left this campus at five o'clock Thursday morning, arriving at Williams and Marys about one o'clock in the afternoon. A sightseeing trip completed the afternoon. Several very interesting places, including old Virginia estates and historical landmarks, were visited.

The play lasted from 8 until 10:15 that evening. The Elizabethtowners left the campus at midnight, arriving home at 9 o'clock Friday morning after an uneventful trip, except for some trouble experienced in driving through a blinding snow.

23 Attend Volunteer Conference Held on Juniata College Campus

HUNTINGDON, Mar. 16, 17.—Twenty-three delegates from Elizabethtown College including Miss Martha Martin, instructor in Religious Education, represented that institution at the Annual Student Volunteer Conference held on the Juniata College Campus today and yesterday.

The conference included sixty-five delegates from Blue Ridge, Bridgewater, Juniata, and Elizabethtown. The main theme of the sessions "The Universal Hunger" was ably developed by the conference leaders.

Reverend C. D. Bonsack, of Elgin, Illinois, often called the father of the Student Volunteers gave several inspiring addresses which Elizabethtown representatives claimed were the outstanding points of the conference.

Times Called "Front Window of School" by Visiting Journalists

DINING ROOM, Mar. 19.—The entire editorial and business staff of Our College Times gathered here tonight at the first staff banquet in recent years to hear Paul Walker of the Harrisburg Telegraph say that "Your Paper is the front window of your school; when a stranger picks it up he immediately appraises the school by its appearance." Mr. Walker, a Dickinson man of '21, an experienced journalist, and the guest speaker of the evening, further stated that he believes Our College Times is doing a good job.

Al Clark, sports editor for the Morning Telegraph and writer of "The Sports Shop", one of the capitol city's foremost sports columns, also spoke to the group. Clark cited some of the unique conditions attending college journalism and made several observations concern-

WE ARE AT IT AGAIN

The curse of excessive extra-curricular activities is again gnawing at the vitals of Elizabethtown College. Banquets, debates, musicales, plays, plays within plays, athletic teams, contests, meetings, plans, and programs are demanding everything from the already enfeebled student. Even the traditional avocation of studying is falling into disrepute.

Overworked forensics, bleary eyed would-be journalists, and sallow faced Garricks and Marlowes are filing into our classes with about as much expression as a dying hen in a rainstorm.

This college is too small to support large scale extra curricular activities and academic interests. Let's start tearing down the classrooms; let's make way for the new trends in education.

A WORTHY MEMORIAL

Few memorials are more suggestive and fitting than the annual extempore speaking contest held at Elizabethtown College in honor of its first English teacher, Miss Elizabeth Myer.

Every year, by engaging in an activity that Miss Myer so thoroughly enjoyed while she taught on College Hill, the students of Elizabethtown and the promoters of the contest are recalling to us memories and traditions set up by her. Miss Myer, an educator of the old school and an ardent supporter of the College, had a distinctive career. She was the first plain woman ever to graduate from a Pennsylvania State Normal School; she was the first English teacher at Elizabethtown College. She set an educational pace which evidenced a genuine thirst for knowledge combined with dignity and service.

Her activities, especially in the face of some of the traditional opposition to education which she undoubtedly encountered, can well serve as a model for us today.

THINK IT OVER

Those students who are using the bulletin board to display silly remarks, make-shift poetry, would-be wisecracks, general ignorance, and partial knowledge, are corrupting a means of communication alleged to be of real service to the student body.

REALLY AN ASSET

Elizabethtown College can well be proud of her excellent A Capella Choir which sings practically every week in churches of this vicinity. The Choir gave a splendid rendition last Sunday and its activities are a real credit to our College.

MINISTERIUM CONDUCTS CHAPEL PROGRAM

Rev. Alva Harsh Is Speaker

CHAPEL, March 21.—The Ministerium had charge of the chapel program today. Cyrus Krall led the devotions, and Alva Harsh was the speaker on the program. Mr. Harsh discussed "The Tragedy of Being Misunderstood." He cleared up many points as to why men misunderstand each other and Christ.

"We are misunderstood because of our own subtle character," Mr. Harsh said. "We make too many dogmatic statements." He gave four reasons why Christ was misunderstood. (1) We misunderstand only original men. Society demands a uniformity. Man misunderstood Christ's motives. (2) Christ was misunderstood because of his mystical and poetic speech. (3) Man misunderstood his silence. (4) Men heard only fragments of his speeches. Harsh closed his talk by saying that the only way to understand Christ is to study His sayings.

Valuable information about the work of the Volunteer movement was given by Reverend Jesse Zeigler, president of the Student Volunteers of the Church of the Brethren.

The conference opened Friday with a fellowship supper and a concert by the Juniata College Orchestra. Saturday was devoted mainly to addresses, open forum discussions, private conferences, and a missionary drama in the evening.

On Sunday morning services were held in the "Stone Church". The general atmosphere of sincerity and the delightful hospitality of the social hours will be remembered as vivid features of the conference.

ed that are really problems in many other schools.

Guests for the evening included Professor Rose, chairman of the Board of Control, E. G. Kuhn and Bryan Blough, publishers of the paper, and A. Stauffer Curry, who played a much appreciated piano solo.

There was a genuine spirit of fellowship among the budding college newspaper men while Harriet Curry and Mary Brumbaugh sang two delightful duets; one of these was sung a la Eastern Shore, very slow and deliberate. Harry Smith's vocal number "Ho for the Rolling Sea" was also very well received.

The visiting pressmen expressed their appreciation of the fine show of friendliness made by the collegians and Al Clark offered to show the entire staff through the thoroughly modern Harrisburg Telegraph plant anytime we can arrange to go.

Alumni Notes

'32—Paul Butterbaugh has recently secured the position of bookkeeper and office manager of the newly organized Ford Agency at North Manchester, Indiana.

'24—A. Miriam Ollig is teaching in the consolidated school's of Brown's Mill, Pa.

= From Here and There =

In the various colleges of Canada a new vogue of beard raising has been initiated among the male students. One outraged co-ed suggested that in order to be real collegiate they should dye their beards in appropriate college colors.

A Boston University student dropped biology, with the following explanation: "The class cut up an apple and the professor told them to eat it. Secondly, they cut up and ate a watermelon. On the third day the professor brought a cat!"

Society must be willing to grant that it is respectable for a young man or woman to refrain from a University career; President Robert C. Sproul of the University of California, said recently.

According to an editorial in the "Villanova" brought to our attention by "The Muhlenburg Weekly", only a dozen students attended a concert of the Vienna Boys' Choir at Villanova and likewise at Muhlenburg adds the writer. Cheer up Music Department we have better attendance than that and have a much smaller school.

WOMEN'S DEBATING TEAM ENGAGES PENN STATE BOYS

STATE COLLEGE, Mar. 21.—In the most interesting non-decision debate of their schedule the Women's Affirmative Debating Team of Elizabethtown College engaged the Men's Negative Team of Pennsylvania State College in a heated discussion of the usual N. R. A. question here tonight.

After the debate the Elizabethtown girls heard the criticisms offered by Coach Dr. O'Brien of the State College Team. The Elizabethtown girls, Margaret Sechrist, Sadie Yost, Anna Reese, and Garnet Martin report that they were exceptionally well treated by the Penn State boys.

As seems to be the general case in college circles, the audience at the debate was reduced to a mere handful of persons, most of whom are directly connected with some kind of forensic work.

4 ENTER CONTEST

As we go to press, four men, Frey, Kuhn, Hollinger, and Cobaugh have entered the Extempore Speaking Contest.

THE SONG OF THE CARAVAN

Feet on the sands,
Heavy feet, light feet,
Boot, sandal, moccasin,
Yellow feet, white feet,
Treading the desert waste,
With the step of Kings
Now we advance a foot,
Yes, we advance a foot,
But soon—on wings.

We, who were told
That sunlight would blind us,
We, who were trained to look
Ever behind us.
Toward the horizon's brim,
With the step of Kings,
Now we advance a foot,
Yes, we advance a foot,
But soon—on wings.

Songs of the air,
Swung to new measures,
Gypsy and Vagabond,
Caught by new pleasures.
Forward, the Caravan!
With the step of Kings,
Now we advance a foot,
Yes, we advance a foot,
But soon—on wings.

$100 Prize Offered for Best Musical Composition for the Poem "Song of the Caravan"

In its admirable attempt to effect a better understanding among the youth of various nations, the Youth Section of the New History Society offers a prize of one hundred dollars for music composed to the poem entitled: "The Song of the Caravan".

This poem, which Walter Damrosch hails as "delightful and with the right lilt for a musical setting", vividly depicts the slow yet sure progress that the Caravan of world enthusiasts is making through Art and associations toward the laying of foundations for better society.

The contest is open to all composers of any nationality regardless of race without any limitations as to sex or age.

Some of the more outstanding conditions for entering the contest are: 1.—the composition should be written as a vocal solo with piano accompaniment with certain possibilities for later arrangements; 2.—the composition should be a marching melody and 3.—should be mailed between March first and May fifteenth. Full details of the contest rules can be had by applying to the College Times office where literature on the subject is on file.

That the New History is actually making some progress can be seen by the sentiment expressed by youths in many countries who submitted essays in the recent international contest conducted among college and university students.

From Italy comes the stirring entreaty that we college students must boycott the lectures of those professors who sympathize with militarism in order to develop a vast agitation against war. Poland issues a great challenge: Man! be a citizen of the world.

It is refreshing in this modern day of distrust and suspicion to hear the voice of youth which is beginning to realize that the way to peace is through better understanding.

Rookies Bid Fair to Put Up a Fight for Positions

The first official call for baseball practice was greeted by 20 aspirants, consisting of 5 last year's lettermen and 15 rookies, most of whom are yearlings. Because of inclement weather the first two practices were held indoors with the exception of some road work.

Many yearlings who reported have had several years inter-scholastic experience and will fight hard to gain a berth on the varsity nine. Among the Freshman material is Royer and Artman, pitchers, Landner and Glasmyre, catchers, and Estricher and Zeiders, infielders.

Epley, who has pitched some in local amateur circles and for Shippensburg Teachers last year, will probably see considerable service on the mound during the season.

A nucleus of five veterans are available for the club. These men around whom the new team will be built include Thome, ace pitcher from last year's staff, Espenshade and Coughlin, infielders with two years experience, Bucher, a third sacker who took Espenshade's place last year when the latter was forced to discontinue playing because of injuries, and Krall, a catcher.

Despite the fact that these men have seen service for Elizabethtown, their positions are by no means closed and Coach Herr says that everyone will get an opportunity to try out for any position.

BASEBALL IN THE EIGHTIES

Many changes have occurred in baseball rules, customs, technique, and equipment since the late Eighties and the Gay Nineties, and it is likely that old time fans would scarcely recognize the game as it is played today.

The uniform worn in those times consisted of a pair of blue flannel trousers, tight-fitting at the knees, a vest coat, and a blue mohair hat.

A unique custom in the early Eighties was the wearing of a necktie by the players. The tie was handy and easily arranged because the four-in-hand knot was made by machinery. The shoes worn by the players were the familiar "Hum Brogans" of that era. They had no cleats but the soles were full of wooden pegs which sometimes came loose putting a player down and out as he attempted to circle the bases.

There was no such a thing as a catcher's mitt in the "olden days". The ball was comparatively soft, and it is a good thing it was because when a batter hit the ball here is what happened: the player recovered the ball, threw it at the runner and if he hit him when he was off base, the runner was out. In those days if the score was down in the twenties it was considered a tight game. It was the player's idea of a pitcher's duel.

The pitching was done underhanded without bending the elbow, much as one pitches quoits. The pitcher in the "good old days" was out to accommodate the batter. When the batter stepped to the plate he held up his hand shoulder high, waist high, or knee high, designating what kind of a ball he liked best to hit, high, medium, or low.

After that the pitcher not only had to pitch the ball over the plate but at the height designated by the batter. The ball might cut the plate waist high, but if the batter had asked for it shoulder high, it was considered a "ball".

As a general rule the umpire sat in a chair with a big umbrella over his head to keep off the sun.

Coach Announces Tennis Practice

GYM, March 22.—The first tennis practice of the season was held here this afternoon under the direction of Coach Myers.

The prospects for a good season are bright because of the fact that all of last year's team is available and several yearlings including Hoffman, Elwood and Russell Hackman, MacDonald, and Hollinger who are prepared to give the veterans a struggle for their positions.

The practice will be limited to warming up exercises and easy racquet work until weather permits outdoor activities.

It took many years to bring baseball up to the fast, heady game that it is today—the development of "inside baseball," the evolution of the equipment, and the nearly scientific training a player has now to undergo has made it the National Game of the United States.

Before many weeks are past the baseball team will be training for two sports: baseball and cross-country running.

Since Coach Herr has demanded strict obedience of the training rules for the baseball fellows, the pipe line brigade has been reduced to a mere handful.

Women's Negative Trips West. M'ryl'd

CHAPEL, March 20.—The Women's Affirmative Debating Team of Elizabethtown College defeated Western Maryland's Negative Team on the usual N. R. A. question here tonight. The decision was given by Dr. Klein, debating coach at Gettysburg College who gave an excellent criticism of the evening's tilt.

Dr. Klein pointed out that the Negative team quoted very few statistics, making the rebuttal comparatively easy for the Affirmatives. According to Dr. Klein, the Elizabethtown girls showed judgment in that they refused to argue the undebatable. The key-note of the winning team's argument was the practicability of the government's experiment.

WESTMINSTER, Mar. 21.—The Negative half of Elizabethtown College's Co-ed debating squad was defeated here tonight on the usual N. R. A. question by the strong Western Maryland Girls Team. The decision was offered by Dr. Cook from the Theological Seminary of Western Maryland.

Dr. Cook pointed out that the speeches of the Negative Team contradicted each other. He also cited that the teams did not clash enough, did not have strenuous issues. On this point, however, the Affirmative team was more definite than the visitors, thus clinching the debate.

Girls Close Season With 1 Point Loss to Lebanon

ANNVILLE, March 17.—Inability on the part of the Elizabethtown College Girl's Basketball Team to get going in the first half paved the way for a 23-22 loss at the hands of the Lebanon Valley College Coeds in a fast game played here at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

At half time Lebanon Valley had a 9 point lead. Brilliant playing on the part of the Elizabethtown Girls outscored the home club 10-3 in the third quarter and the score stood 19-17 at the beginning of the final period.

This two point advantage proved to be the deciding factor, however, as a determined rally by the visitors failed to close the gap between the scores. The count stood 23-22 as the final whistle blew.

Anna Krebs, lanky forward for the home club, lead the field in scoring with 6 field goals and 1 foul for a total of 13 points while Ruth Bishop of the Elizabethtown Club was a close second with five double deckers and 1 free throw.

This afternoon's loss makes a total of 7 defeats suffered by the Blue and Grays at the hands of opposing college teams. The Co-eds were successful in winning but three intercollegiate contests. Three other victories, however, were netted from independent clubs, bringing the total to 6 wins for the season.

Candles' Play Much Enjoyed

"Adam," James Nedrow as "Tom", Cyrus Bucher as "Ted", Nevin Zuck as "Mayor Beck," Eby Espenshade as "Ed," and Melvin Wagner as "Jim", contributed greatly to the success of the play.

In the skit, "Antionette Comes to Town," Lester Bucher played the part of "Peter Southwick," who had to run a dressmaking establishment for two years in order to inherit $75,000. "Milton Jackson" was portrayed by Paul Herr. Mr. Herr's performance as "Antionette" when dressed up in women's clothes by "Southwick" kept the audience in a constant uproar of laughter and mirth. Harry Smith as "Abner Sinclair," the man with a past he wishes to cover up, fitted into the role very well.

As a pleasing addition to the program, Stauffer Curry gave a piano solo. It was so well accepted that he had to give an encore. Quite a number of the audience were heard to say, "He surely is good!" Paul Herr gave two vocal solos which brought much applause. A Quartette, composed of Stauffer Curry, Paul Herr, Lester Bucher, and Harry Smith, gave the hit of the evening, a novelty number, "There Is a Baby in Our House." To round out the program the band gave several selections and performed admirably considering its small size and the fact that the leader was unable to be present.

The Candles presented a performance well up to the high standard existing on College Hill. There is no doubt that everyone was well satisfied. It was amateur work done in a professional style.

afternoon. An imposing array of leading figures in the newspaper world, headed by Miss Vivian Shirley, feature writer and columnist for the Public Ledger, and Herman Collins, "Girard," a popular columnist of the Inquirer, gave talks about their work.

Miss Shirley proved to be exceptionally refreshing with many informal stories concerning the eminent personages she had contacted during her career. Collins dealt particularly with the requirements of a columnist, stressing the necessity of good contacts with the right people.

Following Collins' talk, the meeting was adjourned but the activities for the day were by no means ended.

At a theatre party beginning at 8:30 that evening, the I. N. A. members were the guests of the Templayers at the presentation of the brilliant comedy by Romely Brent, "The Mad Hopes".

At 11:30, the almost traditional supper-club party, was started in full swing at the Parrot Club of the Broadwood Hotel. Well towards morning, materially aided by the music of an alleged Russian Orchestra together with an elaborate impromptu square dance, the spirits of fellowship had permeated the group and the inevitable good time was had by all.

Exhibiting remarkable comeback power, a goodly number of the delegates (including all of those from Elizabethtown—they can take it) were on hand to conduct a discussion meeting on Saturday morning.

Many problems of signal importance were discussed by the editors and business managers in separate meetings.

At the afternoon sessions, John R. Allen, editor of the Linotype News, gave an illustrated lecture on headline writing and typography. Following his talk, the officers were elected.

The grand finale, a formal banquet held in Mitten Hall, got off to a late start, permitting many delegates to witness some fencing matches between Temple and Baltimore University. The meal finally got under way, however, and immediately following it Hyman Levin introduced Professor Neal Bowman of Temple University, who acted as the toastmaster for the evening.

The first address of the evening was given by Dr. Charles E. Beury, President of Temple University, who gave an informative talk about the life and works of the late Dr. Russel Conwell, well known lecturer and founder of Temple University.

The I. N. A. delegates were then entertained with some very interesting sketches and explanations by the cartoonist Jerry Doyle.

Another address by Fred Fuller Shedd, editor of the Evening Bulletin, and a talk by McCready Huston free lance writer and editorialist greatly enhanced the educational value of the banquet. Following "Songs of the Colleges" by the Glee Club Quartet and Marimba Solos by Sam Read of the Temple News, Professor William S. Maulsby, of Pittsburgh, Executive Secretary of the I. N. A., announced the decisions of the judges in the semi-annual contests for news and editorial excellence.

A tie among five papers for one cup and among seven papers for the other was amicably settled by Professor Maulsby, who granted them to the papers who have not yet held them at any time.

The farewell address of Hyman Levin, retiring President of the I. N. A. and a rising vote of thanks to Mort Rovins and the Temple News for the splendid convention, concluded the program and ended the semi-annual conclave.

Elizabethtown was represented at the convention by Cobaugh, Lentz, Hershman, and Jones.

SOPHS PICK MARGARET SECHRIST THE EDITOR OF ETONIAN FOR 1935

Much Confidence Expressed In Her Ability To Handle Publication

ZUCK IS BUS. MANAGER

ALPHA HALL, Mar. 28.—At a meeting here today, the Sophomore Class of Elizabethtown College chose Margaret Sechrist as the editor for the Etonian for the coming year. The Etonian, the yearbook of the college, is published by the Junior Class so the present Sophomores, who will be Juniors next year, have decided on this early election in order to give the editor and business manager of the publication an opportunity to plan their coming work.

Nevin Zuck was elected business manager.

Although to date neither Miss Sechrist nor Zuck have announced any definite plans, their classmates have expressed much confidence in their ability to produce a first class publication.

Miss Sechrist, who takes a keen interest in Dramatics and Forensic Arts, hails from New Cumberland, Pennsylvania. She has had one year's experience on the staff of Our College Times. Working for the Liberal Arts degree, Miss Sechrist is majoring in English.

Zuck, a product of the John Harris High School of Harrisburg, has also had experience with the school newspaper and as a debater during the current year.

Sock and Buskin in Play Before Society

ELIZABETHTOWN, Mar. 25.—Six members of the Sock and Buskin presented a one-act religious play at a meeting of the Elizabeth Hughes Society here tonight.

The cast included: Alexander Glasmire, Ruth Groff, Margaret Sechrist, Harold Hollinger, Anna Jane Brubaker, and Leah Musser.

The Boy's Quartette of the College, completed the program by singing two numbers: "I've Been Listenin' All the Night Long" and "Love Comes Tricklin' Down".

Witmyer Gets First in Extempore Contest Kuhn Second; Fair Third

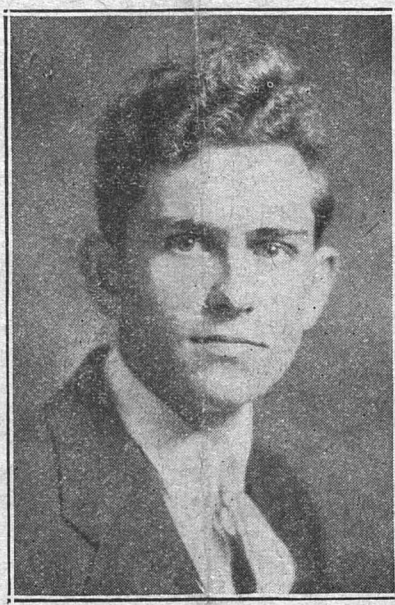

CHAPEL, April 6.—Charles Witmyer, a day-student from Harrisburg, topped six other entrants to take first place in the annual Elizabeth Meyer Extempore Speaking Contest held here tonight. Jacob Kuhn and Arthur Fair took second and third places respectively. Three prizes were awarded of $7.50, $5.00, and $2.50.

The contest which is held in honor of Miss Elizabeth Meyer, the first English teacher at Elizabethtown College, was sponsored by the Forensic Arts Club and was under the supervision of Ray Coughlin, who was designated to manage the event.

WELL BALANCED CAST ENHANCES BEAUTY OF THIS UNUSUAL DRAMA

The Classical, Romantic and Fantastic Worlds To Be Vividly Depicted

NO OUTSTANDING LEAD

As the eyes of local dramatic circles turn to the coming production of "Midsummer Night's Dream" by the Sock and Buskin players of Elizabethtown College on Friday, April 13, a well balanced cast stands in readiness to bring out the finer points of this most unusual of Shakespeare's earlier comedies.

The three worlds of court life, romance, and fantasy which in a large measure account for the universal appeal of the play will be vividly depicted by the college players. The fact that no one leading part completely dominates the action is peculiarly adapted to the cast which is

Bird Banding Brings Results

SCIENCE HALL, April 10.—A recent survey has revealed that the quietly working Bird Banding Station of Elizabethtown College, under the direction of the Sigma Zeta, has more than doubled its activities during the past year.

At the present this group is operating 30 bird traps, contrasted with only 8 last year. During the month of March, the bird scouts were able to report 33 landings, 42 repeats, and 8 returns. One feathered traveler was of a preceding year's banding. Uniquely, another return was a fox-sparrow, banded August 2, 1932. Several songsters returned which were banded as early as June

COMMERCIANTES PLAN SEVERAL FIELD TRIPS

RIDER HALL, March 27.—Following a brief business meeting here tonight the Comerciantes of Elizabethtown College planned to take several field trips to near-by industrial plants in order to study the business systems in vogue there.

Definite arrangements have been made to visit the offices of the Armstrong Linoleum plant in Lancaster, and the Army Air Depot at Middletown. No dates, however, are yet available.

The cost of the trips are to be defrayed by the club treasury into which regular dues are paid by the members.

As a part of a program following the business meeting, Arthur Fair, Secretary of the organization, gave a talk in which he outlined the effect of the N. R. A. upon the office workers. Miss Pistatelli, Don Royer, and Abe Hoffman also took part in the program.

LOW PRICES AND CLUB PLANS TO ENCOURAGE A LARGE ATTENDANCE

Special Rates To Be Granted High Schools Bringing 30 Students

TICKETS ARE ON SALE

ELIZABETHTOWN, April 9.—In order to boost the attendance at the play, an extensive advertising campaign and attractive price ranges have been planned by the business manager, Nevin Zuck. Some thirty high schools were contacted by letter and by personal appearances.

The regular admission price is forty cents but special prices of thirty cents for high school groups of less than twenty-five and of twenty-five cents for groups of more than twenty-five have been offered to the various high schools in this vicinity.

Practice for "Wilhelm Tell" Will Start Next Week Says Prof. Rose

FAIRVIEW APARTMENTS, Apr. 5.—In an interview, Professor Rose announced today that group practice of Schiller's drama, "Wilhelm Tell" to be presented by Der Deutsche Verein and the German Department on April 27, will begin the week of April 15.

At the present time the members of the cast are holding private interviews with Professor Rose for corrections in pronunciation and general interpretation of their lines. Quite a few of the members of the cast already have most of their lines well in hand.

In addition to the play, the evening's entertainment will be enhanced

DEAN WENGER SCORES STUDENTS WHO DROP CAN FROM 3RD FLOOR

Rowdiness Revived As Heavy Container Ruins Bannister of Staircase

BREAKAGE FEE IS HINTED

Dean of Men, Professor Ezra Wenger, took his usual stand against the miscreants who threw the heavy metal container down the well hole of the winding staircase in the boy's dormitory one day last week.

The waste can, which stands some three feet high, is square in shape having sharp corners at the bottom. These corners strike the smooth wooden bannister with great force (the can being thrown from the third floor), tearing out large chips of wood and otherwise defacing the staircase.

Throwing the can down the well is not a new trick; it had been practiced in previous years. Lately, however, it seemed that this property-destroying mania had been stamped out. Hence, it is with regret and ire that the Dean, together with many of the students, view the revival of this rowdiness. Unfortunately, because of the fact that this trick is usually pulled off at night, it is difficult to apprehend the culprits or exercise any control over them.

Breakage Fee Hinted

THE TWO ENEMIES OF STUDENT GOVERNMENT

It would indeed be an unusually disinterested person who did not question the efficiency of student government at Elizabethtown College.

The recent clashes between the assailants and defenders of its principles are merely indications of a greater spirit of inquiry that is abroad. The expediency of the system is under fire. A careful analysis of the situation would seem to point out that student government in theory is a fine thing, but (like many other fine things) the public is not yet in a position to accept or appreciate it; therefore it fails.

Most students come from high schools where reporting outrages and transgressions of fellows is just not being done. Even the most conscientious are often silenced because of friends involved in a particular issue. Many persons who live in propriety fail to accept their responsibility when it comes to reporting a friend who has disobeyed rules or customs.

In addition to those who are silent because of friends involved, there is that type of person who reports that transgressor without informing him of his mis-conduct. As a natural result, students come to regard each other as stool pigeons, each out to report the other. Such a person may act out of a sense of duty but when he fails openly to indicate his displeasure at the very act that he intends to report, he very rightly incurs the ill-will of his fellows.

Thus there grows up in our school two enemies of student government: the silent onlooker and the stool pigeon. One reports nothing; the other reports everything. As long as these two gentlemen (who at present seem to be getting along quite well) continue to survive, student government cannot hope efficiently to operate at this or any other school.

This year has been the first that any slate-colored Juncos have been caught. Thus far 8 bands have been placed on these drab warblers.

preting the play, even though the lines are spoken in German, according to Professor Rose, for a complete explanation will be given before each act. With the help of the costumes and the proper development of their parts by the cast, the action will be easily understood.

All students and friends of the college are urged to plan to support this activity.

Miss Martin Speaks to Chapel Audience

CHAPEL, March 29.—Miss Martha Martin, Head of the Bible Department, spoke here this morning on the "Real Meaning of Easter".

Her talk, centered around Job 20, dealt with the significance of resurrection morning as compared with our present day interpretation of it. She pointed out the fact that the events of the first Easter must become a vital part of our human consciousness and its spirit must permeate our philosophy of life if we are to enjoy the true beauties of Easter.

general breakage fee at the beginning of the year so that property damage could be repaired. The remainder of the money, if any, would be refunded at the end of the year. This plan would not only provide a means of restoring the property but go a long way toward changing the attitude of the students toward breaking it. Charging a fee of this sort is the custom in many schools but it has not yet been necessary to put it in vogue at Elizabethtown.

Project Aided With Federal Funds Starts to Beautify Campus

Taking advantage of some money secured from the Federal Emergency Relief Board, Elizabethtown College has launched an extensive program of campus beautification.

Trees of several evergreen varieties have been bought by the college and are being planted around the gymnasium and on other parts of the campus by students who are being paid for their labor with the Federal money.

In addition to this college project, further Federal aid was secured to dredge and widen the creek leading from the spring, just above the biology research laboratory, down to the lake.

The lake has been drained because of damaged breastworks last winter. The lake will be refilled as soon as repairs are completed. This, however, will probably not be until early fall.

A CAPPELLA CHOIR SINGS IN HARRISBURG

HARRISBURG, April 8.—Before an audience of 375 here tonight the A Cappella Choir of Elizabethtown College gave another of a series of programs that are conducted in churches of Lebanon, Lancaster, Dauphin, York, and Berks counties.

The program, which depicted in music the life of Christ, was exceptionally well received. As usual, the choir was led by its director, Professor E. G. Meyer.

A changed schedule from the one formerly printed in the "Times" will appear in the next issue.

CHAPEL, April 6.—Miss Virginia Grosh, chairman of the Lancaster County W. C. T. U. Workers gave a vitally different talk against alcohol here this morning.

Miss Grosh claims that the fight against alcohol is not yet over and that the W. C. T. U., and allied societies, are still at work.

Women Debaters Divide Laurels With Ursinus as Season Closes

CHAPEL, April 3.—The Affirmative Girl's Debating Team of Elizabethtown College closed its home season by bowing to the negative team from Ursinus. The debate was conducted on the Oregon Plan—the only one of its type at home this year. Despite the two to one decision of the judges, Misses Reese and Sechrist debated in a manner worthy of praise.

The Affirmative team stressed the necessity, practicability, and soundness of the N. R. A. The point of fiercest contention seemed to be the practicability aspect of the code. On the other hand, the Negative argued that the N. R. A. is unconstitutional, economically unsound, and has failed to work.

During the cross-examination, the teams appeared reasonably well matched but the laurels were awarded to the visiting team.

The judges were Professor E. W. Nitrauer, Principal of the Mt. Joy High School and Mr. Clyde Gerberich, Pres. of the Gerberich-Payne Shoe Company of Mt. Joy. The other vote was cast by the audience as a whole and was recorded by the timekeeper.

WIN AT COLLEGEVILLE

COLLEGEVILLE, Pa., April 3.—The Negative Coed debating team of Elizabethtown College downed the Affirmative team of Ursinus here tonight by a 2-0 decision. The debate was presented on the Oregon Plan but an audience decision was not taken because of the lack of an audience.

The Elizabethtown girls very strongly stressed the fact that the N. R. A. had not accomplished anything thus far, and that it was both unsound and impractical.

The Affirmative team failed to meet their opponents' arguments and spent their time presenting the essential features and principles of the code.

While the Negative team was stronger in both constructive speeches and rebuttals, the two schools proved to be equal at cross-examination.

Sports Editor Discusses Need for New Recreation Program

It seems quite evident as the first game on our baseball schedule is rapidly drawing nigh that it will become necessary to cut the squad, which will consist approximately of 13 to 15 uniformed players, to its minimum. Considering this fact along with the fact that many students in college who were skeptical about their ability to the extent that they did not turn out for practice necessitates the question: What shall we do for recreation during the baseball season?

I am sure that it is the purpose of the college not only to educate mentally but physically as well and we are sorry to say that in no time during the past, that is to say, since the college has adopted inter-collegiate athletics and excluding this year, have the leaders taken the initiative in propagating a uniform system of this sort. I am not writing this article to show up the lackings of the past, concerning the system of recreation, but merely in hope that I may stir up some interest in organizing teams for spring sports in which the remaining aspirants and students of the school may participate. As a mere suggestion I may point out such possibilities as intraschool golf teams, tennis teams, soft ball and hard ball teams, and last but not least intra-class teams.

It is possible that the athletic board may say: "Well, we have tennis, courts, a golf course, and a ball diamond; can't the students use them when they wish?" All this is true, but let me call your attention to the fact that an organized system of intra-school sports not only fosters clean, close, competition but gives the boys and girls something to strive for; I may say "the invisible crown."

I am sure that during the recent basketball season in which were organized intra-class teams, the fine sportsmanship manifested and the close competition displayed by the various teams will confirm my policy for the carrying over of this idea into spring sports.

We have taken the initiative in suggesting this matter, the rest depends upon careful consideration and willingness to cooperate.

Frosh Matmen Active in Gym

ELIZABETHTOWN, April 5.—The young Londoses and Sonnenbergs of the Freshman wrestling squad demonstrated their assortment of holds and grips today during the Gymnasium period.

The personnel of the club consists of "Art" Hollinger, "Pef" Engle, Harold Fornwalt, Dale Danner, "Russ" Hackman, "Bob" Gutschall and Leo Kob.

It is generally conceded that "Art" Hollinger is the team champion. He gained this recognition thru the effectiveness of his new hold "the flying mule", which enables him to turn aside all competition for the crown.

Wrestling is a new sport on College Hill and if properly encouraged should produce some real mat thrillers.

Varsity Nine Is Unselected

Unusually keen competition for positions leaves the varsity lineup still undecided with the Shippensburg opener just one week away.

Krall, Glasmire, and Lander are having a great time behind the plate battling for a berth. Thome and Eppley are leading Artman but a slight margin in the pitching work.

Miller looks all right for first with the other three positions in the infield wide open.

Danner, Weaver, Reber, Wenger, Gerber, Estricher and Brubaker are waging a hot battle for the three berths open.

The boys practice every night.

Warm Weather Reveals Lack of Outdoor Sports Equipment

Spring is here at last, but where are the tennis courts, the calm blue lake, and the golf course? From all appearances there have been some evidences of inefficiency and lack of improvement. The Helen Wills' and Henrie Cochetts are vainly wishing for the roller to level the muddy ground on the tennis courts and the golf enthusiasts are awaiting new and better tees and poles to guide their shots. And where is the water in the lake? The Administration seems to have neglected the physical demands of the students who do not play baseball. The only diversion which is to be found at present is hiking; but, who wants to hike all the time?

Nevertheless, a new force on the Campus, the C. W. A., is helping out. Before long the tees will be repaired and the greens will be rolled, and soon the tennis courts will be ready for use. But, the lake, which has been of so much pleasure to some of us, will not be refilled until fall. The Administration has advanced no definite reason for this decision.

ELWOOD LENTZ

Cobaugh To Get Post as Feature Writer And Columnist In New Set-up; Other Changes In Staff Are Announced

RIDER HALL, April 3.—After considerable deliberation at a meeting here today, the Board of Control of Our College Times, news publication of Elizabethtown College, named Elwood Lentz to succeed Ray Cobaugh as editor for the ensuing year. Lentz will take full charge of the paper for the next issue.

Harry Smith will take Franklin Cassel's place as business manager and Jacob Brubaker, Cyrus Bucher, and Wilber Weaver will serve as his assistants.

On the editorial staff Arthur Fair was designated associate editor and Jacob Hershman, the present sports editor, was renamed for the post.

The retiring editor, Ray Cobaugh, who will not complete his college course until next February was offered the post of feature writer and columnist by the incumbent editor, Elwood Lentz. Although he will in reality take over these duties Cobaugh will officially hold the position as a reporter on the staff.

No action has yet been taken concerning the bulk of the reporters for the new staff but it is understood that capable material from the old staff will be invited to join in the new set-up.

Many of these finer points will be taken up at the next meeting of the board which is to be held soon.

German Play To Be Staged Friday Night

Der Deutsche Verein
And German Dep't Present Drama

Lantern Slides And Music Depict German Culture

The German Department of the college, with the cooperation of the German Club plans to stage part of Schiller's drama, Wilhelm Tell, on the evening of the 27th. The drama depicts in masterly fashion the struggle of the Swiss peasants in their flight for freedom from Hapsburg oppression. The cast, which has already been chosen, is holding daily practices.

Professor L. D. Rose, who has attended German grand opera in Phila. and New York, is coaching the production. Professor Rose also saw Schiller's first drama, "The Robbers," presented in the National Theater in Munich, on his European tour several years ago.

Lantern slides, descriptive of Swiss scenery, especially of the Tell country around Lake Luzerne will be shown. Views of the Atlantic, the Shakespeare country, London, the Bavarian Alps, the Tyrolean Alps and Oberammergau will also be shown. Some of the slides are being secured from the Swiss Federal Railroads. The others are being made specially for this production from pictures and post cards secured by Professor Rose on his European travels.

While the excerpts from the drama will be given in German, it is strongly emphasized that the parts presented will be explained to the audience before presentation.

Music by German masters will also be a strong feature. The College Orchestra will render the William Tell overture and the Pilgrim's Chorus from Tannhauser. A Stauffer Curry and Miss Elizabeth M.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Junior Class anticipates entertaining the Seniors at a banquet at the Hotel Harrisburger in Harrisburg, on the evening of May 16.

It is expected that about forty will attend the banquet, including Juniors, Seniors, class faculty advisors, and President and Mrs. Schlosser.

The Junior-Senior entertainment is one of the traditions the college has upheld for a number of years.

English Classes Suggest Changes

In a recent study of journalism the English Composition classes, under the direction of Miss Sheaffer, suggested desirable factors in the College Times of next year. Among the suggestions stated were: proper proportions, forward looking attitude, concise write-ups, poetry, campus improvements, and college humor.

The discussion in the morning class was led by Mr. Charles Witmyer; Rev. Robert Thomas acted as chairman in the afternoon recitation. In the afternoon class the remarks were addressed directly to the new editor. Mr. Lentz had an opportunity to defend his position and to add to the contribution given by other members of the class. The main object of conducting these open forum discussions was to discover what the students expect of Our College Times and its editor. Many of the pupils were in favor of open forum articles, editorials, book reviews, and poetry. Sentiment for more religious material was expressed. Mr. Lentz, our new editor, stated that some of these ideas were in coordination with his plans.

During the classes, pleas were made for a better college newspaper. The students expressing a desire for the best paper our college could publish. Other ideas were presented which did not attract so much attention. Actual comic episodes which occurred on the hill were preferred to time-tried humor. Articles being limited to those which interested students and alumni were desired. Advertisements were advised as a means of financial support.

Changed Absence System Approved By Faculty; High Records Favored

Plan 2nd Annual Competitive Exam

The 2nd annual competitive examination will be given to all high school graduates desiring to try for one of the five scholarships on May 12 in the Gymnasium at 9 o'clock A. M. The examination will be administered by the Committee on Admission and Credits and will last from 9 o'clock in the morning until noon, after which lunch will be served to all the contestants in the college dining room. In the afternoon a baseball game will take place to which all the contestants are invited to attend.

In a letter to the entrants in the examination, Dean Baugher advised them that physical fitness will be the best preparation to make for the examination. Beyond this they will not need to bring more than two or three pencils.

Student Ass'n's Vote On New Plan Of Gov.

COLLEGE April 23.—At special meetings of the Student Associations today, a proposition to unify the Men's and Women's Student Associations into one body was discussed and voted upon. The girls accepted the proposition without any reservations whatsoever. The boys passed upon it only after excepting the clause indicating that the sex of the president of the new, joint Student Association would alternate from year to year.

Under the present system, the Student Associations of the college are individually organized and controlled. Both the men's and women's associations have a president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. This duplication has led to much inefficiency in the past when the two organizations had to work together to put on socials and the like.

The students have decided to make one body of the two present associations, with one president; two vice presidents, one a man, the other a woman; one secretary, possibly a woman; and one treasurer, possibly a man. The women agreed as to the alternate system of men and woman in the presidency. Since the men did not, this point is yet to be decided definitely.

During the course of the discussion, it was announced that no change in the present student council system has yet been approved by the administration.

SPEAKER CHOSEN

It has been announced that Doctor Minnich, Dean of the University of Pennsylvania, will deliver the commencement address at the graduation exercises, June 4.

Students Having High Scholastic Records Get Larger Number of Cuts

Students Will Be Allowed As Many Cuts
In A Course As There Are Semester Hours In The Course

ALPHA HALL, April 17.—Dean Baugher stated today that the following system of absences has been passed and approved by the administration and will be put into effect in the next term.

The Absence System

The absence system is administered by the Faculty Committee on Admission and Credits.

Each student shall be allowed as many absences from class in each course per semester as there are hours in that course, i.e. three absences for a three hour per week course, two absences for a two hour per week course. This gratuity does not exempt the student from the work missed.

A student whose record indicates an average of "A" will be allowed three times as many absences as the number of hours per week; a student of grade "B" will be allowed two times as many absences. The grade upon which allowance is based is the average grade in the preceding semester.

These absences without penalty are meant for emergencies. The penalty for each excess absence is the reduction of five points in the semester grade in the course concerned.

Absences incurred on account of exigencies such as prolonged sickness of the student, the death of a relative, duty away from college as an official representative of the institution, substitute teaching, or approved field trips, are counted at one-half the above rate.

Absences immediately preceding and immediately following cataloged vacation will be counted double.

A gratuity of ten absences from chapel is allowed each student in a semester. This gratuity is granted the student to cover absences for any reason whatsoever.

Absences in excess of this gratuity will be taken under advisement by the Committee on Credits and Admission.

Spring

After a dull and somewhat wearisome winter, life has taken on a new aspect around E-town College. Spring, having been unshowered in, causes one to think that probably College Hill has turned into a recreation center; but to our surprise we find that the actual participants are none other than those students, who, much to the chagrin of the ground hog, have come out of their holes.

Amid the echoes and reechoes of "play ball," "fore," and "fault," one must surely draw the conclusion that spring is the fairest and most "looked forth to" season in a college student's life.

District Conf. To Meet Here

The Sixty-eighth District Meeting of the Brethren churches of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania will be held here April 25 and 26.

The main business of the Wednesday session of the conference will be: receiving of credentials, receiving of district assessment, election of officers, recognition of new churches, confirmation of Committee on Resolutions and nomination of members on Boards and Committees.

On Wednesday evening the following program will be rendered: 6:45 P. M., a program on "Our Field" conducted by the District Mission Board, and at 7:30 P. M., a sermon on "Missions" by M. J. Weaver.

Trustees Honor John M. Gible

ALPHA HALL, April 17.—The Board of Trustees of Elizabethtown College convened in its regular spring meeting here today. All members were present but one and the routine session executed.

As the unique feature of the meeting, the Board assented to place on its minutes a statement of appreciation for John M. Gible's twenty-one years of service as a Trustee. In this statement, some of his many services were cited. He was the investigator and solicitor of building the garages on our campus. He planned the roads, walls, and repairs of the school. His great contribution, however, was in the erection of the

Chorus To Present Light Opera Here On May 11

Rapid progress is being made in the preparation of the colorful light opera, "Martha," to be presented May 11. It is the largest production attempted as yet by the music department. Typical rural scenes predominate.

An English court scene is the setting for the first act. Lady Harriet is a very melancholy girl. Tired of court life, she plans to flee with her maid in waiting, Nancy. Sir Tristan, an old noble, is in love with Lady Harriet and follows them.

All three enter the market in the second act and are hired by Plunket and Lionel. Sir Tristan cannot sanction the action and leaves. The third act is a typical rural home. The industrious Plunket expects the girls to begin their duties at once. They refuse. As the clock strikes twelve the farmers cease their heated discussions and go to bed. Sir Triston immediately makes his appearance and the three run from the cottage.

The fourth act opens in a tavern yard with a farmers chorus discussing the hunt of the day. The host leads the women of the court by the tavern. Plunket sees Nancy, alias Betsy Ann. He demands that she go home where she belongs. She feigns innocence and the courtiers

Editorial

With this issue of the Times a new staff has taken over the reins. We find that it is easier to scold about other people's children than to raise our own.

Without a doubt, Our College Times, under the skillful direction of Ray Cobaugh, has come into its own as a student publication. The question is whether it will grow as such or remain dormant and gradually waste away. In order that it might grow as an exponent of student opinion we believe that certain policies of the Times should be clearly understood. A criticism, to be unbiased, must present both sides of the question. Hence, from time to time, we will publish editorials solicited not only from our staff but also from persons interested in the question under discussion. We will also encourage Open Forum Letters, but will reserve the right to publish only those which in our opinion, are fair criticisms and not merely personal attacks. Open Forum letters are an indication of interest and thought. Furthermore, we believe that each student and alumnus should feel free to present his opinion. To stimulate such expression we will conduct a Question Box in each issue. Three or more persons will be asked to give their views, in a limited number of words, concerning some question chosen by the staff.

One of the biggest curses of Our College Times has been the necessity to publish stale news and second-hand information. Two sides of a question can never be fairly presented unless we know both sides. Feature stories can never be written unless we are given an opportunity to get interesting, first-hand information. To do this, a College Times representative should be allowed to sit in every Athletic Council, Student Council, and any other board meetings, including the meeting of the Board of Trustees. The public press is accorded a seat in the most intimate conferences, why should not the student publication be allowed a seat in such conferences? If the school press is not considered to be worthy of such a privilege, why have a school press?

A MODERN TREND: FORMAL WORSHIP

More form in worship is the modern trend, according to a recent discussion in a history class. Quibbles about rituals and orders, however, are not only a waste of time, but also a substitute for real, soulful worship. Jesus of Nazareth expressly commanded that we do these things. Man, finding the true Christian life too difficult to live, substitutes a strict observance of the Sacraments. In a sense, the New Deal in politics stresses form and strict observance and as someone has said, "Puts teeth into the Golden Rule." If each man would busy himself in living out the Golden Rule we would have little time for excommunications, punishments for infractions of rules, and petty quibbles.

REV. SAMUEL HERTZLER ADDRESSES OUR CHAPEL

CHAPEL, April 17 — Reverend Samuel Hertzler, President of the Board of Trustees, spoke here this morning on the privileges and opportunities of youth. Basing his remarks on Ecclesiastes 13, he pointed out the fact that college students ought face life with a spirit of gladness and ought learn to make the most of whatever comes their way. His neat classification of personality in the statement, "There are two kinds of people—those who are grouches and those who are not," was humorous yet contained a bit of vital truth.

His insight into the problems of young people along with his delightful wit and homely philosophy made him a welcome visitor to the campus.

VOLUNTEERS RENDER 2 PROGRAMS AT PALMYRA

PALMYRA, April 15.—The Student Volunteers were represented here today both in the morning and evening services, which they conducted in a most commendable manner. The group consisted of Misses Weaver, Brumbaugh, and Curry, and Messrs. Cassel, Curry, Herr, and Bucher.

The subject developed in the morning was the question of foreign and home missions, while "Sharing" was the center of interest in the evening. The talks, readings, and musical selections were characterized by the spiritual sincerity which has been prominent in the Volunteer programs throughout the year.

REV. ROBERT F. THOMAS ADDRESSES MINISTERIUM

ALPHA HALL, April 9—Lester Bucher was congratulated upon his election to the ministry at a meeting of the ministerium held today.

Robert F. Thomas gave an interesting talk on the three factors in the work of the ministry. As Mr. Thomas brought them out, the three factors in the work of the ministry are the man, the method, and the message. The man should put his whole heart and soul into his work. The method should be calculated to meet the needs of the audience to which he speaks. The message should be based upon his own experiences with God and not upon other people's.

TRUSTEES HONOR JOHN M. GIBBLE

Gibble Memorial Science Hall. This building did more than anything else in allowing the college to confer baccalaureate degrees in arts and sciences. In short, Mr. Gibble was extremely interested in education and will long be remembered on this campus for his tireless, unflinching efforts.

The Board also approved two additional persons as candidates for graduation. These candidates, who will receive the Bachelor of Science Degree, are Marian Brown and Nell M. Young.

President Schlosser gave his report concerning the visitation of seventy-five high schools during February and March.

The shrubbery, recently planted on the campus, was approved and accepted.

Many financial problems were discussed and the present Administration Committee was re-appointed for the year 1934-35.

From Here and There

At Temple University recently, a petition was circulated among the students to lengthen the Easter recess. This request was expressed in the first part of the petition, while near the end there was a sentence in which each student that signed promised to decapitate himself with joy. Over five hundred students signed the petition. A number read through the whole petition without detecting the phrase, others read only the first part. It all went to prove how useless and foolish it is to pass petitions among students.

Few of our students know that the P. W. is a hiking society. The society is governed by a constitution and dues are paid each year. P. W., however, does not stand for some type of woman; the initials are the first letters of two very common, small words.

The staff of Our College Times for the coming year has not yet been definitely chosen. A tryout for new members was held on April 17, and several interested persons took the test. After these aspirants have been approved by the Board of Control a staff meeting will be held when the organization for the year will be completed.

The Etonian is expected to be on the campus within four weeks.

Juniata—Ten scholarships have been established for the four years beginning September, 1934. Five, valued at $800 each, are available for boarding students; five, valued at $400 each, are available for day students. The basis of award will be a competitive examination at the college on May 5.—Public Education Bulletin.

The school of Education at the University of Pittsburgh is now organized on a two-year upper division basis. During the first two years students are enrolled in pre-education curricula in the College of Liberal Arts. They are admitted at the beginning of the junior year to the School of Education provided they meet the standards established. These include: superior intelligence rating; average or better scholarship in all subjects; superior scholarship in the subject of major interest; satisfactory health rating; superior ability in the use of oral and written English; and satisfactory results of a personal interview with the faculty committee on admissions.

The Introduction to Teaching course which is given in the junior year now includes a two-hour observation period once each week during a semester. This will give the students first hand contacts with the teaching situation and will better prepare them for the practice teaching work which comes in the senior year. Beginning September, 1934, practice teaching will be increased from six to eight semester hours.—Public Education Bulletin.

The Question Box

Readers are asked to send in questions of interest to the students and alumni of the college. The question for this week is: Do you think it would be desirable to exempt all students with an average of 85 per cent. or over from the final examinations at Elizabethtown College? Why?

Mary Brumbaugh: In the case of Elizabethtown College it is not advisable for students having an average of 85 per cent. or over to be exempted from final examinations. The enrollment at Elizabethtown is too small. Petty jealousies are likely to arise among students. Favoritism in exemption is bound to be shown by professors in a small college. Therefore, until everyone is exempt from examinations, all should be compelled to take them.

Alton Carl: Students having an average of 85 per cent. or over should be exempted from all final examinations for the simple reason that it is a waste of time and energy on the part of the students. Rather than waste it, students here on College Hill could use this time and energy for some other purposes that are of greater importance to them.

Dean Baugher: The practice of exempting supposedly superior students from final examinations fails to take account of one of the fundamental principles of the examination, which is, to induce the student to review and organize his knowledge. Again, the practice of exemption encourages mediocrity among the exceptional students. Such a practice is like a football game without goal posts.

Alumni Notes

'27—Arthur W. Eshelman was recently elected principal of the Paradise township high school at Leaman Place, Pa. He had been principal of the Fulton township high school since graduation.

'30—Anna Mae Bishop has been assigned the Pleasant View school in Mt. Joy township, near Elizabethtown.

'24—Daniel I. Harshman, after teaching a decade in the high school at Hagerstown, Md., has transferred to Waynesboro, Pa., where he has been chosen to teach the commercial studies in the high school.

'32—David S. Garber, after spending the year in graduate study at the University of Southern California, has returned to his home in Elizabethtown. The year following graduation he spent at Columbia. At present Mr. Garber is pursuing research work for his thesis.

'27—Samuel S. Wenger has resigned to enter the law school of the University of Pennsylvania. During his college days, Mr. Wenger was one of E-town's platform warriors and scored many a telling point on the forensic platform.

'28—George W. Feaser, after guiding the high school activities at Middletown, Pa., was promoted to the superintendency of the district at a recent Board meeting.

'23—Dr. J. I. Baugher has been reelected for his second four-year term as superintendent of the schools at Hershey, Pa.

Shippensburg Laces E-town

ELIZABETHTOWN, April 18.—The Elizabethtown Varsity baseball team was trounced 12-0 by a fast-clicking, and hard hitting Shippensburg State Teachers' College team, in a loosely played game here this evening. The game was featured by a long home run off the bat of Gaekler, a leading Shippensburg slugger.

The E-town team as a whole seemed to show a lack of confidence which was proven by the numerous and costly errors chalked against them.

Thome pitched fine ball in spots but errors on the part of the other members of the team seemed detrimental to the confidence which he showed in the early innings of the game. This first game of the season has shown, however, that in the persons of Miller, Royer and Trout we have prospects which will possibly develop with experience. The outstanding fielder of the day was Cyrus Bucher, shortstop, who made several sensational catches. The Shippensburg aggregation is composed of a full-fledged veteran outfit, and little else could be expected as to the outcome of the game.

The fighting spirit displayed by the team, despite the great odds, was commendable. The team without a doubt will become more organized as the yearlings gain confidence in their ability.

Poole, Shippensburg's pitching ace, pitched a superb game, holding the E-town boys to two hits.

GERMAN PLAY TO BE STAGED FRIDAY EVE

King will render piano solos during the intermissions.

Jacob Hershman and Paul Gerber, two masters in their fields, are painting the scenery for the production; Hershman is also stage manager for the evening.

Paul S. Herr, possessor of a fine tenor voice, will play the part of Walter Tell; at the opening of the second scene he will sing Schiller's famous song about the archer.

The evening promises to mark a forward step in the presentation of German culture on the campus and should afford a splendid opportunity for a German homecoming, since invitations to attend the evening's entertainment have been mailed to all former students who took German at E-town.

Reservations at 25 cents each may be made by communicating with Guy W. Hoffmaster, Business Manager of the production.

Tennis Team Sees Action

The tennis team, which for some years has been considered as a back number at E-town College by the students, is faithfully practicing and striving to erase that blot with which they were so unfairly branded. The team has moved from the stuffy, dark courts of the gymnasium to the outside courts where the players have taken on new life and more interest concerning the outlook for the season.

The outside atmosphere has shown many new possibilities among which are Miller, Hollinger, and Hoffman. Without a doubt one or several of these freshman boys will make the squad, dethroning one or several of last year's service men. The team, under the able tutelage of Professor Meyer and Manager Gerber, have shown much more early season improvement than had been shown in former years.

The first match of the season was played Monday, April 23, at 4 P. M., with Lebanon Valley College, on the latter's courts.

RUTH ESHLEMAN CROQUET CHAMP

ELIZABETHTOWN, April 20 — Ruth Eshleman, local tennis star, to-day won the Hill croquet championship by virtue of her victory in the first tournament of the current season.

Accurate and well timed shots enabled "Esh" to top the field of contestants on the local greens this afternoon. However, the match was not one-sided. The winner was forced to the limit due to the excellent field generalship displayed by Ruth Diffenbaugh, who finished in second place.

The remaining players as they finished were Ruth Keener, Margaret Lease, Ruth Moyer and Paul Gerber.

Due to the interest manifested in this healthful recreation efforts are being put forth to schedule several inter-mural matches which, if realized, should prove interesting.

The O. H. S. Society is a reading society. Mrs. Wenger, their adviser, has selected a list of one hundred books which the girls should read. They also have a constitution and pay dues.

A CHALLENGE

By virtue of his many victories over fellow students it has generally been conceded that Vernon Eppey wears the crown of "Checker champion of E-town College." Mr. Eppey has announced that at any time and at any place he will accept any challenges of those who doubt his right to be named such. Any person, if he is successful in defeating Eppey must, however, play a return match within three days after he has acquired the crown.

Sportlights

Two weeks have passed and still the boys are keeping up their record-breaking averages in bat breaking—labels up boys.

Do you know that Cough, the former editor of the school paper, plays the second base position on our ball club—and he's pretty tricky?

In a recent practice game played between the college and the town All Stars, the college was successful, nosing out the All Stars by one run.

Some comment must be made on the superb showing of Miller, our Freshman first sacker. He is playing fine ball and has all the possibilities of developing into a star first baseman.

It has been noted that in the Intelligencer Journal of Lancaster, the Shippensburg State Teachers baseball club was credited with 13 hits, while our boys apparently had none. Arthur Thome, E-town pitcher was given only one strike out. Rather misleading, eh!

Ed Lander, right fielder for our club, accomplished the paradox of catching what should have been hits and dropping what should have been outs.

Juniata Nine Downs Locals

HUNTINGDON, April 21.—The Juniata Indians defeated the Elizabethtown College Baseball Club, 11-3, in a loosely played game here today. Costly errors on either side marred the game. Hoover, Indian Freshman pitcher, seemed tighter in the pinches than Thome, the Elizabethtown hurler. Espenshade, left fielder for Elizabethtown, made a sensational catch of what would have been a three-bagger for Juniata.

The Elizabethtown boys showed some improvement over their first game. Outside of a few wild throws the infield showed up fairly well. The outfield is still weak in right, while there is a very evident lack of generalship on the whole team. Hitting is improving with Cough, second baseman, taking the lead. The boys will meet the Kutztown Teachers this Thursday night.

for the year 1933-34 is only five per cent below that of last year, according to the annual survey by Dr. Raymond Walters for School and Society. As of November 1, 1933, there were 607,241 full-time students enrolled in 104 universities, 338 colleges, and 104 technical institutions, representing all but a very few of the approved institutions.

The education enrollment in sixty-five public and private institutions is 28,970 this year compared to 32,884 in 1932, a decrease of 3914.

It is to be noted that Pennsylvania and New York have nine of the twenty-five largest universities in the United States. Four of these are in Pennsylvania where the University of Pennsylvania ranks tenth in size; University of Pittsburgh, fourteenth; Temple University, twentieth; and Penn State, twenty-fifth.—Public Education Bulletin.

Audience of 650 Stirred by "Midsummer Night's Dream"

Dorothy Dulebohn Superb as Puck. Bottom Group Lead by Kurtz and Zug, Turns In Excellent Performance

Special to the Times

GYM, April 13.—More than fulfilling the claims of advance advertisements, the Sock and Buskin of Elizabethtown College thrilled a capacity audience of more than 650 persons here tonight with a brilliant reproduction of Shakespeare's remarkable comedy, A Midsummer Night's Dream.

The beauty and verse of the lyrics which the Danish critic Brandes, claims to be the best ever penned by the Bard of Avon, were not lost under a blanket of heavy and inadequate amateurish efforts—a fate frequently suffered by them in college circles.

The cast throughout revealed a remarkable versatility and strength; yet even in such a setting, the highly commendable work of Miss Dorothy Dulebohn as Puck stood well in the foreground. Her grace and dexterity made us all watch her not fully comprehending how difficult it is to do justice to such a part. More remarkable yet was the fact that the great physical demands made of her did not detract from the clear articulation of her lines.

A close second to Miss Dulebohn came from a character entirely divorced from her in type. Nick Bottom, the weaver, as portrayed by Earl Kurtz brought home, more than a thousand lectures could have, the idea that Shakespeare really understood the grossness of his contemporary tradesmen and the unimaginative people who make life heavy and coarse.

It would be difficult to say which of the remaining characters deserves the most praise. But surely among the highlights of the play could be listed the fine work of Anna Reese, as Oberon; Helen Ott, as Titania; Martha Groff, as Helena; Paul Gerber, as Lysander, and Harriet Curry, as Hermia. It might be added that Miss Curry played a difficult role that frequently goes unappreciated.

Further than this the remainder of the bottom group, led by Miss Esther Zug, who made a nearly perfect Peter Quince, played their parts in a manner that nearly con-vulsed many of the spectators with laughter.

The fairy group was also excellent, showing evidence of a real understanding of the world they were portraying.

A word or two about the stage effects and scenery would also be in order. The simplicity of Theseus' palace was striking and the beauty of the forest so convincing yet so unobtrusive that even the most bucolic of the audience were lifted in the refreshing world of fairyland where delightful creatures gambol on the banks "where the wild thyme grows."

Beethoven's music, as played by A. Stauffer Curry and Mrs. E. G. Meyer, enhanced the effectiveness of an already delightful play.

Contrary to what one might be lead to suspect, the audience, which was for the most part composed of the rank and file of local society, remained interested throughout the three hours entertainment again proving (just as if proof were necessary) that Shakespeare still reigns supreme.

try to send the farmers to jail. Lionel produces a ring which identifies him as the Earl of Derby. He turns mad when he discovers that Martha is lost to him. The fifth act is a reproduction of the market scene. Martha sings "The Last Rose of Summer" and Lionel returns to sanity.

A six-part chorus and four solos combine into a grand ten-part finale.

I would like to give this column a real send off by rendering a real service to my fellows. For awhile it appeared that this would be an impossibility but the day after the play, when the chairs were being cleared from the gym, I chanced upon a lost note which had evidently been written by a lady to her companion. Now I would be very glad to return this note to its author if she will write me in care of this paper. To further aid the distressed damsel, I print the note for identification.

"I thought you were sitting in back of me so I pinched the lady on the leg, thinking it was you, was I embarrassed?"

The Athletic Council told us in the last paper that the golf course would be ready for action by April 19. Considering the condition of the fifth green, many golfers inquire: April 19 of what year?

A prominent local business man, in discussing the reason for the failure on the part of some students to understand a subject, says this: I don't believe that Elizabethtown students talk enough about their class discussions on the outside of class. Topics raised in class of real live interest ought to be the center of many a so-called bull session.

The idea is apparently not without foundation when we consider the fact that frequently an excuse of ignorance advanced by students is: "I don't know; I had that subject last year!"

It is with pleasure that I inform the public that C. Arthur S. (Cash) Hollinger has stamina in more places than on a wrestling mat. He is absolutely the only man in Elizabethtown who can sit two feet from the radio and have it going full blast with all the volume on.

The draining of Lake Placida will probably materially cut down the rather extensive bull-frog industry that once flourished at Elizabethtown under the guidance of Big Bill Shipley '32. Bill and the boys enjoyed many portions of the delicate meat coming from these perennial croakers. A putter and a flashlight were his tools.

Light Opera Will Delight Music Lovers

"Martha" Will Prove To Be One Of The Biggest Attractions Staged This Year.

Under the skillful direction of Professor and Mrs. Ephraim G. Meyer and Miss Rebekah Shaeffer, the opera, "Martha" will probably turn out to be the biggest attraction to be offered this year. All indications point toward a packed house.

Considering a preview of the rehearsals, the audience will not be disappointed. The music is unusually wistful; the scenes portray both noble and common life. The hunting scenes in Act Four will delight everyone; while the Richmond Fair scene is astonishingly rowdy. The more serious scenes are every bit as captivating and are set to the finest music in the opera.

The six soloists including the Misses Dulebohn and Barnes and Messrs. Metzler, Glassmire, Royer, and Hollinger, are nearly all experienced actors and portray their characters well. Several of the quartets and duets sung by these members are well worth any music lover's time.

Every member of the cast will be in costume. There will be a variety of scenes from a hunting scene and one of Richmond Market to a high English Court scene. Color, romance, fine music and melodrama will make the opera "Martha" the largest production yet played by the Elizabethtown College music department.

Etown Delegates Attend College Constit. Conf.

HARRISBURG, April 29.—The Inter-Collegiate Constitutional Convention adjourned at noon today. The gathering was prompted by the University of Pittsburgh and 33 other colleges of Pennsylvania. The object of this convention was: "To stimulate college students toward thought and consideration of government affairs." The assembly planned to make this an annual affair.

The assembly, consisting of 200 students from 34 colleges, considered problems concerning government and education. The committee sessions in the Penn Harris Hotel, on Friday, prepared the material for presentation to the forum in the Education Building on Saturday and Sunday. Among the topics discussed were: Executives, Legislature, The Judiciary, Taxation, Finance, Public Welfare, and Education.

The convention was attended by Mrs. Wenger and eight members of the American government class. Charles Witmyer, Vernon Epply, and Alton Carl acted as official delegates of Elizabethtown College.

Valedictorian

Kenneth Senior has been elected by the faculty to head the Class of 1934.

Dr. Kiracofe Acts As Toastmaster At Annual Candle Banquet Held At Lititz.

LITITZ, May 4.—The Candles Club of Elizabethtown College held its annual banquet here at the General Sutler Hotel tonight. Twenty Candles and their lady-friends attended. Faculty advisor, Dr. Kiracofe, lead the activities as toastmaster.

The evening was one of much enjoyment. After the meal, a program of entertainment and speeches was presented. Alva Harsh and Eby Espenshade presented a hypnotist act and Cyrus Krall read in negro dialect. French, German and Negro Speakers Tell Of Trends in Current History.

During the past year the Y. W. C. A. sponsored a unit group of four programs which stressed trends in current history and tended to broaden the international understanding of the individual members of the "Y".

The introductory program, based on "The Transition Period—Today" was ably developed by Miss Ruth Gise. She gave a synoptic review of world affairs and emphasized especially three points: first, the movement away from democracy to more centrally controlled forms of government; second, the rapid increase of nationalism on the part of the countries of the world with the resulting hostility which is everywhere evident in Europe today; third, the machine age which has taken from us the problem of a shortage of goods but has given us the new problem of overproduction which we seem incapable of solving. She recommended a return to Christian standards of living as the only means of preventing international chaos.

"Trends in Current History in Germany" was presented by Louis Thieme, a German engineer. He told us the surprising fact that the German people love Hitler and their support of his ideals is almost a religion. However, according to Mr. Thieme, the German people do not want war but are interested only in building up a new German nation and in making the home the basic unit of their new social order. He also outlined their present plan of (Continued on Page Three)

Kenneth Senior, Anna Reese, And Olive Jameson Head Class

Kenneth Senior, Anna Reese and Olive Jameson have been chosen by the faculty as the honor students of the 1934 graduating class of Elizabethtown College. Senior will be graduated Magna Cum Laude, the highest honor conferred by the institution, while Misses Reese and Jameson will be graduated Cum Laude.

A product of the Steelton High School, Senior entered Elizabethtown in 1929. His career at college, in addition to his excellent scholastic record, was replete with extra curricular activities. He has been most actively identified with the Sigma Zeta, the Student Association, and the Chemistry Department, where he has served as a laboratory assistant for several sessions.

The naming of Senior as the honor student met with universal approval on the hill, not only because it was evident that the honors ought go to him but also because he enjoyed an unusually fine reputation among his fellows as a man with fearless convictions which he was unafraid to express and willing to defend.

Miss Reese, the second honor student, is well known as the president of the Sock and Buskin and as a leading figure in several other fields of endeavor including debating and French Club. She graduated from the Elizabethtown High School.

Miss Olive Jameson, a graduate of the McAllisterville High School, is best known as the editor of the Etonian. In addition to this task to which she devoted much time and effort, she has been very actively identified with several projects including the general program of the Forensic Arts Club as a debater, and the Commercial Club, of which she is secretary.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The next numbers of Our College Times will be published on Monday, May 28, and on Tuesday, June 5.

A roller skating party for students of the college is being planned by the "Y's". The date has been set as Monday, May 14. Lebanon has been tentatively chosen as the scene for the frolic.

Miss Jameson, editor of the Etonian, plans to distribute the books over the week-end of May 26-27.

Three Classes Visit Plants

Eastern Pen, Armstrong Cork Co., and Middletown Airport Visited By Classes.

During the past two weeks a number of classes and organizations went on field trips. The Commercial Club visited the Armstrong Cork Co., in Lancaster; the Physics Class investigated the Middletown Airport, and the criminology class visited both the old and the new Eastern State Penitentiaries.

On Tuesday, April 24, the Commercial Club was guided through the large office and plant of the Armstrong Cork Co. The members of the Club were intensely interested in the modern office machinery used, ranging from the ordinary time-saving adding machine to a tabulating machine that does the work of thirty or forty people. In the factory the visitors were shown how the linoleum is made and the various designs printed thereon. A late start and a large thunderstorm threatened to make the trip unpleasant, but everyone declared he had a good time and considered the trip well worth while. Miss Bowman accompanied the group as faculty adviser.

The physics class, together with Professor D. E. Myers, instructor, visited the Middletown Airport on Friday, April 27. The class was particularly interested in the engineering department of the airport. A large variety of types and sizes of planes were to be seen. Some of them were in the process of being repaired after being smashed up and others were in the trim of condition, seemingly, raring to go. The trip was of great interest to all. To Jacob Brubaker it was a seventh heaven, since Jake talks, thinks, dreams, and some day will fly airplanes.

President Schlosser announced in Chapel on May 3 that a number of the students had gone to the Eastern State Penitentiary. Extreme anxiety was expressed for the supposedly delinquent students until it was discovered that they belonged to Professor Wenger's criminology class and were merely visiting the (Continued on Page Three)

90 Daughters And Mothers At Banquet

A Pageant, 'Memories' Was Presented To Mothers at Banquet On Saturday, May 5

ALPHA HALL, May 5.—Today marked one of the outstanding events on College Hill, the second annual Mothers' and Daughters' Banquet. About ninety mothers and daughters attended the celebration. During the afternoon the mothers were entertained at tea under the trees near the Science Building. At 6:30 o'clock in the evening the banquet was served in the college dining room. The evening was climaxed by a delightful pageant, "Memories" depicting the joys and sorrows of motherhood.

Mrs. Wenger, faculty adviser of the Y. W. C. A., acted as toastmistress for the evening. Between courses toasts were given by several mothers of the girls and also the daughters, representing each class gave a toast in honor of mother. Miss Olive Jameson paid a splendid tribute to her mother; likewise, Miss Helen Ott, and Miss Helen Shertzer. The college mother, Miss Shaeffer, gave a short toast, expressing her idea that Mother must wiggle in and out of pinching situations. Miss Shaeffer's mother, Mrs. Shaeffer, followed her daughter with a fitting tribute to Daughter. In turn, the toastmistress called upon each professor's wife present and Miss Bowman, of the faculty, for a few words. The Ladies Quartette gave several selections centering about the theme of Mother.

After the dinner was served the mothers relaxed to enjoy a short pageant, "Memories," presented by the Y. W. C. A. girls. In the pageant (Continued on page four) Hundred High School Students Expected Sat.

To date sixty high school graduates have applied and twenty-six enrolled in the Second Annual Competitive Examination to be held here on May 12. Quarryville leads the list with three applicants, while East Lampeter, Paradise, Penn Township, Lower Paxton, Wilson, and Middletown follow with two apiece. John Harris, Red Lion, Ephrata, Palmyra, Cornwall, New Holland, and Upper Leacock are each sending one contestant.

Last spring the examination was given to 51 aspirants; this year at least 100 are expected to appear for a trial.

Last spring, the administration voted to give five scholarships—two west of the Susquehanna River and three east—to the winners of a competitive examination. This year the same scholarships of $200 a year for the four-year course are being offered.

SUPPORT ?

Again we have flaunted before our eyes a losing Elizabethtown College athletic team. Jeers, hoots, mockery, derision, and ridicule fill the air at every home baseball game. Players hesitate, fearful lest they become a mark upon which the supposed rooters of their team can vent their scorn. Off the field, they pity themselves, criticize the coach, and wonder what torture and torment the next game will bring. Seemingly, they have little hope of ever winning a game. They like to play the game, but they are discontent, disgusted and ready to quit the team. They lack the confidence, the pep, the ability to "come back", the power to "rise above"; they lack morale.

Those words would have described the team a few days ago. There has been a change. Confidence and immunity to the crowd's contempt have appeared. Hope has returned. But this had to come about in the face of the sneers of the student body. Poorer sportsmanship could not be shown by college students. Common sense would tell us that players who are stung to the quick by the taunts of their fellow students can not be expected to play accurate baseball. The boys need support, not insults. E. I. L.

WHITHER BOUND ?

The prevailing sentiment of those in attendance at the Schillerabend presented the other Friday evening is that it was one of the highest type programs offered on the campus during the year. One of the patrons who has attended practically all the events staged on the campus for several years remarked, "The program had some depth; it wasn't so frivolous." Does his remark explain the absence of many students? Does it also explain the absence of ministers, elders and their wives? Being unable to understand German is no valid excuse. Those who were unable to understand German could easily follow the action. Must a side-splitting entertainment be staged to draw an audience? Has the taste on the campus and among the constituency been modified to such a degree that only prospects of hearty laughter will appeal? Our taste! Whither bound? L. D. R.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT UNIFIED.

The hearty approval manifested regarding the recent proposal for a change in the student associations is an ample justification for the proposal. The approval arose out of its being not a new system, but merely a coordination and improvement of our present one.

The paramount reason why it would improve is that it would eliminate disorders and doubling up of responsibilities arising out of separately planned joint functions. These functions arranged for at a general meeting by committees equally informed from hearing all discussions would eliminate the above mentioned disorders along with the possibility of passing blame for mismanagement from one association to another.

Furthermore, this unified association would give rise to a live interest in student activities. The student association would rise to a new position of activity rather than one of being shelved. It would "facilitate smooth working relationships between the faculty, student body, and the organized societies of the school." More problems will be discussed once there are no fatiguing delays caused by double considerations of all questions.

This general association should be an open forum for stimulating the activities of all organizations of the school. If unity and dignity is granted to this body it will accomplish that aim.

Such a council would guarantee a better understanding of the interests of both associations, and thus provide ways for meeting these interests. Besides, the interests of the two sexes are not so varied as to demand an oft use of separate considerations.

But problems peculiar to one association and not suited for general consideration could, if so desired, be properly cared for under the supervision of the vice president. As to the secretariate of special meetings, this could be cared for by the vice president's appointment, and as to treasurer for these smaller meetings, there would be no need.

The presidency of this general association should be open equally at all times for both men and women students so as at no time to prohibit the association from having the best executive available simply because of some short-sighted former decision.

Thus we would provide an organization strong enough to have dignity worthy of our school and flexible enough to meet all needs. J. G. K.

In a world shot through with varying theories of socialism, dictatorship, and even anarchy, there is small cause to wonder at the typical campus comment, "What's the matter with our government?" Student-control finds itself challenged today as does every other democratic institution the world over. College administrators launch boisterous attacks at its inadequacy; students clamor because of its severity; alumni and townspeople scoff at it. Thoughtful students may well inquire into the meaning of such pernicious thrusts at a child of their own breeding. The late '90's heard college campuses everywhere resound to the call for representative government. "Give us our rights," they demanded. Faculties heard. Student government resulted. But in their zeal to get their rights, the students on those campuses overlooked the fact that contingent upon every right is a corresponding obligation. "Every right must expand into a duty," says L. P. Jacks, "or become a social danger in a democracy."

Student government will function as the highest form of government only when the student has learned that the right to make laws embraces the duty to enforce law, that the right to choose representatives expands into the duty to support those representatives. Self-government must mean self-development or must fail. That the three prepositions in the tripartite phrase of our own preamble have not received equal stress in the significant factor, we believe, in the recent breakdown of our present system. "By the people," well and good, but soft-pedal the "of" and "for," says faint-heart. Strong-heart answers in uncompromising tones, "Of the people, by the people, and for the people," and student government will not perish from the earth. R. S. S.

EXTRA-CURRICULAR FEDERATION.

The recent movement to unite all Christian Student Organizations in Eastern United States into a federation deserves our attention not alone because of the effect it will have on the religious life of our campus but also because it is indicative of a federation movement in all colleges. There are few places that such a movement is more necessary than on our own campus.

Many hasty statements are made to the effect that Elizabethtown College has too many extra-curricular activities. There are two obvious reasons why this is not the real situation we now face. In the first place, these activities must be continued in order to give adequate expression to the varied talents now found in our student body. We need but consider the recent production by the German department to see the validity of such a statement. In the second place, these activities must be continued if we are to attract the prospective student who is interested in developing his personality and leadership ability.

The way out of the fog and turmoil we are in lies not in abandonment but in more cooperation on the part of leaders when the activities for the coming year are being planned. This will undoubtedly lead, in several instances, to a federated reorganization of many activities which function in the same general field. Such a plan would allow the calendarization of all activities and enable students to select extra-curriculars with an intelligent arrangement of the activities to be added to their program. Although the actual direction of such a reorganization is in the hands of the committee on Student Activities this committee must have the support of an enthusiastic student body. A. H.

The Question Box

Readers are asked to send in questions of interest to the students and alumni of the college.

The question for this week is: Would you rather be a day student or a boarding student at Elizabethtown College? Why?

Earl Kurtz: I would rather be a boarding student than a day student at E-town College. In the first place, one is thrust more fully into a new environment and hence must depend upon his own resources; secondly, one learns to know his fellow students just a little better; and lastly, one saves some extra time which he can use to good advantage during his school life.

Leroy Eshelman: Much may be said pro and con on the question: Would I rather be a day student or a boarding student at Elizabethtown College. However, in the final analysis, I think I would decide in favor of being a boarding student. A college student does not really engage in college life unless he lives in a college atmosphere.

Ruth Moyer: I would rather be a day student than a boarding student at Elizabethtown College because of the freedom which the day student has in choosing his friends and recreational activities, the convenience he experiences at home, and at school, and the economical benefits he receives.

Alumni Notes

'24—H. J. Wickey, who served thirty-five years as Superintendent of the public schools in Middletown, Pa., recently retired from the service. Before assuming the superintendency at Middletown, Mr. Wickey taught in the schools of Perry and Cumberland counties; he is scheduled to deliver an after-dinner address at the Alumni Dinner, on Alumni Day, in June.

'32—Vance M. Rothrock, after graduating from Hahnemann and serving his internship, has located as a practicing physician in Carlisle, Pa.

'33—Harry K. Gerlach, noted basketball star during the last three seasons, has been reassigned a rural school in Manor township, Lancaster county, for the coming year.

'22—Walter A. Keeney continues as cashier of the First National Bank in East Berlin, Pa. He has been connected with this bank since graduation.

'27—Anna Bull, Director of Rural Teacher Training in the Millersville State Teachers College, is performing her usual duties again after a seven-week stay in the hospital. Miss Bull, during this time, was under the care of a trained nurse on account of a severe fracture of her right leg sustained in Philadelphia during the Christmas vacation, while attending the sessions of the P. S. E. A.

The boarding students were cheated out of a sumptuous meal of fish when Bollinger and his pals, Wenger, Eppley, and Reber, were forced to return home because of the intense cold from a recent fishing trip to Port Deposit. Better luck next time, boys.

Examinations are only a little more than two weeks away. It's soon time to read the textbook.

Elizabethtown Boys Show Improvement At Kutztown

Still Without A Victory The Elizabethtown Boys Seem To Have Increased Confidence

KUTZTOWN, PA., May 8.—The Kutztown State Teachers romped home with a 9-3 victory over the Elizabethtown nine in a loosely played game on the college athletic field today.

Although Kutztown outit Elizabethtown by only two hits, nine to seven, the slovenly playing afield of Coach Herr's minions proved disastrous. Both pitchers, Thome and Bartholomew, kept the hits well scattered.

E-town assumed the lead in the first inning, when on a walk by Trout and singles by Miller and Thome, one run was pushed across the plate. Kutztown retaliated with one run in their half of the first. The teachers scored two more in the second and two in the fourth, which proved to be the margin of victory.

Trout and Thome led the E-town stickwielders with two singles apiece while Weaver, Miller and Royer each collected a single from the offerings of Bartholomew.

Juniata -- 18
E-town -- 5

The Juniata Indians, for the second time this season, defeated the E-town ball club in a loosely played and much errored game. The game was featured by the superb pitching of Daher, Juniata's first-string pitcher, who held the E-town team to two scratch hits in five innings of play.

Miller, E-town's sensational first sacker climaxed the game by poling out a "three-bagger" with the bases loaded. Although the game was pitiful to watch, much credit should be given to the pitching staff, namely, Eppley and Thome, who pitched fine ball for the home club only to be beaten by a barricade of errors chalked up by other members of the team.

Kutztown -- 12

In a game, the score of which could readily be taken for that of a football game, a weak Kutztown team literally trounced a much weaker Elizabethtown team to the tune of 12-2. The E-town team seemed to be, as usual, inflicted with a bad case of "dropitis." Errors, which actually would label the average high school aspirant "a punk", were very costly to the fine pitching of Thome and Eppley. At no time during the game was the Kutztown team threatened.

The game was featured by the excellent field work of Miller and the fine hitting of Cobaugh, leading hitter of the team.

Millersville Boys Defeat E-towners

The Elizabethtown varsity tennis team lost a very hard fought match to a worthy victor in the person of Millersville State Teachers' College. Unlike other sporting events, the closeness and severity of play in a tennis match in no manner can be linked with the score. The closeness of the match can be disclosed only by saying that most of the games were carried to "deuce" which in tennis terms means, "very close".

Sherrick and Zuck of Elizabethtown won their matches while the rest dropped very close decisions, leaving the score for the entire match 5-1 in favor of Millersville.

him. The Candles present who have graduated from Elizabethtown spoke to the group. President Schlosser of the college, who was formerly adviser of the Club, also talked.

Stories, jokes, and witty comment of the toastmaster gave zest to the occasion. The singing of "Alma Mater" ended the evening's activities. All who attended thought the Candles banquet of 1934 to be an enjoyable success.

Do you know that in most of the games played so far this year the opposing teams have scored more runs on errors than they have by hits?

Sportlights

Do you know that Juniata College, which for two years has been champion of the Eastern League, hasn't won a single league game so far this season—scholarships, hm! hm!

Do you know that Cobaugh, who has been playing errorless ball around second base has quit the team?

He will probably be replaced by Lentz or Artman, both yearlings with some high school experience.

education which gives women the responsibility for "hearth, home, and kindred" and leaves to men the dominant place in professions.

In sharp contrast to this view, Mr. Mussharm, a French jeweler, from Lancaster, Pa., discussed "Trends in Current History in France" from the angle of Germany's hostile attitude toward France. He claimed that France does not want war but must prepare herself because of Germany's encroachments. The recent revolution in France was the result of economic disturbances rather than an evidence of inherent discontent on the part of the people.

The last of the series, "Current Trends in the Negro Race" was presented by C. F. Howard, principal of the Stretum Colored School. He started his talk with a picture of the negro's struggle for freedom and then launched out into a study of present-day negro schools. From the black man's viewpoint segregation from the whites is preferable because of the increased opportunities accorded him. Aside from the astonishing cultural and educational progress made by the Negro since the Civil War, his contributions to the music of America figures largely because it is the only distinctly American music we can claim.

The Y. W. C. A. is of the opinion that the program committee headed by Anna Reese did splendid work in planning and executing this project. The interpretations of international affairs which it presented was most valuable in building up a broader understanding and a more thorough world consciousness essential to complete living.

Annual Field Day Tournament Will Be Held Thurs., May 17

It Is Generally Conceded That The Freshman Class Will Take Intra-Class Field Honors

With an entry list expected to exceed that of last year, the annual festival of the foot and arm, known as Field Day will launch itself here at 2 o'clock, May 19 and fail to stop until well into the twilight.

On this day the best from every class in the college will be out on the field fighting for "ye olde personal glory" and their respective classes.

Approximately one hundred athletes from the undergraduate and Senior classes will churn the track and dig pivots into the field, as they display their prowess in the twenty events listed.

Ribbons will be awarded to the three contestants finishing first in each event. Blue for first place; red for second, and yellow for third.

penitentiary to get first-hand information as to how the State treated its enforced guests. Conditions in the penitentiaries were found to be very good indeed. The surroundings are as cheerful as it is possible to make a prison, with white painted walls and everything neat and clean. Upon investigation of the prison menu it was found that for 25 cents a day the prisoners are fed better than the students at Elizabethtown College, and that's no reflection on the good meals served in the college dining room. Farms, weaving mills, tailor shops, offices, libraries and artistry keep each man in the prisons busy at least four hours a day. A delicious country dinner with all the fixings at the home of Mary Hess put the finishing touch to a perfect field trip.

It has been announced that there will be a golf tournament open to all students during the last week of school on our local links.

Trustees Elected At Conferences

GYM, April 26. — Three new members were elected to the Board of Trustees of Elizabethtown College here today by the Annual District Meeting of the Church of the Brethren of Eastern Pennsylvania. Forty-one congregations, sending over one hundred delegates, were represented at the meeting.

Mr. R. P. Royer, a leading business man of Denver, Lancaster County; Rev. Michael Kurtz, a well known church leader of Richland, Lebanon County, and father of Earl Kurtz, a junior at Elizabethtown and Rev. J. N. Cassel, of Fairview Village, Montgomery County, father of Franklin Cassel, who was re-elected, are the three new members who were elected to the Board of Trustees. Rev. F. S. Carper, a banker of Palmyra, Lebanon County, was elected to complete the term of the deceased John M. Gible.

During the business session $1400 was pledged toward the Lake Ridge, New York, Church. Rev. E. F. Nedrow, father of James Nedrow, a senior at Elizabethtown, and Rev. H. D. Jones represented the Lake Ridge Church at the conference. To complete the project each member of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania will be assessed 50 cents. An appeal was also made to help support the Italian Mission at Brooklyn, N. Y. President R. W. Schlosser, Rev. Nathan Martin, and Rev. F. S. Carper were elected to the Standing Committee of the Annual Conference, which is to be held in June on the Iowa State College Campus at Ames, Iowa.

Then the aged couple sit by the fire living in memories of the past. As they reminisce, scenes of by-gone days pass before them; Motherhood, rocking the baby to sleep; the evening devotions with the children; a troubled night, for baby is ill; childhood troubles, a broken doll and skinned shin; school days, mother realizing that her boy and girl are no longer babies; graduation and farewells; the son goes to India as a missionary and the daughter is married and establishes a home of her own. Thus father and mother are left to spend Mother's Day alone, but with memories of the past.

DR. EDGAR S. KIRACOFÉ ADDRESSES MINISTERIUM

ALPHA HALL, May 1.—Dr. E. S. Kiracofé spoke to the Ministerium on the "Educational Responsibility of the Church" at a regular meeting held today.

In his discussion Dr. Kiracofé brought out several conditions in present-day churches which need strengthening. He stated that the church should be a continuation school for adults. It should have a recreation and social program for young people between the ages of 13 and 18. Two great handicaps of the church as it now exists, according to Dr. Kiracofé, are a lack of trained leadership to carry forward church and too much conservatism.

From Here and There

The Platonic relationship seeds planted by Miss Sheaffer have failed to produce the expected crop except in a few instances where the relationships appear to have already passed the Platonic stage.

According to the road gang there is at least one advantage in living in the "pen". The prisoners are permitted to smoke any-time anywhere.

Miss Sheaffer thinks we can do anything we want to do but didn't prove it. What do you think?

Dr. Ober gave a number of interesting experiences in connection with Eddie Guest at a recent "Y. M." meeting.

Future teachers: Remember spring time IS a good time to loaf and IS NOT a desirable time to study.

The tables have been changed for the last time this year. The seniors now have a table to themselves where they can bother each other. It won't be long now until we'll be out of this jail. (Pardon me, college.)

"Wilhelm Tell" Sketches Well Presented To Large Audience

Special to the Times

By Professor Saylor

GYM, April 28.—Greeted by a surprisingly large audience, the combined German Department and Deutsche Verein program delighted lovers of the best in drama and music.

"Wilhelm Tell" extracts from which formed the "piece de resistance" of the program, is the last of the plays written by Friedrich Schiller. It is a drama of freedom, and the episodes, portrayed on the stage, were highly representative of this central theme.

The specific thesis of "Tell" is the successful revolt of the Swiss Forest Cantons against their governors. Three actions that have no necessary connection with one another—the conspiracy of the cantons the private feud of Tell and Gessler, and the love affair of Rudenz and Bertha—are carried along together in such a way that all find their natural conclusion in the final celebration of victory. These three actions also were adequately covered by the four scenes, one of which gave a premonition of the approaching revolt of the Swiss, two dealt with Tell, and the fourth with Rudenz and Bertha.

The drama has no real main character, and consequently one does not expect any "star" parts; however, probably the most satisfactory performance, all things considered, was that of Ruodi, der Schiffer. The costumes of Rudenz and Bertha were especially attractive as was indicated by an excited admiring exclamation of "Bertha!" from the lips of a venerable German who was in the audience. Although the sounds "ie," "ei," "st," and "um-lautu" seemed to offer difficulties at times, anyone familiar with the German language knows that they are among the last sounds to be mastered by the student. In general it may be said that all participants acquitted themselves well.

Programs of this type are not only culturally uplifting to the audience, but they also offer the participants motivation in pronunciation, comprehension, and appreciation of a foreign language. Further efforts of this sort deserve encouragement.

Dean Minnick Will Give Commencement Address

Original Pageant to be Presented by Senior Class

Thirty-second Annual Commencement Will Be Held June 4; Class Day Pageant, June 1.

Dean J. H. Minnick, Dean of the School of Education of the University of Pennsylvania, will deliver the commencement address at the thirty-second annual commencement on Monday morning, June 4. Twenty-seven degrees will be conferred, including the Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Arts, the Bachelor of Science in Science, and the Bachelor of Science in Commercial Education. The program of the commencement exercises follows:

Invocation—Rev. Roy S. Forney, A. B., '31.

Women's Quartet—"An Indian Cradle Song"—Clark.

Oration—"The Fond Many"—Anna E. Reese, Elizabethtown, Pa.

Oration—"Strengths by Strengths do Fall"—Kenneth L. Senior, Steelton, Pa.

Piano Solo—"Rondo Capriccioso"—Mendelssohn, David E. Schlosser.

Address—Dean J. H. Minnick, University of Pennsylvania.

Conferring of Degrees—President R. W. Schlosser.

Men's Quartet—"Pilgrim's Chorus"—Wagner.

Benediction—Elder S. H. Hertzler, President Board of Trustees, Elizabethtown, Pa.

Friday evening, June 1, at 8:00 P. M. in the Auditorium the Senior Class will present a pageant, the theme of which has not yet been disclosed, but will more than likely, be original and worthwhile. Sunday evening, June 3, at 7:30 P. M. President R. W. Schlosser will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon in the Auditorium. A Male Octette, consisting of the Varsity and Freshman Male Quartettes, will render a selection, "Remember Now Thy Creator."

Members of Faculty Scheduled to Give Number of Speeches

With the arrival of spring conventions, conferences, and commencements, several members of the faculty have been engaged in visiting neighboring institutions and delivering addresses.

President Schlosser attended the South Mountain Young People's Conference at the Myerstown Church of the Brethren, on May 19 and 20. The general theme of this conference was "Youth's Problems." In the evening of May 19, the Conference was opened by a Fellowship Supper after which Dr. Schlosser gave a short talk. On Sunday, May 20, President Schlosser delivered a series of three addresses. New Etonian is Big Improvement On The Former Yearbook Editions

Not a few were surprised by the early appearance of the Etonian on Friday, May 18. The prevailing opinion on the campus seems to be that the Etonian of 1934-35 is an improvement over all previous editions. The staff merits our highest praise; it has acquitted itself nobly.

The editors attempted to portray the history of education by sketches of the leaders of educational thought since Plato and Aristotle. In dedicating the book to Uncle Sam Hertzler, President of the Board of Trustees, the staff placed among the great educational leaders a man who has ever striven to direct Elizabethtown College along the high principles upon which it was founded.

We like especially the message from Uncle Sam. It creates more sympathy among the students for the task of the Board of Trustees. The cartoons which introduce the class pictures are also unique and appropriate. The humor section, too, introduced a new feature in the form of the personal writeups among the advertisements. While there is still room for improvement, everyone of us can lay the new blue and gray Etonian upon our shelves with the feeling that we can enjoy and appreciate it more and more as the years slip by.

Junior College, State Scholarships Discussed at Presidents' Meeting

On May 15 and 16, Dr. Schlosser and Dean Baugher attended a convention of the Association of College Presidents of Pennsylvania, at State College. The time was divided into two sessions, the first, the evening of May 15, and the second, the morning of May 16.

The first session was conducted in the form of a banquet at Nittany Lion Inn. Three topics were discussed, the first was "Junior Colleges of Pennsylvania" discussed by President Hetzel of State College, and State Superintendent James Rule. The trend of the discussion was that Junior Colleges should not duplicate work given by the college, but aim at giving terminal courses in the nature of a vocation. The standards of the Junior College, it

Staff For Handbook Has Been Selected

ALPHA HALL, May 25.—At a meeting of the new joint student government officers, the staff for the 1934-35 handbook was selected.

By virtue of their offices, Jacob Kuhns and Mary Brumbaugh were appointed editors, and Martha Jane Reist and Elwood Hackman were appointed business managers.

Margaret Sechrist, Jacob Brubaker, Guy Hoffmaster and Alma Hartman were chosen as assistants.

The handbook will be much the same as that of last year except for a few changes such as: publishing of the new system of absences from classes, and a new list of General Suggestions.

Freshmen Easily Take 1st Honors In Track Meet

Amid the echoes and re-echoes of a jubilant cheering section, the Freshman class ran rough shod over the remaining classes of the college to capture class honors in the intraschool field meet. This may be due, however, to the fact that the yearlings had more members trying for the various events than could possibly have been furnished by the upper classes. Nevertheless much credit must be given the Freshmen, for their victory came only after weeks of strenuous practice in preparation for the meet. The Freshmen produced such stars as Hamme, Artman, Barnes, Glassmire, Lentz, Hoover, and Estricher.

Annual Business Session Will Be Held June 2nd

Music Recital, Baseball Game, Tennis Match, Band Concert, And Alumni Dinner Are On Commencement Program.

The alumni have been especially invited to attend the Thirty-second Annual Commencement exercises opening Thursday evening, May 31, at eight o'clock (E.S.T.) in the auditorium and continuing till Monday noon, June 4.

The annual music and voice recital will be rendered Thursday evening. Though there was a mid-term music recital, the Music Department is putting forth its greatest effort to make this recital the best measure of its ability. The recital will be followed on Friday afternoon at 2:00 P. M. by a baseball game between Elizabethtown and Maryland State Teachers' College. Although the Elizabethtown boys have an unbroken record of defeats, it is expected that they will play with the true Elizabethtown spirit. Saturday morning the Athletic Committee has arranged for a regular tennis match between the varsity racquet-ers and a team of alumni players. Although the alumni team has not been fully chosen, it is very probable that it will include Coach Dan Myers.

At 3:00 P. M. Saturday afternoon the Alumni Association will meet in its annual business session in the College Chapel. Heretofore, it was the custom to transact alumni business in connection with the Alumni dinner. The agenda includes the

Fifty-two Tried For Scholarships

Fifty-two high school seniors, most of whom were honor students, turned out for the Second Annual Competitive Examination given in the Gymnasium, May 12. The successful entrants on the East side of the Susquehanna are: John R. Glass, Lancaster, Route 5; Dorothy Hollinger, Elizabethtown; and Mildred Miller, Ephrata. From the west side of the Susquehanna: Roy Pfaltzgraff, York, Route 4; and M. Richard Shaul, Brogueville, were successful.

Mr. Glass is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Glass, and is the valedictorian of the Class of 1934, at East Lampeter High School. He is interested in the Bachelor of Science Degree. Miss Hollinger is the daughter of C. B. Hollinger and first honor student of the 1934 class of Elizabethtown High School. She

AUTOGRAPHING.

In every nook and cranny we behold disciples of the new collegiate pastime, autographing. Mooning couples give up their clandestine meetings to engage; grave professors linger a moment to appease the seekers; sincere students surprise us by actively following the sport; we look on and wonder why. Peace, ye cynics, this is not merely a fad. It is fascinating; it is restful, soothing; it is a true recreation. A fellow student approaches us; immediately there floods into our minds the memory of a trip here, an escapade there; we write it slantingly in the margin; the friend passes on—we are in the game. A peculiar urge overwhelms us. We bring out our own yearbook and eagerly pursue autographs. As we sit back and enjoy the results of the game we see that here and there a student whom we hardly knew has wished us success or has candidly written his impression of us. Calm satisfaction, a feeling that all is well, pleasant reveries enthrall us. Our yearbook has become a treasure with which we will not part.

AN ADMONITION.

We highly appreciate the return of lost property. Pens, ties, books, papers, are many times found and returned. Elizabethtown has an excellent reputation for honesty. New students who were accustomed to hang anchors to books if they left them for a few minutes are elated with the upright attitude of Elizabethtown students. But there is a cloud on the horizon. Clouds are too threatening; we prefer a clear sky. The student body of Elizabethtown cannot afford to forfeit its reputation of integrity.

CHRIST IN A MODERN WORLD.

The prominent place of Christ in the great education program of the world, which was granted to Him in the Year Book so recently distributed on this campus has brought the inquiry—what does the world think of Him today.

Naturally enough we grant Him the status of a great teacher, a wonderful mystic, and a leading philosopher. But do we drop the consideration here? Do we ever attempt to delve to the depth of His teachings or do we fear to measure ourselves by His moral and social standards?

Christ was more than a hypothetical teacher, a mystical dreamer or a musing philosopher. He was the proclaimer of a new order in which man should enjoy both life and hope. Today we say that the great moral and philanthropic developments are the effects of His teachings upon the world. As a result we see new touches of kindness to sufferers, both physical and mental. We see new paths of liberty for oppressed peoples. In fact we are shown new aims of democracy. But in the very midst of all this achievement we see suffering caused by oppression; sad hearts, the victims of envy and jealousy; forsaken persons, bearing the enigma of another's hate; and hungry starving souls, results of a world's greed and corruption. The real truth is that we have not yet fathomed Christ's true philosophy or else we've spent more time interpreting it than in applying it.

FORTY WERE PRESENT AT JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

HARRISBURG, May 16.—This evening at the Harrisburger Hotel the Senior Class of 1934 was banqueted by the Juniors. Amidst a table group of 45 students and teachers A. Stauffer Curry, President of the Junior Class served as toastmaster.

The evening, already one of good will and fellowship because of the fine social spirit which exists between these two classes, was still further enriched by addresses from the three faculty members present, Dr. Schlosser, President of the College, praised the value of such occasions, pled for the keeping of faith in our Alma Mater and never coming to a point where we no longer revere it. His hope was for many more such events in the future life of the college.

Dean Baugher, after a few remarks upon the unique seating so as to give social proximity to specific groups of two, launched into a scholarly discourse on the present trends of education. He asked that with all our progress we do not forget the need of interpreting our learning so as to be able to apply it to life, for according to him, non-interpretative education is futile.

Dr. Musick laid aside his usual humor by jocosely dismissing jokes as not suited to him and gave his estimate of college and the meaning thereof. He praised our liberal arts colleges for their cultural benefits, but condemned them on the grounds that they propagate loafing and make students learn to poke fun at their elders. He said that in the future, diplomas should be granted only after a gruelling test of the person's ability along with whether his associates think him worthy of a diploma or not.

Musical entertainment was proffered by Leroy Metzler of the Senior Class and Dorothy Dulebohn of the Juniors. Mr. Metzler sang "The Greatest Wish in the World", and "Where My Caravan Has Rested." Miss Dulebohn rendered "June Is In My Garden" and "Common Sense."

Courses were interspersed by toasts of appreciation by the Seniors. Outstanding among these was that of Mr. Senior, President of the Senior Class, in which he spoke on the value of traditions and the duty of upper-classmen to acclimate freshmen to them.

The great teacher gave us a picture of the true nature of man without spiritual development. In such a state he is mere animal, but by spiritual growth he becomes a creature fit of association with God. Christ gave us the proper relation of man to man. He showed the value of a personality; the value of a human soul. Finally, He gave us the proper concept of God as a loving creator, willing to sacrifice Himself to aid his creation.

Will we let the influence of Christ lift us from our fallen pedestal of animal nature to a place where His philosophy of life and hope, of peace and goodwill, and of christian brotherhood no longer seems a mystic's dream but a practical philosophy of everyday living.

Alumni Activities Explained to Class

At a meeting of the Senior Class held in Alpha Hall last Wednesday afternoon, Professor Rose appeared before the group and explained the activities of the Alumni Association, of which all Seniors become members upon graduation.

Professor Rose emphasized that the Alma Mater spirit is a tradition distinctly peculiar to American colleges and universities. It was held that every Elizabethtown alumnus by virtue of choosing Elizabethtown as his Alma Mater obligates himself to support the ideals Elizabethtown cherishes and he also obligates himself out of loyalty to join with his fellow alumni in making Elizabethtown a bigger and a better Alma Mater.

Payment of dues to support the activities of the Association and contributions to the Alumni Fund were also explained. It was emphasized that many small gifts are just as acceptable as a few large ones.

As Secretary of the Association, Professor Rose extended the official invitation to the members of the class to be the guests of the Association at the Alumni Dinner, on June 2.

morning he spoke on "My Vocation" in the afternoon on "My Fellow Man," and in the evening on "My Life and My God."

President Schlosser also addressed the graduates of the York Springs High School on May 14, and of Millersville, on May 23. On May 25 he traveled to Rothsville and on May 28 to Lower Chanceford, in York County to deliver the commencement addresses.

Dr. E. S. Kiracofe, head of the Department of Education, attended the meeting of the Association of Liberal Arts Colleges for the Advancement of Teaching at Harrisburg, on May 18 and 19. The chief discussions and items of business were centered around two main topics. The first was work on the formulation of requirements for certification in the various subject fields; the other on the development of a plan for a fifth year of training for secondary school teachers.

In a different field of endeavor, Miss Sheaffer, Dean of Women, has been giving talks to various women's organizations. She spoke to the Farm Women's Society No. 8, at York, on "Culture and the Good Life." At Mother and Daughter banquets held in the United Brethren Church of Elizabethtown and the Brethren Church, of Lancaster, Miss Sheaffer spoke on "Motherhood." She lauds mothers because of those who have made the institution honorable and holds up Mary, mother of Jesus, as a perfect example.

Miller, and is the valedictorian of the Class of 1933, at Ephrata High School. Mr. Pfaltzgraff is the son of Mary M. Pfaltzgraff and an honor student in the Class of 1934 at North York High School. Mr. Shaull is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard R. Shaull and first honor student of the Class of 1934 at Red Lion High School. Each scholarship is worth $800. Two are awarded to students from the West side of the Susquehanna, and three of those from the East.

The group that presented itself for the examination was unique in that the greatest number of the students were honor students. A number of those who took the examination have already definitely enrolled for the Freshman Class of next year. Including the five successful scholarship students, the enrollment to date is twenty-two. The competitors were entertained at lunch by the college and after the examination, were privileged to attend the baseball game between Elizabethtown and Moravian. During the lunch hour the scholarship students of 1933 were introduced to those taking this year's examination.

Alumni Council Holds Session

The Alumni Council met in regular spring session at the college on the evening of May 10. The following members were in attendance: John M. Miller, '05, James H. Breitigan, '05, Rufus K. Eby, '26, Jos. W. Kettering, '23, R. W. Schlosser, '11, and L. D. Rose, '11.

The Council decided to sponsor an organization in the Schuylkill Valley, the group holding its organization meeting some time next year.

Realizing that the number of life members is growing, the Council decided to have certificates printed and issued to the members on payment of the life membership fee.

The proposition of mailing Christmas greetings to the members of the Association and also of amending the Constitution to eliminate the preliminary ballot were referred to the annual meeting of the Association on Alumni Day for discussion.

Recognizing the need of assembling and recording data about the Alumni in a proper manner, the Council decided that indexes be made of the Alumni by alphabet, sections and classes.

The Pipe Line Fraternity takes this opportunity to thank the Etonian staff for its kind gift of a full page of the year-book. (Signed) Secretary.

FRESHMEN EASILY TAKE FIRST HONORS IN TRACK MEET

The Juniors were next in class honors ending very close, comparatively, to the Freshmen. Hershman and Cabaugh led in point scoring for the upper classmen.

The interesting feature of the day was the mile relay, which was captured by the Freshmen, followed very closely by the galloping ghosts of the Senior class.

The fine sportsmanship manifested and the keen competition shown by the various participants surely proved to the "Board of Athletics" what improvement intra-mural athletics would have on the students of Elizabethtown College.

Elizabethtown Tennis Team Defeats Blue Ridge 7-0

E-towners Showed Excellent Form to Defeat B.R.C.

The tennis team of Elizabethtown College defeated a fighting team of youths from down Maryland way in the person of Blue Ridge College, to the tune of 7-0. This was the first victory chalked up by the E-town team this season. The team displayed all the qualities of a first-class tennis team and should be congratulated on their fine victory. Thru this match every member of the squad, by virtue of their victory, will receive his major letter in tennis.

MORAVIAN—5. ELIZABETHTOWN—2.

Under a handicap of approximately twenty degrees the Elizabethtown tennis team held the strong Moravian College team to a 5-2 victory, on the E-town courts. Both teams seemed to be considerably off form probably due to the hot, dusty atmosphere. However, the score of the match was not entirely decided until the Moravian lads emerged victorious over the E-town doubles teams. The match was close throughout, which can readily be seen by the score. Weaver and Zuck won their matches, while Sherrick, Cassel, McDonald, and Bucher lost close decisions.

JUNIATA—6. ELIZABETHTOWN—1.

Amid barrages of "aces" and hard-placed drives, the Elizabethtown tennis team went down in gallant defeat at the hands of a very strong Juniata team. The E-town lads put up a splendid fight but were simply outclassed by the Juniata racqueteers. Comment should be made upon the fine fighting spirit and whole-hearted participation on the part of the E-town lads. The match score ended 6-1 in favor of Juniata.

MORAVIAN—5. ELIZABETHTOWN—2.

The Moravian Racketeers of Bethlehem, Pa., for the second time this season, nosed out the E-town lads in a hard fought tennis battle on the former's courts. The games ended with the score standing 5-2 in favor of Moravian. Weaver won his singles match while Sherrick and Cassel walked off with a doubles victory.

MORAVIAN—7. ELIZABETHTOWN—4.

The Elizabethtown baseball club played the best home game of the season, so far when they came very near defeating a strong and experienced team of ball players in the person of Moravian College. The Moravian team got off to an early lead by virtue of several errors on the part of Elizabethtown players. However, E-town team slowly crept up on their opponents, closing a seven run gap to three runs. The game ended with the score standing 7-4 in favor of the visitors. The game was featured by the effective pitching of Thome and Eppley.

SUSQUEHANNA—8. ELIZABETHTOWN—2.

In a game played on the college athletic field, the Crusaders of Susquehanna University marched home with an 8-2 victory over the E-town boys. Each team was credited with eight hits. However, the E-town infielders were not clicking perfectly and no less than five damaging errors were chalked up against them. A heavy wind played havoc with the balls, and fielders had a difficult time judging the horse-hides batted in their direction. Thome led the E-town stickwielders with two singles, Krall blasted out a double, while Trout, Lentz and Royer each contributed a single to the Elizabethtown acreage.

Elizabethtown Holds Susquehanna Crusaders to 5-2 Score in Recent Tilt

SUSQUEHANNA—5. ELIZABETHTOWN—2.

SELINGROVE, May 26. — By garnering five runs in the first inning the Susquehanna University Crusaders clinched the game with Elizabethtown College by the score of 5-2. After the first disastrous inning for the E-towners, the game developed into a pitcher's duel with Thome of Elizabethtown holding the upper hand.

Following a rather dubious decision by the umpire on the first play of the game the Elizabethtown boys apparently lost heart and allowed five runs to be pushed across the plate. Thome, however, came back strong in the second and for the remainder of the game allowed only three hits and no runs. Gray, the Crusaders' hurler, pitched fine ball until the eighth inning. Royer smashed out a triple, scoring Trout before him; Krall singled, scoring Royer. Yaroos then replaced Gray and ended the scoring by the Elizabethtown boys. Both Cotton and Spitzner garnered two hits out of the seven for the Crusaders. Elizabethtown out-hit her opponents by one hit; Krall lead with two singles.

SHIPPENSBURG—14. ELIZABETHTOWN—0.

What for six innings threatened to be one of the closest games of the current baseball season suddenly turned into a melee of hits and errors as the Shippensburg Teachers routed the E-town lads by a 14-0 score.

A perfect pitching duel between Thome of E-town, who had allowed but two hits for six innings, and Martin of Shippensburg, who had allowed four hits in the same number of rounds was ruined by the slovenly playing afield of the E-town boys. S-burg scored one earned run in each of the second and third innings. In the seventh inning after two men were out, Cabaugh playing second for E-town made a damaging error which accounted for four more unearned runs. Thome appeared unsettled in the eighth, and with the aid of some solid hitting the Teachers sent eight runs across the plate.

Weaver led the E-town batbearers with two singles, Royer contributed a booming double along the left field line, while Trout, Espenshade, Krall, and Miller followed with a single apiece.

Opera "Martha" Proved Very Pleasing To Large Audience

GYM, May 11.—Splendidly the Elizabethtown College Chorus presented its first attempt at opera. "Martha" was all that was expected and even more. The audience enthusiastically expressed its pleasure and delight in the excellent music and drama.

Particularly astounding was the range of the scenes in the opera. Richmond Fair scene was well ordered but a bit too modern for the setting of the opera. For ingenuity and simple beauty the scene in Plunkett's home was unexcelled.

Careful training and directing was evident in the acting and singing of the major characters. Miss Dulebohn as Martha, acquitted herself with poise and grace. Lady Harriet's search for real pleasure and her discovery of true love formed the basis of the plot. Mr. Metzler, as Lionel, was well cast. His role was difficult but his acting was sincere, stirring up genuine sympathy in his audience. Miss Barnes played and sang smoothly, though she could have exercised a bit more dignity as an English lady. Mr. Glassmire, too, was ideally cast as Sir Plunkett, a wealthy Treasurer's report, the Teller's report with regards to the election of officers, memorials to deceased alumni, and the Secretary's report on the various activities of the Association during the past year. At 5:00 P. M. Saturday afternoon the Alumni dinner will commence in the college dining room. There are prospects for a strong attendance, as the Classes of '04, '14, and '24 have been especially invited for class reunions. After dinner, addresses will be delivered by I. E. Shoop, '04, B. F. Waltz, '13, and H. J. Wickey, '24. The toastmaster for dinner will be John G. Hershey, '16. A cover charge of 75 cents will be made for the dinner.

During the hours between the dinner and the evening concert, the President will hold a reception for the Alumni in the reception room, Alpha Hall. At 8:00 P. M. the College Band will present a program of classical overtures, band marches, and special features in the auditorium. The admission price is 25 cents for adults, and 15 cents for children. The College Band has done outstanding work in this, its first year of existence. The concert on Saturday evening, June 2, will be worth any music lover's attention.

And so Lucifer is in all of us! We didn't think it of you, Dr. Musick.

farmer. He exhibited unusual ability, both dramatic and musical. While Mr. Hollinger's enunciation was not too clear, his solos presented excellent tone. Mr. Royer as the Sheriff played commendably; indeed, this can be said of the whole cast and the chorus. The Music Department can be proud of the production "Martha", and should be encouraged in further productions of this nature.

Picnics And Parties Enjoyed By Students

LEBANON CASINO, May 14.—Casino was the scene of a great deal of knocks and bumps which were fostered by the members of the Elizabethtown College "Y's" who spent the evening here in roller skating.

The rink was the "Waterloo" of many would be skaters. Special congratulations should be extended, however, to Naomi Weaver and "Jim" Nedrow for their progress in roller skating. Among the faculty, the deepest sympathy is offered to Dr. Kiracofe.

MILLER'S MILL, May 22.—The annual picnic of the Science Club was begun here. Upon arrival games were played. Because of the advent of rain, it was necessary for the "eating" part of the party to be held at the Pavilion in Keener's Park.

CHIKES ROCK, May 25.—The entire student body was entertained at a picnic supper here. This rock, which is the subject of Indian lore, was explored by several venture-some students. The first course of the meal, which was served around the campfire was eaten in a slow rain. Because of the intensity of the rain it was necessary that the rest of the food be eaten in cars.

Sigma Zeta Visits Franklin & Marshall

LANCASTER, May 21.—The Theta Chapter of the Sigma Zeta of Elizabethtown College, visited the Franklin and Marshall College here tonight. The club was shown the museum, laboratory models and the observatory. Students reported the trip to be very instructive as well as interesting.

The Club was instructed in the museum by Professor Roddy as to the displays which consisted of cases of various kinds of minerals, birds, their eggs, larger animals, snakes, insects, moths, butterflies, extinct forms of animals and birds, and ancient armor and weapons.

Professor Roddy related the evolution of the horse, displaying teeth of the horse at different stages of evolution, as well as describing the habitats of some of the extinct mastodons and other animals. He showed models of these animals which were made in the laboratory.

Dr. Long, professor of Astrology and Mathematics, talked to the group about many stars of the heavens and explained a map of the moon. Everyone looked through the refractory telescope at Jupiter with its four satellites, Gamma Virginis, and the moon. Upon request Dr. Long attempted to find a "dog star"; clouds intervened and a few members were disappointed. He then showed a machine for determining time, correct to one-tenth of a second. Dr. Long was very congenial, answering all questions asked.

The entire group was pleased with the observation trip and many students strongly expressed their appreciation of the trip. A desire was expressed that the Sigma Zeta start a collection of such natural specimens as might be obtained near the college.

Other topics which were discussed were, "Competition in Granting Aids and Transfers to Students," and "Preparation of Secondary Teachers."

The second session of the convention centered on increasing the number and amount of state scholarships granted each year. Another topic was "Efficiencies in Alumni Organization," presented by President Morgan of Dickinson and Dean Musser of University of Pennsylvania.

Large Number Attend Alumni Dinner Here

Three Class Reunions Held At Alumni Dinner Saturday
Evening. New Officers Elected at Bus. Meeting.

The dinner to visiting alumni and friends was served in the college dining room, Saturday evening at 5 o'clock. A delicious menu was prepared and served by the college management. Following the dinner John G. Hershey, '16, took charge as toastmaster of the evening. He set all minds at ease by announcing that no one would be called on for an extemporaneous speech. The elimination of this practice was Mr. Hershey's condition of accepting when invited to serve. The practice may not be revived.

I. E. Shoop, '04, was called on to speak about "Thirty Years After," with reference to the physical growth of the college. B. F. Waltz, '14, presented an exhaustive study of the intellectual progress of the college in his address on "Twenty Years After." Reverend Waltz compared the multiplicity of courses offered two decades ago with the several groups offered now. He surprised his audience by stating that the enrollment for the present year is 2 higher than the average for the preceding five years.

Considering the difficulty and uncertainty at present, this record was held to be a notable achievement. H. J. Wickey, '24, stressed the recognition given the college in his address on "Ten Years After." He held that recognition is given the college by communities, employers and rating agencies by what the alumni are and do.

ALUMNI REUNION

On Alumni Day a number of familiar faces were seen on the campus. Reviving the custom of class reunions brought back a goodly number of alumni to the scenes of college days. The following class representatives were on the campus: '04, I. E. Shoop; '14, B. F. Waltz; '24, Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Eby, S. Elizabeth Englar, Elizabeth W. Gible, Daniel I. Harshmen, Pheobe C. Longenecker, Martha Martin, E. G. Meyer, Mabel Minnick Bucher, Ruth Ober Miller, Grace Ober Grubb, Ethel B. Wenger, H. J. Wickey.

SYMPATHY

The Times extends its deepest sympathy to Miss Angelina Piscitelli whose father the Almighty has seen fit to remove from our presence.

In her sorrow, she and the bereaved family, are commended to the all-wise Father who is a Comforting Friend in time of trouble; a Father who knoweth all our needs and supplieth aid in the darkest hours of life.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

With this issue the bi-weekly publication of Elizabethtown College closes its history under the name "Our College Times."

In the summer of 1904, a monthly booklet with the name "Our College Times" first appeared. For nearly twenty years it continued to be published under that name and in the same form. Then in 1922 "Our College Times" appeared in newspaper form, a bi-weekly publication. During the fall of 1933 "Our College Times" was admitted to the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association at Baltimore. Since then there has been a great deal of sentiment that "Our College Times" was not suitable as a title for a college newspaper. Therefore, after conferring with a number of alumni subscribers, the Board of Control has decided, henceforth to publish the newspaper under the title, "The Etownian."

Many Clubs Have Elected Officers For Coming Year

Recently some of the clubs on college hill have been planning for the coming Academic year. They have been electing officers to head the organizations for the next term.

The Young Women's Christian Association and the Young Men's Christian Association installed their officers May 17, as follows: Y. M. C. A., president, A. Stauffer Curry; vice president, Cyrus Bucher; secretary, J. Herbert Miller; treasurer, Nevin Zuck. Y. W. C. A., president, Katherine Cassel; vice president, Esther Zug; secretary, Virginia Denlinger; treasurer, Ruth Groff.

The Candles Club has chosen the following as officers: president, Franklin Cassel; secretary-treasurer, Eby Espenshade.

The Comerciantes have chosen Elwood Hackman to head the club; Arthur Fair as vice president; and Margaret Leas as secretary-treasurer.

The leadership of Der Deutsche Verein has been entrusted to Paul Lentz; with Guy Hoffmaster as vice president, and Margaret Sechrist as secretary-treasurer.

In the Sigma Zeta, Melvin Wagner has been promoted from the secretarial position to the presidency. Paul Herr was elected vice president and Martha Groff secretary-treasurer.

In the College Band, Guy Hoffmaster has received promotion to the presidency. Cyrus Bucher is vice president, and Alexander Glassmire secretary-treasurer.

After much debate, the Men's and Women's Student Organizations decided to use the same system for election officers as previously. The election results follow: Men's Student Association: president, Jacob Kuhns; secretary, Elwood Hackman; treasurer, Jacob Brubaker. Women's Student Association: president, Mary Brumbaugh; secretary, Martha Riest; treasurer, Margaret Sechrist.

The Student Volunteers have vested their greatest authority in Earl Kurtz. Mary Brumbaugh is vice president, A. Stauffer Curry treasurer, Edward Lander recording secretary, and Nevin Zuck corresponding secretary.

Music Programs Were Presented Unusually Well

Music Department Presented Its Annual Piano & Voice
Recital Thursday, May 31
Band Gave Concert Sat.

Thursday evening the Music Department of the College presented a Piano and Voice recital in the Auditorium. Every number from the simplest piano exercise to Liszt's "Rhapsodie No. 14" was well presented.

Among the juvenile artists Robert Heisey again showed his unusual ability as he played "The Village Church." In the realm of vocal soloists Donald Royer drew unusual applause with his humorous interpretation of "Short'nin' Bread." Harold Hollinger and Dorothy Baker acquitted themselves with excellent tones and power. As usual, Alexander Glassmire, Dorothy Dulebohn, and LeRoy Metzler sang commendably. Helen Angstadt and David Schlosser exhibited fine technique and interpretation in their renditions of those masters, Moszkowski and Liszt.

The College Band appeared in a very successful concert on Saturday evening after the Alumni dinner. Miss Dorothy Baker, vocal soloist, rendered several well accepted numbers. The Band acquitted itself with a manner belying its experience. Mr. Heisey and the members of the Band can well be proud of their first year's achievements.

Faculty Will Be Teaching Most Of This Summer

The majority of Elizabethtown's faculty will be engaged in teaching this summer. President Schlosser plans to spend the first two weeks at the Brethren Annual Conference in Iowa. The remainder of the summer he will solicit for prospective students. Dean Baugher will direct and teach at the summer session.

Miss Sheaffer anticipates spending several weeks of June in visiting in (Continued on page four)

Interession Opened This Morning With An Enrollment Of Sixty-two

Instruction has begun in the Interession this morning at 8:30. Sixty-two have already enrolled and a few more are expected. Each student has only one class—a three hour one—and will receive three semester hours of credit for his Interession work.

The students are practically all teachers or prospective teachers. The majority of them are working for their Bachelor's degree. Many are elementary teachers who are working up credits toward their degrees. Shippensburg, Millersville, and Clarion State Teachers' Colleges are the Alma Maters of many of the students. Other schools represented are Barrington's Training School, Dickinson, Lebanon Valley, Beckley

Twenty-two Enrolled For New Frosh Class

This summer Dr. Schlosser will continue his work in urging High School Seniors to enroll in Elizabethtown College. Dean Baugher and Dr. Musick will be his aides in this project.

Dr. Schlosser plans to begin his work after July 20, since he will attend the Annual Conference, held at Ames, Iowa, to which he is a Standing Committee Delegate.

According to the "Thermometer" in Dr. Schlosser's office, twenty-two freshmen have thus far enrolled and it is the opinion of the President that after canvassing approximately 200 miles in all directions around Elizabethtown, the enrollment will exceed that of the freshman class of last year.

Percentage Of Students Who Have Jobs Is High

Many of the students who have completed their work this spring have been successful in securing positions for next year. Of the four-year students who are graduating three have been definitely placed while six have good prospects. Another member of the class is entering the ministry and has received a charge.

There are thirty-one students completing the two-year elementary course. From this group twenty-two are definitely placed and three are not desirous of being placed.

DO WE HAVE HERMIT STUDENTS?

As we note the various types of students which are attending the University, we notice that one of the most peculiar species which the school seems to attract is the hermit scholar. Perhaps it seems that we have named him wrongly—more descriptive would have been the title of "Canary Bird Scholar," but we call him as we do only for want of a better name.

Dean J. H. Minnick Delivered A Very Interesting Address

High Scholarship Awards Were Given By Dr. Schlosser. Class
Pageant Very Splendidly Presented.

Dean J. H. Minnick, of the School of Education of the University of Pennsylvania, delivered an original broadminded address at the 32nd Annual Commencement here this forenoon before an audience of nearly five hundred. Twenty-seven candidates appeared for the various degrees, which were conferred by President Schlosser.

"Certain Educational Needs in our Changing Social Order," was the theme of Dean Minnick's address. He pointed out that we are not in a new social order but in a changing one. Three elements, however, remain unchangeable: human nature, change itself, and God Himself. Before our education can be complete our scholarship must make it possible for us to adjust ourselves to present conditions, to changing conditions, and must make it possible for us to adjust ourselves continually, maintained Dean Minnick. He concluded by saying that we need education that will train us to think, to discern what is right and proper, to see and appreciate the beautiful, and to strive toward high ideals.

Ann Reese gave the first of the honor orations, entitled "The Fond Many." Miss Reese contended that the fond many, the masses of our population, are too vacillating, too much blown about by every wind and doctrine. They subscribe to one political system now and in a few years subscribe to its death. Miss Reese advocated a democracy run by the intellectual few and subscribed to by the fond many. She concluded by stating that Education must affect the fond many in such a way that they will be able to judge their leaders and better themselves.

Kenneth L. Senior who graduated Magna Cum Laude named his oration, "Strengths by Strengths Do Fail." His thought rested about the contact between society and science. He pointed out that the strong philosophy of wise men often failed because of its strength. An artificial world, a robot to man, may finally destroy its maker because it has no soul and no conscience. Science will not fail as long as it has as its purpose the gaining of universal truth and happiness.

After the conferring of the degrees Dr. Schlosser awarded the J. G. Reber award for highest grades in Bible to Elsie Lindamood, of the Class of 1934. The award for highest biology grades went to Melvin Wagner, '35, and the chemistry award went to Kenneth L. Senior. David Schlosser splendidly rendered Mendelssohn's "Rondo Capriccioso," while the Ladies' Quartet sang "An Indian Cradle Song" and the Men's Quartet sang the "Pilgrim's Chorus."

Editorial

Another volume of Our College Times is closed with this issue. Improvements and advances have been made. First and most important of all, Our College Times has been admitted to the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association. The paper, however, could not have been admitted without some improvements. Even an inexperienced man can see the typographical improvements. Other changes were made and new features were added in order that we might keep in step with modern journalism. There is still, however, one outstanding lack—a well developed and wide awake Alumni department.

We are well aware of the fact that only a very small per cent of the alumni are subscribers to the college newspaper. We are also aware that it is not a lack of school spirit that causes this situation. The alumni have not been induced to subscribe; they have been neglected. College newspapers everywhere cater to the alumni, and rightly so. By closer connection with the alumni thru the school paper, the school will benefit tremendously. Educators recognize that a good school spirit usually spells good schools.

In the first volume of The Etownian we will inaugurate a new and larger alumni department. We will do our best to get the paper into the hands of the alumni so that it will have an opportunity to sell itself. The graduates who leave this spring will also do wisely to leave with us their subscription to The Etownian.

YOUTH AT THE CROSSROADS.

Youth again stands at the cross-roads. This is the time of the year for general turnovers on every college campus. Some are preparing to leave because of having completed what their goal had required. Others deem it advisable to wait for greater financial security before attempting to advance. Many, not knowing into what field they shall step merely slow up their career and wait for opportunities to open up which shall beckon them on. But still others whose gallant souls are found among youth everywhere, push forward against all the odds of criticism, physical strain, and financial stress to make themselves a place. They know what the old world needs. They've viewed greater horizons and see the need of christian trained men in all fields of endeavor.

Christian trained has come to mean more than merely being trained in a christian college. Service has become their watchword. Their's is a new knight's pledge of "For Christ and Humanity." They have resolved that income is not a dollar concept. That success is not measured in pecuniary trms or gold medals. But rather would they have the privilege of obtaining a smile from fever scorched lips, a God bless you from a beggar or a tender word of greeting from the poorest tenement than to be acclaimed as a powerful dictator, to be bedecked as a national hero, or to be followed as a millionaire. Their's is the apostleship of love. They live not to be served but to serve. They serve while they grow and they grow while they serve. To youth everywhere we pray such a concept.

From Here and There

A banquet for all basketball, baseball, and tennis players who will receive letters was held in the college dining room on May 30. The certificates granting the letters were presented by Dr. Schlosser. Dr. Schlosser commended Coach Herr on his fine spirit in dealing with his teams this year.

A Smith girl earned her car fare to a Princeton houseparty by charging Smith girls 25 cents apiece to see her swallow a live gold fish.

A week of thought will be held at Denver University, at which time three outstanding campus students will be given an opportunity to present their philosophies of life.

Aunt Sally's Kitchen hit a new peak of prosperity this week-end. Probably the twelve o'clock permissions had something to do with it.

The lake has been cleaned and is being allowed to fill up once more. The speed at which the filling up process is progressing (1 inch a day) reminds us of how "Navy" used to come to a 7:40 on a Monday morning after the night before.

Eckhart has another car. Better luck this time!

Things We Can Do Without

Joe College's favorite expression: "You chalked one up there." (Ned-row isn't a good score keeper anyway.)

Those "since time immemorial" vulgarisms: "I was afraid of that," and "he pulled a fast one."

Those clandestine meetings in Alpha Hall Classrooms.

Burnt cocoa for breakfast.

Overworked phrases, such as: "Not a hundred miles from here," "Now, unfortunately," "Question!" "Yes, yes," and "Take that as a referred question."

That toy fire engine on top of the fire alarm in the Fairview Apartments.

Dry, tasteless, arid, insipid, pointless humor, and incidently, this column.

Found among English Composition Papers.

WHAT! NO HOLES?

Have you ever observed the strict observance to the rule of walking on the right on rainy days? The next time it rains take time to notice how the students, and faculty, too, carefully keep to the right as they pass in and out of Alpha Hall. This courtesy must be deserved. No one likes wet feet any more than I do, and I do—but only when I can take off my shoes and socks and enjoy the pleasure.

I realize that holes in wood might not be conducive to longer wear, but several well placed holes across each step leading into Alpha Hall could correct what seems to be a necessary evil. A few deft turns of a brace and bit could do the trick, or we might borrow a revolver from the Chief of Police and shoot a few holes in appropriate places with some accuracy and more dispatch.

JUST A SMILE.

By Dorothy L. Bucher

A smile is one of the greatest things
To keep one from getting blue,
But the greatest smile I ever got
Was the one that came from you.

I missed it when you went away,
For you left and stayed so long,
So a little bird came to take your place
And it smiled to me thro' his song.

Its song was full of melodious notes
That rang through the air for miles,
But a thing more pleasant to me
Is one of your glorious smiles.

I longed for a smile to return to me
So I might be happy once more.
In days to come that longing ceased
And your smile I now adore.

Thanks, thanks to thee for thy return
For it gave to me much pleasure.
A friend like you I am happy to have
And your smile is my great treasure.

A BIT OF NATURE.

By Dorothy L. Bucher

Did you ever get up early
And watch the morning dew,
As it glistened in the sunshine
While the birds were singing too?

Did you notice thro' that morning,
As the birds sang sweeter still,
That the dew was disappearing
As you glanced across the hill?

Did you know that little flow'rlets
Always drink from Nature's cup?
That is why the dewdrops vanished
As the morning sun came up.

Did you know the bird's pipe organ
Was Mother Nature's stream?
The violets were the audience
That grew in heavenly gleam.

Did you ever sit in silence
And watch the fading ray
Of the sun as it was setting
At the close of one grand day?

DO WE HAVE HERMIT STUDENTS?

To this hermit student, sports, fraternities, and in fact, any sort of extra-curricular activities that afford social or personal contacts with other students are termed by him as "superfluous parts of a college education." His isolation socially has brought about greatly restricted visions of the expanses of human thought by his habitual focusing of his eyes upon columns of fine print rather than mingling with mankind in an effort toward a broadened view point. Our student under observation graduates with honor most often, but with an education of remarkably restricted type—socially and practically he graduates more or less "illiterate."

As these hermit scholars isolate themselves socially they are found to be isolated in thought as well. They look upon the text-book that they are using or the instructor whose course they are taking as an infallible guide to wisdom and understanding. Never, for a moment, do they consider that other authorities may present the case in an entirely different manner. A general education, we are told, is for the purpose of unsettling the student's mind. Obviously the hermit student has his mind unsettled during the first semester of his collegiate training, but the next seven semesters

Readers are asked to send in questions of interest to the students and alumni of the college.

The question for this week is: Do you think it is proper for a man to use his regular girl's car in order to take a fly-by-night ride in the moonlight?

M. Ray Cobaugh: Yes, and what's more, I think it would be a great idea to borrow some money from the "regular" to finance the party. In these days when everything is so hard to get, the truly modern Romeo must turn every trick into an advantage. Yes indeed, I repeat, it's a great idea but don't get caught!

Luke Buffenmyer: Yes and no; circumstances alter cases. If the man is in college and the girl is working, I think it not improper, if the two keep regular company. I think, however, it is altogether improper and repulsive for a man to use his regular girl's car to show another girl a good time. That's cheap.

Henry Bollinger: No. This opinion is based upon the past experience of others as well as my personal experience. I establish my beliefs on the following facts: (1) The regular girl would consider it a crime; (2) "Be sure your sins will find you out"; (3) you may never use the car again; (4) it may create a form of jealousy which in itself is hazardous.

A plan by which each class decides in the beginning of the semester whether or not it shall work on the honor system is being planned at the University of South Carolina.

tend to settle it again for him in a manner which sometimes remains fixed for life.

The "hermit" can be recognized, unfortunately, by still other varieties of mental isolation, any one of which will qualify him for admission to the order. The student who has decided that he wants to follow chemistry as a vocation, and who reluctantly takes courses outside this subject only for the required credits, is nothing short of the hermit scholar. The young physicist who objects to English Standards, or the agriculturalist who strenuously opposes the "damnable" chemistry lab are merely isolating themselves, unmindful that there are other things to be acquired than those which apparently lie in their own narrow fields. The physicist and the agriculturalist have their ambitions, it is true, and perhaps may ultimately achieve renown, but invariably they will be unable to balance their gains with their losses.

To the bystander the hermit scholar is a pitiable figure as he ventures from his rooming house in a hurry with a slide rule or a brief case to go to a class or the library. Not to be confined to the list of undergraduates alone, the "hermit" may also be observed in the ranks of the instructors and professors as well—we notice him quite often at luncheon until someone mentions the field in which he has busied himself in intensive research work.

In our state are places where men are living lifelong hermitages in narrow cells—hermitages from which they cannot escape. For many of such individuals we cannot but feel a certain element of pity at the thought of their condition—for the "hermit," who writes his own condemnation by voluntary isolation, there can be only disgust.

Alumni Defeats Varsity Tennis Team Saturday

A meager group of spectators was thrilled Saturday forenoon by a battle royal between Eshleman, Almnistar, and Nevin Zuck of the varsity. Tired by the heat and run ragged by Eshleman's well-placed shots, Zuck finally succumbed, 12-10. The alumni chalked up five singles and one double match to remain undefeated.

Cassel won his first set with Dieter without trouble; but faltered in the last two. Weaver went down before Kaylor, an excellent player, in two straight sets. MacDonald, too, found Coach Dan Myers too strong for him and lost in two sets. Bucher took one set from Crouthamel and then lost the next two. Eshleman, a member of the Elizabethtown tennis team, took over Zuck without difficulty in his first set, but was forced to the limit in the second thrilling set. Cassel and Weaver lost two straight sets to Crouthamel and Dieter in the only double match of the day.

Elizabethtown Defeats Maryland 6-5

Thome Pitches Excellent Game And Smashes Out Winning Hit In Ninth

In a thrilling uphill battle the Elizabethtown lads closed the current baseball season by eeking out a 6-5 victory over the Maryland State Teachers College nine on the College athletic field today.

Although pitching superb ball, allowing the Teachers but five hits all afternoon, "Art" Thome personally decided the issue, when in the ninth inning with Miller and Trout on the paths and the score deadlocked at 5-5, he delivered a natty double along the right foul line to send in the winning run from second base. Thome also collected another two-bagger and a single to lead the Elizabethtown batters in their 12 hit assault on Johnson, the Maryland pitcher.

There was no scoring by either team in the first two innings. However, in the Elizabethtown half of the second with one man out Royer and Thome connected for consecutive singles, but were left stranded. In the third with the aid of a triple by Johnson, a single by Jaffie, and an error, Maryland pushed across two runs assume the lead. In the fourth the Teachers increased their lead by one run on a single by Fost and two Elizabethtown errors. In the E-town half of the fourth with two men out Royer sent a single out, but to no avail. Maryland went scoreless in the fifth, but Elizabethtown pushed across their first run in the inning with the aid of consecutive doubles by Weaver and Bucher, and a sacrifice by Lander. Scoring activities were checked until the seventh inning when with the aid of Johnson's double and errors by Bucher and Krall, the Teachers tallied two more runs to end their scoring for the day and bring the score up to 5-1. Then came the eighth inning, a final spurt by E-town, and before the last out was made four runs had been sent across the pentagon and the score tied at 5-5. In this inning after Lentz walked, Espenshade and Trout singled, Miller grounded out and Thome doubled to send two runs home. Royer followed with a short Texas leaguer and with a slow relay of the ball, Royer took second while Thome remained at third. Weaver then drilled a short single into right field, scoring both Thome and Royer. In the ninth came Thome's breakup hit and E-town ended the season with a victory.

Philadelphia Alumni Holds Meeting May 26

The Philadelphia Branch of the alumni and former students of the college held their annual meeting Saturday, May 26, at the Joseph N. Cassel home near Norristown.

Dr. Schlosser and Professor Rose were the college representatives. Dr. Schlosser gave a resume of the present year and outlined plans for the growth of the college. Professor Rose spoke of the activities of the Alumni Association and presented plans to interest more of the alumni.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Wm. J. Wadsworth, '09; Vice-President, Anna K. Cassel, '32; Secretary-Treasurer, Mary K. Brill, '31.

In addition to the above mentioned the following were present: Wm. J. Wadsworth, Rosa Schwartz, '29, Gertrude Minninger, Catharine Detwiler, Dora M. Ziegler, Carrie W. Ellis, Harold D. Campbell, Joseph N. Cassel, Franklin K. Cassel, Esther K. Cassel, Esther Rupert and Mary Emma Cassel.

Schlosser preached the Baccalaureate sermon in the Auditorium. He took as his text the first verse of the twelfth chapter of Romans. He interpreted Saint Paul as beseeching us to live the good life rather than make our religion a thing of formal ceremony.

A girls' and boys' octette rendered several selections. The latter's rendition of "Remember Now Thy Creator" was particularly commendable.

Friday evening the Senior Class presented an original pageant depicting the history of free education in Pennsylvania. The scenes presenting the passing of the Public School Act and a day of school in 1940 were very accurate as well as entertaining. The Senior Class is to be congratulated upon this faithful presentation.

By removing 99.9 per cent of the water and sealing them in a vacuum, serums used in the treatment of diseases may now be kept for indefinite lengths of time, a Haverford professor has announced.

The popular dance melody "Temptation" was recently banned from a Utah University dance when the president denounced it saying it was "obscene."

ALUMNI MEETING

was held in the College Chapel, at 3 o'clock, Saturday afternoon. John M. Miller, '05, presided.

The members of the Class of 1934, twenty-six in number, who complete their courses in June and August, were elected to membership in the Association. A memorial to the late Isaac J. Kreider, '16, was presented and ordered to be published in the alumni edition of the College Bulletin.

Professor L. D. Rose, '11, Secretary, reported on alumni activities during the year. He reported organization meetings in Harrisburg, Juniata Valley and Cumberland Valley. Groups previously organized met during the year. He also reported a record number of 136 active members for the year, which is slightly better than 20 per cent. of the membership, and outlined plans to increase the number.

J. W. Kettering, '23, Treasurer, reported a balance of $295.60 in the General Fund, $576.28 in the Student Loan Fund and a total of $1617.59, making the total assets of the Association $2489.27.

The Association approved the proposition to amend Article 5 of the Constitution so as to eliminate the preliminary ballot and substitute a nominating committee. Members will be asked to vote on this proposition next year. It was also decided to dispense with the forwarding of Christmas greetings to the members this year. The Secretary was authorized to begin the indexing of the members, as well as transfer of records to card files.

The following elections were reported: President, John G. Hershey, '16; Vice-President, Dr. Chas. E. Weaver, '26; Secretary, L. D. Rose, '11; Alumni Council, D. L. Landis, '05; Alumni Trustee, A. G. Breidenstine, '27.

Some courses are illuminating. In History of Education on one particular (McAllisterville pronunciation) occasion, we learned the date of the beginning of the first female college. This is great stuff for me because I always wanted to know where they get the idea of an Alma Mater instead of an Alma Pater. Miss Shallenberger later told me that a female college is one attended by girls. I suppose it follows that a male college is one attended by boys; this being the case, you may have the pleasure of naming the co-ed schools!

The payoff came the other day when Cyrus Bucher stated that he would like to take a trip to Cuba to learn to speak Spanish. This wasn't so bad until some unkind person recommended a brief tour of England. But Bucher isn't alone with trick pronunciations. Anna Reese is still holding out against social pressure with a very deceptive (not to say ludicrous) way of pronouncing plural words ending in "es".

Nearing the end of the school year, many of us, who had formerly been intrigued with the idea, cannot but wonder what has happened to the elaborate plans laid by the Forensic Arts Club. Where are all the benefits that were supposed to be showered on the general forensic program? Where is the delightful unity and efficiency that was supposed to characterize the operations of the Men's and Women's Debating Associations?

Dr. Kiracofe will serve on the summer session faculty for the University of Virginia.

Professor Rose will pursue his duties of librarian and teaching.

Professor Saylor, Professor and Mrs. Wenger, Professor and Mrs. E. G. Meyer, Miss Bowman, Professor Shortess, and Professor D. E. Myers will all be instructors in the summer session at the College.

You're right. We'll study next summer.
